BOND DRIVE BEGINS FINAL WEEK, STILL 25 MILLION SHORT

Leaders Worried Over Decline in Individual Sales — 84.2 Per Cent of Quota Pledged.

BUYING IN SERIES E ONLY HALF OF GOAL

Overnight Purchases of $5,455,375 Reported, Making Total of $134,380,675.

The Fourth War Loan drive in St. Louis and St. Louis County entered its final week today with a subscription total of $134,380,675—still $25,048,325 short of the community's $159,429,000 goal.

The present total represents 84.2 per cent of the quota. The overnight sales report showed an increase of $5,455,375 over yesterday's tabulations.

Campaign leaders continued to feel great concern over the decrease in individual subscriptions, a preliminary report yesterday showing that only 14 million dollars in Series E bonds had thus far been purchased. The community has a goal of 28 millions in this denomination.

"Our big problem during these few remaining days," said Chairman Walter J. Hein of the Metropolitan St. Louis Committee, "is to prevail upon thousands of individuals to buy more bonds. We are appealing to their patriotism and their community pride, and reminding them that purchase of war bonds is a sound investment which will return dividends.

"I am sure we can count on the individuals in this community to come forward voluntarily and make the investment which will put St. Louis over the top again."

Extra Extra Purchases Urged.

The time has come, Rufus R. Clabaugh, Campaign Committee chairman, said, for St. Louisans to begin "purchasing extra extra bonds." "We are uncomfortably short of our goal," he said, "and that gap can only be bridged now by more subscriptions from individuals."

A total of $1,010,909 in bonds has been sold by members of the St. Louis County unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services, which maintains sales booths in banks and business houses in the county.

5 County Towns Exceed Goals.

Ferguson and Chesterfield have exceeded their bond drive quotas, bringing to five the number of St. Louis County communities that have passed their goals. Ferguson, with a quota of $225,000, has raised $245,978, and Chesterfield has exceeded its $44,000 goal by $8062. The other communities are Wellston, Overland and Normandy.

Walter W. Head, chairman of the Missouri Campaign Committee, told more than 500 Metropolitan St. Louis campaign workers meeting at Hotel Jefferson last night that the State bond total now exceeded 251 million dollars. The Missouri quota is 282 millions.

GIRL, 2, FALLS IN HOLE IN WALK, SEARCHERS UNABLE TO FIND HER

'Just Disappeared,' Aunt Says — Old Mines Underneath Pennsylvania Town.

PITTSTON, Pa., Feb. 8 (AP).—A frantic woman reported today her two-year-old niece had fallen into a great hole that suddenly opened up in a sidewalk.

Jule Ann Folmer "just disappeared" into the crack as she was walking on a shopping trip, Mrs. Marie Mitchell said.

Scores of police, firemen, Red Cross workers and miners went to the scene of the cave-in prepared for rescue work.

A fireman, first down the hole, came up without finding a trace of the girl. He reported the opening of the cave-in was not large but there was enough room from slides underneath to lower men on ropes. It was feared the girl might be buried.

The girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Folmer. Her father is a Navy seaman.

Old anthracite mines, some of them abandoned, underlie the city and cave-ins have done considerable damage to surface property in recent years.

SETTLING OF MINES DAMAGING HOUSES AT GILLESPIE, ILL.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GILLESPIE, Ill., Feb. 8. — A mine "squeeze" has caused earth cracks to appear in several residential blocks of this city of 4400, under which are several abandoned coal mine tunnels, Police Chief Elmer Jones reported today.

"Nine or 10 houses, most of them occupied by miners, developed cracks in basement walls as the earth settled early yesterday morning," Jones said, "but thus far there is no evidence of any major damage, and none of the families is moving. The earth cracks are an inch wide at the most. I found them over an area of three or four blocks."

A depression about 6 inches deep and a few feet wide was found in one of the streets, Jones added. The area affected is in the southern section of the city.

Alexander Duncan, assistant superintendent of the Superior Coal Co., whose No. 1 and No. 8 mines run under the city, said the subsidence apparently occurred in unused workings between the two mines. Workmen were kept from both shafts yesterday, but mining operations were resumed today.

NAZIS DRIVE SHEEP AHEAD OF THEM TO EXPLODE MINES

Tactic Recalls French Use of Pigs in No-Man's-Land on Western Front.

AT THE FIFTH ARMY BEACHHEAD, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Germans attempted to neutralize an Allied minefield yesterday by driving a flock of sheep close to our front line so that their hoofs would explode the buried charges.

This is an old trick. During the early days of the war, in 1939, the French drove pigs into no-man's-land to explode German mines.

DAMAGED PLANE SINKS U-BOAT

Catalina Bomber Attacks After It Is Hit by Antiaircraft Fire.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Roaring on to attack despite being struck by heavy antiaircraft fire, a United States Navy consolidated Catalina bomber sank a German submarine in the South Atlantic "some months ago," the Navy reported today.

Survivors of the U-boat's crew subsequently were picked up by the U. S. S. Siren, a converted yacht acting as patrol vessel under command of Lt. Comdr. Charles K. Post, Bayport, N. Y. The survivors had been adrift for 16 days in life rafts before they were found.

MORE MONEY IN CIRCULATION

$149 a Person—Smallest Monthly Gain in Year.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Money in circulation registered its smallest increase in more than a year during January to reach a total of $20,513,131,023 at month's end. A Treasury report today placed the gain over Dec. 31 at $63,743,416, contrasted with a 531-million-dollar November to December jump.

On a per capita basis, the Jan. 31 total represented $149.12 for each man, woman and child in the country, compared with $148.82 on Dec. 31 and $114.80 at the end of January a year ago, when the total in circulation was $15,589,577,244.

Union Office Girls Win Sit-down Against CIO Man Who Fired One

DETROIT, Feb. 8 (AP).—The women of the United Office and Professional Workers of America (CIO) had the last word in their intra-office, sitdown-strike dispute with Ben Probe, secretary of the Michigan CIO Council.

After Probe told his secretary Jan. 18 that her services would no longer be required, she and five other girls employed in the offices of the State CIO Council, all members of the uiion, sat down—forcing Probe to answer his own telephones and write his own letters.

The union local with which the girls were affiliated rebuked them for striking, but referred the dispute to an arbitrator. Yesterday the arbitrator, Charles Edgecomb, accused both Probe and the girls of violating the "ethics of good union" practice—but he directed Probe to keep his secretary and ruled he violated the CIO Council's contract with the union in trying to fire her.

SENATE ACCEPTS BOTH PLANS FOR SOLDIER VOTES

Attaches Federal Ballot Bill to 'States' Rights' Measure, Sends It Back to House.

VOTE TO COMBINE TWO IS 46 TO 40

Taft's Third Attempt to Include His Compromise Proposal Is Beaten, 45 to 41.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Senate sent the soldier-vote controversy back to the House today after the administration succeeded in attaching its Federal ballot proposal to the House-approved "states' rights" bill for service voting by a 46-to-40 division. Final action on the House bill then was taken without a record vote.

If the House declines to accept the revised measure, the issue will go to a conference committee of Senate and House members in an effort to draft a compromise acceptable to both branches of Congress.

On attaching the modified Green-Lucas Federal-ballot plan to the House bill, Senators Clark and Truman of Missouri, both Democrats, voted for the amendment, as did Senator Lucas (Dem.), Illinois. Senator Brooks (Rep.), Illinois, was against the amendment.

Taft Proposal Beaten Again.

Before Senate action was completed, Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, lost, 45 to 41, another attempt—his third—to put the language of his compromise proposal into the bill. It would have sent Federal ballots only to those voters whose states fail to provide state ballots.

The "states' rights" bill, leaving service voting up to the individual states, was adopted by the House last week by an overwhelming vote. Before the Senate agreed to the House bill today, however, it pinned the Federal ballot proposal onto it, thereby putting both sides of the controversy in the measure.

The Green-Lucas bill would send Federal ballots overseas and to military personnel in this country for votes on President, Vice-President and members of Congress.

Toward the end of the long debate, leaders of all factions indicated a desire to send the problem to conference.

Federal Plan Amended.

Early in the day, the administration further amended its Federal-ballot bill to make it possible for service men and women overseas to cast state absentee ballots if state ballot forms are available.

Senate backers of the Green-Lucas measure accepted a change proposed by Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, which would give overseas personnel a choice between Federal and state ballots. The amendment, providing the overseas voters might use the Federal ballot if they fail to receive a state ballot in time to vote, was adopted 62 to 20 on a roll call.

Originally, under the Green-Lucas bil,l Federal ballots would have gone. to all overseas voters

DEAN INGE SAYS BRITISH INDUSTRIAL ERA WON'T RETURN

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Very Rev. Dr. William R. Inge, former dean of St. Paul's, told the Ruskin Society today that Great Britain as an industrial nation would not and could not recover from the war.

"I believe the episode in our history when we were a great wealthy nation has come to an end and we shall gradually slide back into pre-industrial England with a population of 20 millions, consisting mainly of agriculturists working healthily in the open air, and a number of small tradesmen in town," said the "gloomy dean."

"Whether we like it or not, it is coming to that."

LOW-LEVEL RAID MADE BY DAY ON TENTS MARKED BY RED CROSSES

92 Casualties Include U. S. Nurses and Doctors — Evacuation Center on Anzio Plain, Not Near Military Targets.

ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Feb. 8 (AP).—The death toll in the German bombing of the American evacuation hospital had reached 27 tonight, with 65 wounded still in critical condition.

ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Feb. 7.—(Delayed).—A German plane dive-bombed an American evacuation hospital at 3:30 p. m. today, killing 26 and wounding 43 persons, among them a number of American nurses.

The killed included two woman nurses, four doctors, four wounded doughboys who had just been carried in from the front, and 16 enlisted men attached to the hospital unit.

Among the 43 wounded were a dozen woman nurses, three of whom were in grave condition.

The German bomber, which eyewitnesses said came in as low as 500 feet, dropped eight small antipersonnel bombs which sent shrapnel whistling through two hospital receiving tents, one evacuation tent, two ward tents, an X-ray tent and an operating tent where operations even then were under way.

Shrapnel also perforated tents where a number of women nurses were sleeping on cots after doing night duty. Three ambulances were struck.

The head doctor was one of those wounded.

(A dispatch from John Lardner, representing the combined American press, emphasized that the hospital was "on a naked plain a full mile from any military installation."

(Both Lardner and Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent, said the hospital was clearly marked with Red Crosses.

(Calling it "a deliberate attack," De Luce said two Nazi fighter bombers delivered the blow.)

(De Luce said the figures were given him by Lt. Col. Hubert L. Binkley, Denver, Colo., hospital executive officer who escaped injury, but that the death toll was mounting.)

NO NEWS, SAYS F. D. R. ON WHETHER HE'LL RUN AGAIN

Replies to Question by Resorting to What He Calls the Old Killer of Stories.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt resorted to what he termed the old killer of stories today—word that there was no news on the matter—to answer a direct question as to whether he would accept a fourth term nomination.

The question was injected into a press conference during a discussion of politics which Roosevelt agreed was somewhat confusing.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt will be entered in the Illinois presidential preferential primary April 11, Chairman Edward P. Allen of the Democratic State Central Committee said today. The President was on the 1936 and 1940 ballots in the advisory poll, which is not binding on convention delegates.

V-MAIL LIPSTICK KISSES OK

New York A. P. O. to Permit Them If Planted on Letter Corner.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—V-mail letters bearing lipstick kisses—which recently irked Army officials in Chicago—still will be photographed and sent overseas by the New York Army Post Office, providing the kisses are properly implanted.

New York port postal authorities said the ideal V-mail kiss is placed lightly in one corner where it will not interfere with writing or smudge letters. They advised against letters overloaded with lipstick, saying an extra coat will produce a smear.

First Battle Scenes From Marshalls

U. S. SUBMARINES CISCO, S-44 LOST, NAVY ANNOUNCES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The American submarines Cisco and S-44 are overdue from patrol and must be presumed to be lost, the Navy announced today.

The Navy gave no details, but both presumably were operating in the Pacific, where American submarines have been taking a heavy toll of Japanese shipping.

The new losses bring to 19 the number of American submarines lost since the war started and the total number of United States naval vessels lost to 141. Against those losses our submarines have sunk 422 Japanese vessels, including warships.

Comdr. James W. Coe of Richmond, Ind., in charge of the Cisco, was listed as missing in action. The Cisco, one of the newest type American submarines, was commissioned only last May. It had a displacement of 1525 tons and carried a crew of approximately 65 men.

Lt. Comdr. Francis E. Brown commanded the S-44. It was 18 years old, had a displacement of only 850 tons and carried a crew of about 45. Brown, also listed as missing in action, had given his address as Reno, Nev. His wife, Mrs. Juanita L. Brown, lives at Long Beach, Cal.

The Navy said next of kin of personnel of both vessels have been notified.

8122 JAPS KILLED, 286 U. S. DEAD IN THE MARSHALLS

By WILLIAM HIPPLE

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 8 (AP).—The most powerful American fleet ever thrown into battle, an air force which drove the enemy from the skies and deadly accurate artillery fire struck with such co-ordinated fury in the Marshalls invasion that only 286 of the American invaders were killed—against at least 8122 Japanese.

Even including 82 Americans missing, that made it more than 20 Japanese killed for each one of ours. That ratio is the more remarkable considering that this opening blow at the Marshalls was struck at Kwajalein atoll in the center and that the Japanese had been there for 25 years.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, announcing the figures yesterday, reported 1148 Americans were wounded. The number of Japanese taken prisoner also was unusually large, 264.

The Seventh Army division, which captured Kwajalein Island and adjacent islets in the Southern part of the atoll, suffered the heaviest casualties: 157 dead, 712 wounded and 17 missing. However, the largest number of Japanese, 4650, were killed in this area and 173 were taken prisoner.

The Fourth Marine Division, which captured Roi, Namur and adjacent objectives to the north, lost 129 dead, 436 wounded and 65 missing. In the Roi-Namur area, 3472 Japanese were killed and 91 taken prisoner.

The low American casualties

RUSSIANS DEFEAT 7 DIVISIONS ON LOWER DNIEPER

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Red Army has liquidated the German bridgehead at Nikopol, driving the Nazis from their last stronghold east of the lower Dnieper, and has captured the city of Nikopol across the river, Premier Stalin announced tonight.

In two orders of the day, broadcast by the Moscow radio, Stalin said the Russians in the Dnieper bend had defeated seven infantry divisions in a four-day offensive to clear a bridgehead 72 miles wide and 21 miles deep, and then had gone on to seize Nikopol, important manganese mining center. He reported Soviet troops also had taken Kamenka, in the Zaporozhe region, and 40 other populated places.

The Germans now have been cleared from all territory east of the Dnieper except in its thin upper reaches above Gomel.

One of the Russian generals responsible for the triumph was Feodor I. Tolbuhkin, hero of Stalingrad and commander of the Fourth Ukrainian Army. The other was Rodion Y. Malinovsky of the Third Ukrainian Army, whose men blasted into the eastern suburbs of Nikopol yesterday while others moved in from the west against the German garrison which had been ordered to stand to the end.

The mines of the Nikopol area had produced much of the manganese (a steel-hardening element) used by the German war

TROOPS IN ANZIO AREA ALSO UNDER HEAVY SHELLING; BIG BATTLE NEAR 19 German Planes Downed Over Landing Zone—Fighting in Cassino Slackens, Yanks Push Up Mountain.

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Feb. 8 (AP).—Waves of German planes struck at the Allied invasion beachhead below Rome in a strong attack yesterday, headquarters announced today, and thunderous artillery shelling continued in prelude to an impending major battle.

The Allied air force again demonstrated its mastery of Italian skies by shooting down 19 of the 70 Focke-Wulf fighter-bombers which attacked the Allied beach positions. Most of the German formations were broken up before reaching their objectives.

An American Negro fighter squadron accounted for three of the Focke-Wulfs. Five more Nazi planes and two gliders were shot down over other parts of Italy. The Allies lost five planes.

Front dispatches last night said the Germans were firing thousands of shells into the 100-square-mile beachhead, throwing as many as 700 shells into a single area in 15 minutes. German patrols were said to be probing Allied positions all along the line.

Cassino Street Fighting.

Heavy artillery barrages continued in the Cassino area, but field reports said the intensity of street fighting in the town itself slackened yesterday, with troops of both sides wearied by battle.

The Americans made new gains on Mount Cassino, fighting up its northern slopes against numerous German pillboxes and machine-gun nests. The Germans resisted fiercely because the hill dominates Cassino and their corridor to it.

Although the Americans have nearly surrounded Cassino, the Germans still hold three-quarters of it and have kept open a corridor to their rear lines.

Five hundred Germans have been captured by United States troops in the Cassino area.

Elsewhere on the Fifth Army front there was active patrolling, and a Nazi attack on Mount Ornito was beaten off. Two German patrol raids on Orsogna on the Eighth Army sector were repulsed. Allied patrols shot up an enemy gun battery.

Allied medium bombers rained explosives yesterday on German troops and supplies at Cisterna, key communications center 26 miles southeast of Rome.

Fighter-bombers also lashed at rail and road targets behind the German lines, the communique said. Medium bombers attacked rail yards at Viterbo and oil storage tanks at the port of Leghorn.

KWAJALEIN BLASTED TO RUBBLE IN HISTORIC BOMBARDMENT

JAP DEFENSES SO SHATTERED YANKS HAD NO LOSS IN LANDING

Not Even Crabs Left Alive on Beaches, Trees Blown to Bits, Soil Torn Away, Foe Buried in Debris.

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands, Feb. 8 (AP).—In one of the world's historic artillery bombardments, American guns destroyed, as nearly as it is possible to destroy land itself, the northwest end of Kwajalein Island.

Nothing that was there when this blanket of hot steel fell is alive—no men, no trees, not even tiny crabs which were scuttling through the coral, nor minute devilfish which lived in holes in the reef.

There were battleships, cruisers, destroyers, aircraft and a highly important concentration of Army field artillery. Their sights all pointed one way—toward a strip of coral beach roughly 1500 yards long and barely 300 yards deep.

The sea-going artillery and planes began working on this strip, increasing their battering steadily for three days until at least one battleship was lying just a mile offshore and firing its heaviest guns. At a range of a mile you can almost feel the muzzle blast of a 16-inch gun. What its huge shells do on hitting is a bit of concentrated destruction which changes the entire aspect of the countryside.

Our dive bombers kept dropping lower and lower until they were at a maximum dive, and our fighters were strafing the smoke-wreathed beach.

Hub-to-Hub Artillery Fire.

The payoff came after Army pieces lined up on Enubuj Island, three-fourths of a mile long. In places there was only enough room between the hub of the gun carriages to allow the crews to operate. Enubuj is only a little over two miles from the tortured invasion beach on Kwajalein.

For Army artillery this range is so short that the guns hardly need be raised from the level position. But a good half of Enubuj Island had to be denuded of palm trees to give the guns open spaces through which to fire.

At a prearranged hour these guns began simultaneous blasting. Scores of missiles were in the air within seconds after the signal was given. Thereafter for hours there was no second when several shells were not en route to this one tiny objective.

I sat on the south tip of Enubuj with cotton in my ears and a helmet on my head to lessen the effects of the concussion. Behind us the tiny island quivered constantly. The remaining trees bent as if in a high wind.

The blast was so great that men could go from end to end of Enubuj only by following the beaches, thus skirting the center of the inadequately named field of fire. Smoke from powder charges swirled over the entire island.

There was no question of hitting the target. The only question was of how much steel should be necessary to reduce it literally to broken bits of wood and steel.

Invasion Covered by Barrage.

This went on for hours. At times we could not see Kwajalein Island for the smoke hovering over it. Fire broke out, burned fiercely and died for lack of further fuel. When the smoke cleared we could see occasional cascades of rock rising where the shells hit, and pillars of flame and smoke where they blackened trees or destroyed frame structures.

Meanwhile the infantry moved in. This is an inadequate description of hundreds of amphibious landing vehicles and boats moving in from ships offshore toward Kwajalein under the screeching roof of shells. Sometimes they were covered by smoke of their own shells bursting ahead of them.

After an hour the first of them went out of sight on the reef just as the barrage lifted enough to permit their landing. The guns continued to pound the area inland where the Jap defenders might still be. The only sound to indicate the progress of the landing was the roar of landing craft motors which reached us like the sound of a thousand airplane motors whenever there was a lull in the artillery blasts.

After more than two hours of steady firing, the barrage was replaced by what military men call firing on order, that is, firing at small specific targets which the infantry may want reduced to permit single advances over a few yards of beach or across a narrow stretch of terrain.

This firing was done by individual guns or single batteries.

Devastation on Beach.

At noon of that day (last Tuesday) I went to Kwajalein. There was literally nothing left of this beach. I have no idea of how it looked before the artillery hit, only a faint idea of what the Japanese defenses were. No tree was left standing, only barren stumps. There were blockhouses here, but they are now only twisted blocks of concrete and steel. Those which had been made of coconut logs and dirt are hard even to find. If they weren't literally blown apart they were covered so that the men in them smothered.

If some monstrous plow had been pulled across this end of the island, furrow next to furrow, it could not have done a more complete job of turning the topsoil down and bringing up the coral.

The bombardment left no indication of whether this end of the island was covered with grass between the trees, or whether the soil was hidden under coconut fronds. There is only loose dirt thrown indiscriminately into piles with rock, scooped out of holes so enormous they are being used as regimental headquarters.

Col. Mark Logie, commanding one regiment, estimated his men found some 50 Japanese dead in their first 500 yard advance. The regiment on his flank reported about 100. Undoubtedly dozens or hundreds were buried under the rubble in natural graves never to be found.

In any event, the infantry found such slight resistance no Americans were killed on the beaches which the artillery had worked over.

Defenses Inferior to Tarawa's.

There is no indication on Kwajalein that Japanese defenses will grow tougher as American arms penetrate farther into the enemy's empire.

A comparison between this island and Tarawa, captured in late November in the Gilbert Islands invasion, supports the theory of some military leaders, particularly Maj. Gen. Willis Hale of the Seventh Air Force, that American Marines hit the best the Japs had at that atoll.

While defenses west of here are much older and possibly much larger, it does not follow that they will be any better.

The fact is, the defenses of Kwajalein, if anything, are qualitatively inferior to those at Tarawa.

At Tarawa the United States Marines met 8-inch coastal guns and a variety of smaller weapons, including numerous dual purpose weapons, about five inchers.

At Kwajalein, the largest gun yet captured was a dual mount, six-inch set up (which incidentally did no firing after our sea and land artillery laid down its annihilating fire on the beach.)

Tarawa had coconut log and concrete pillboxes in depth, which means that they were so placed that there was always at least one more within range of any one the Marines knocked out. Kwajalein had similar pillboxes in depth; but the free intervals between them were larger than at Tarawa.

The only Jap field pieces yet found are ancient, high wheeled guns similar to those shown in the most familiar pictures of the Russian-Japanese war of 1905. These have sighting arrangement comparable to those of the Civil War guns on court house lawns in American home towns. Some have wooden wheels.

JAP ADMIRAL WHO 'CRUSHED U. S. FLEET' KILLED IN ACTION

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Tokyo radio said today in a domestic broadcast that Japanese V. Adm. Teruo Akiyama had been killed in action "on the southern front," but gave no details.

"He is a warrior who rendered meritorious services in crushing the enemy American fleet at one stroke in a night attack at the mouth of a certain bay during a certain month last year," said the broadcast.

JAPANESE PASSENGER SHIP FOUNDERS; 500 MISSING

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Japanese passenger steamer Suisui Maru foundered near Kagoshima Sunday with 700 persons aboard and 500 of them are missing, the German news agency DNB said last night.

Kagoshima is a major port of Kyushu, southernmost of the main Japanese islands. The cause of the ship's sinking was not stated.

U. S. Bomber Prepares the Way in the Marshalls

A Mitchell bomber sweeps low over Maloelap atoll to plant more bombs amid burning Japanese installations. This attack was made late in January as American forces were preparing to invade Kwajalein atoll.

Doom of Jap Dream of Empire Shown in Inferiority in Marshalls

Enemy's Defenses Outnumbered, Vulnerable to Shattering Power of American Weapons.

By HAL O'FLAHERTY

ON NAMUR ISLAND, Kwajalein Atoll, Marshall Islands, Feb. 3 (Delayed).—At 4:45 p. m., Feb. 2, Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, commanding the Fourth Marine Division, gave the order for raising the Stars and Stripes on Kwajalein atoll, thereby marking a profound moment in the world's history and the turning point in the subjugation of Japan.

Japan's defenses in the Marshall Island group— its naval strength, its air force and its military force in this area—have been obliterated. In this entire operation, not one Japanese plane has been sighted; not one submarine has attacked our gigantic fleet; not one shot was fired by a Japanese naval ship.

It would have been suicidal for the defenders to attempt interference. Our mighty fleet sailed into Japanese territory and in three days of terrible, shattering bombardment, reduced the northern end of Kwajalein atoll, comprising the islands of Roi, Namur and five smaller ones, to wreck and ruin.

Here, amid dismembered bodies surrounded by chaos, can be found the poignant truth that Japan is an inferior nation, misguided and misgoverned, and lacking the creative power to fulfill its arrogant dreams of dominating all Asia. Its doom is sealed.

Fortifications Vulnerable.

Every man connected with this task force, from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz down, knew from the start of the Marshall operations that Japan's defenders would face death or surrender. They died by the hundreds, stacked in piles under reinforced concrete shelters, Japan's idea of fortifying this important link in its chain of Pacific defenses. These concrete fortresses, many with walls three to four feet thick, proved as vulnerable as Belgium's forts at Liege in 1914. Obviously, Japan began building these concrete houses and rounded bombproofs after the First World War. They are incapable of withstanding modern explosives.

The final assault on Roi and Namur began early on the morning of Feb. 1. On the upper deck of our flagship long before daylight, groups of officers and men lined the rails, watching broadsides from every type of warship surrounding the islands. As the air pulsed and throbbed with the firing, low clouds caught the yellow-orange color of the fire from gun muzzles, flashing across the sky like a sheet of solid flame. With each passing minute the firing tempo increased until the first light of dawn brought a distant glimpse of rolling black smoke and fountains of earth, sand and water, shooting upward and receding.

Clouds, hanging low, made a somber background for the greatest concentration of explosives on such a limited area in all history. The explosions, first seen and then heard, cracked into the eardrums and forced air from the lungs of spectators four and five miles out at sea.

Swarms of Planes.

Then came planes, swarm after swarm, dropping bombs by the hundreds, until the islands faded from view.

This continued without pause until noon. Battleships, cruisers and destroyers, plainly seen around us, blazed interminably while planes circled, swooped and dove on targets.

Moving slowly, inexorably up the lagoon toward the inner beaches of Roi and Namur came a fleet of great landing craft. In an arc to the southward their strange outlines made a continuous line against the clouded horizon.

Here was America's answer. This was the new amphibious fleet, capable of carrying an infinite brood of small landing craft into a reefbound atoll.

Just as the hour for sending Marines into the beaches arrived, a heavy tropical cloudburst blotted out the majestic spectacle. Sheets of rain continued for half an hour. Then the wind pushed back this curtain and revealed the stage for the final act of the tragedy.

The Landing Party.

Those of us privileged to follow the first Marines ashore gathered at the rail of R. Adm. Richard L. Connolly's flagship and looked down the side at the tiny landing craft.

"This is it," I said to my colleagues—Robert Trumbull of the New York Times and John Beaufort of the Christian Science Monitor—as we swung over the rail and down a swaying scramble net, and dropped into the cramped space of a Higgins boat along with a score or more of Marine officers and men. Waves broke over us and we were all soaked. But the hot sun dried the salt water as we gazed on the blazing smoke-covered islands ahead.

Threading our tortuous way through myriad ships, we emerged on a beach of indescribable confusion and noise. Up to our knees in surf, we splashed onto coral gravel and climbed over obstacles to the beach control commanded by a young Lieutenant from South Carolina.

"What outfit are you with?" we asked.

"Seabees," he said, "and don't ever say again that the Seabees come in a week after the fight ends. My men are up there in the thick of it."

Our impression, when we came ashore three hours after the first Marines landed, was that resistance had ended; that the islands were cleared of those Japs who had survived the bombardment. As a matter of fact, thinking it was just a matter of moving slowly through the ruins and getting the stories of the men who had cleared a path through both Roi and Namur Islands, we fell in with a company of Marines.

Bullets Sing Overhead.

There was a continuous din of machine gun and rifle fire. Our line of Marines suddenly took cover, back of the concrete foundations of a shattered building. A hailstorm of viciously singing bullets went overhead and we knew that this was combat.

Beside us, his rifle at ready, with fixed bayonet, crouched Pvt. Jack Serret of New Orleans. He looked startled when we asked his name. His eyes remained steadily on the ruins of a concrete two-story house ahead of us. His Sergeant signaled and he leaped from behind cover and ran, dodging, stooping forward.

We followed, using the same tactics, up what had been the main street of Namur Island but now was so piled with debris it looked the same as the rest of the ruined area.

Namur Easily Taken From Foe Too Short of Ships, Planes and Big Guns to Hold It.

Our line of Marines moved on jerkily, taking cover, then dodging a few yards, dropping to the ground, firing, and rising to repeat.

In a deep ditch stood Lt. Lew Myers of Philadelphia, his face smeared with green-gray camouflage paint. He motioned to the commander of a group of tanks to go forward. Past us the four juggernauts, their names painted on their sides in yellow paint, rumbled and churned. The first named Ill Wind, the second Widow Maker, and the others similarly marked, waddled over a twisted Jap motorcycle and almost turned over in a deep bomb crater, but recovered and went on to open fire, their guns roaring above smaller arms, as an attack on a Jap concrete pillbox began.

Attack on Pillbox.

In the smoke-laden area nearby stood Lt. W. A. Eddy, of Hanover, N. H., his face black with dust and smeared with paint, directing a group of Marines. Ahead was Pvt. Burren Walters, of Gulfport, Miss., crouched beside the small, submerged opening of a dugout. He motioned his mates back, pulled the pin of a grenade and heaved it into the opening.

Three Japs within were silenced, their naked bodies sprawled on the floor while the line of fighting Americans moved beyond into the din of machinegun fire.

Turning back to the beach, we plodded through heavy sand across to Roi, which is crisscrossed with landing strips, marked by the skeletons of two hangars starkly outlined. Marines near the hangar were concentrating fire on a sniper hidden in the girders of the roof. Nothing remained intact on Roi. Naval gunners and our air force had reduced the whole place to rubble.

Throughout an hour on Roi under continuous rain of fire we looked over the wreckage of planes and blasted dugouts and realized again how inferior are Jap preparations for attack. They do not know how to meet modern weapons. The still forms of several Marines, stretched on the ground, testified to the accuracy of their small arms fire, however.

Jap Bodies Everywhere.

That was all the fire they had to give the attackers. Their larger guns had all been silenced. Their air force was absent. There were no tanks. No modern devices.

Describing the horrors of these islands is an almost impossible task. It is sufficient to say that Jap bodies, twisted and mangled, lay everywhere, singly or in groups, with the overwhelming stench of rapidly decaying flesh hanging over the whole area.

Returning to the beach on Namur, where landing craft continued to pour in armed troops, supplies and ammunition, we dug in for the night in a deep ditch, dug from coral gravel by the Japs, obviously with the purpose of preventing tanks from maneuvering inward from the beach.

Night on Battleground.

Under rubber ponchos on the side of this trench, we spent the night.

Sleep was impossible. Flares, sent up by the Marines to light the targets, threw the area into the brightest relief. Strange shadows, thrown by broken palm trunks with sadly drooping fronds, moved like ghosts across the far side of the trench. Rifles, grenades and mortars cracked; snipers' bullets and tracers flew overhead until dawn. Across from us two enlisted men of the Seabees alternately stood guard and slept, while further along Cpl. H. R. Gordon Jr., Chicago, leaned on the parapet, his rifle always ready and hand grenades piled near him.

When dawn showed over the broken palm trees of Namur, firing increased. Tanks again went into action and I followed a stooping and dodging figure along the shore to a point a few yards from the place where the Japs had made their final stand.

The man I followed turned out to be John Fabian, Chicago artist, going directly into action to secure material for pictures. He disappeared in the smoke from a burning fuel tank, but showed up later, grimy but still fighting.

The mopping-up process continued until midafternoon, when the last sniper was grubbed out and all firing ceased.

Few Marines Killed.

Throughout the two-day action the Marines lived up to their ancient standards. Relatively few were killed. Of the wounded many were walking casualties. Some, like Pvt. Richard Scheid, a lad from New Jersey, though wounded in the arm, kept right on fighting. Pvt. Fred Jackson of St. Joseph, Mo., with 20 companions, spent a whole night throwing hand grenades and held off repeated efforts of the Japs to rush their position.

In the mopping up, even after both islands were apparently cleared, a few Japs were found hiding in drains or at the bottom of corpse-filled dugouts. Pvt. Lawrence Turner of Plainfield, Utah, using a flame-thrower, drove the last of the defenders from the drains on the Roi airstrip.

As the flag-raising ceremony marked the drawing to a close of the two-day battle, an enemy ammunition dump blew up with an infernal roar. It sounded like a renewal of the fighting, but actually it was the dramatic finale to Japan's occupation of the Marshalls.

Smoke from smoldering fires still covers the islands as garrison troops take over and Capt. E. C. Ewen of the United States Navy assumes his new job of Governor for the United States.

MOST PERFECTLY EXECUTED ACTION, SAYS BRITISH OBSERVER OF KWAJALEIN

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 8 (AP).

COMDR. ANTHONY KIMMINS of the British Royal Navy, veteran of the African and Sicilian campaigns, said the United States capture of Kwajalein atoll in the Marshalls was the most perfectly executed action he had seen.

The first military observer to return from the Marshalls, the 42-year-old Britisher said the Kwajalein campaign as "to put it in American terms, terrific."

He reported in an interview that the air bombs and the sea bombardment were so perfectly co-ordinated and so accurate that little was left for the ground troops to do but mop up.

Kimmins said he thought that no matter—up to certain limits—how many troops and defenses had been on the islands the Japanese would have been unable to hold them against that concentrated fire power.

U. S. FORTRESSES HIT FRANKFURT IN HEAVY DAY RAID

Liberators, Other Aircraft Attack Targets in France — Mosquitoes Bomb West Germany.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—American Flying Fortresses in force thundered bombs on Frankfurt again today and the fury of their attack left no doubt that the obliteration of another great German manufacturing center was well begun.

While the Fortresses made their 400-mile penetration of Germany under the protection of long-range fighters, an independent force of Liberators joined American Marauders and British Typhoons and Hurricanes in a concentrated pounding of targets in Northern France.

Flying their fifth mission in eight days, four waves of Marauders totaling nearly 200 planes fanned out on missions over the Pas de Calais area, and returned without loss. They stirred up little fighter opposition, but met heavy antiaircraft fire.

One of the first groups returning from the Frankfurt Mission reported seeing a new type Focke-Wulf fighter with a long nose and "fast as hell."

"About three minutes into France, 15 Focke-Wulfs rolled right through our formation without warning and kept right on going," reported Lt. M. G. Hemphill, of Jackson, Miss.

"We were so surprised we hardly fired our guns before they were gone. Then our P-47s showed up and we didn't see any more German fighters the rest of the way."

An "eight-tenths" cloud cover was encountered over Frankfurt, and navigational technique had to be used to locate the targets.

ORDERS MILITARY 'DRESS UP'

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP). — G. I.s, and junior officers, too, must glisten when in the New York metropolitan area henceforth.

Brig. Gen. Ralph K. Robertson, commanding general, has ordered a "dressing up" of military personnel, saying he had seen enlisted men with coats open and caps askew, and First and Second Lieutenants neglecting to salute superiors.

U. S. WARNS FINLAND AGAIN TO WITHDRAW FROM WAR

Hull Says Helsinki Government Has Been Reminded of Responsibility for Continued Belligerence.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull disclosed today that the United States had recently renewed its warning to the Government of Finland to get out of the war or accept the consequences of continuing to fight on the side of Germany.

The action, the first taken by this Government with respect to Finland for some time, suggested that the Finns might be under an Allied diplomatic as well as military offensive to force them out of the war.

The Secretary of State was asked at a press conference for information on Stockholm reports that there had recently been an exchange of communications between the United States and Finland on the Finnish position.

The United States Government, Hull replied, has recently taken occasion to say to the Finnish Government, as it has on a number of occasions in the past, that the responsibility for the consequences of Finland's collaboration with Germany and continuance in a state of war with a number of this country's allies, including the Soviet Union and the British Commonwealth of Nations, must be borne solely by the Finnish Government.

Helsinki Bombing Only Prelude, Reds Warn Finns.

MOSCOW, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Russians have served notice on Finland that the bombing of Helsinki Sunday night is only a prelude to what is to come.

"The hour of retribution is coming," declared an editorial in the Government newspaper Izvestia. "Soon the Finns will regret that the war is continuing. But if they don't regret now they will regret doubly tomorrow. . . . The crazy Finnish imperialists will likely awaken to see the Red Army before the walls of Hensinki.

"The sufferings of our brothers of the Karelo-Finnish Soviet Republic call for revenge and retribution. We have not forgotten them. . . .

"The Finnish invaders will soon be thrown out of all Soviet land. The day before yesterday the wings of Soviet planes appeared over the Finnish capital, and destructive bombs were dropped. Fires and explosions scorched the city. Let the ruins of Helsinki fall on the heads of the Fascist rulers."

Meanwhile reorganization of the 16 Soviet republics continued with announcement of the appointment of P. K. Ponomarenko as chairman of the Council of People's Commissars of White Russia and I. S. Bylinsky as Vice Chairman. No Commissar for Foreign Affairs was named immediately.

Minsk, still in German hands, was the former capital of White Russia, but the announcement came from liberated Gomel, indicating it would be the republic's provisional capital.

The organization of the White Russian government followed that set up in the Ukraine.

contrasted strongly with the bloody invasion last November of the Gilbert Islands to the south. There, 1026 men were killed and 2557 wounded at Tarawa alone. In the entire Gilberts operation, 1092 Americans were killed and 2680 wounded.

RABAUL BOMBED, OTHER JAP BASES HIT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 8 (AP).—Japanese air and supply bases along a 1450-mile front from Tanimbar Islands in the Netherlands East Indies to Kavieng, New Ireland, took heavy poundings in Allied aerial attacks reported by the high command today.

Eighty-one tons of bombs, the heaviest load of the raids, were dropped by Liberator heavies on Momote airdrome and nearby supply areas in the Admiralty Islands, northeast of New Guinea.

Two raids Saturday on Lakunai airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, by more than 150 fighters, torpedo and dive bombers and Liberators from Adm. William F. Halsey's bases in the Solomons destroyed gun positions and started fires in supply dumps, and 39 tons of bombs churned the airfield.

The attackers met strong antiaircraft fire but again weak aerial resistance, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said. They shot down seven Japanese fighters for sure and four probables, while losing three fighters and a torpedo plane.

On the northeast New Guinea coast, the Wewak supply area was attacked by escorted Boston Medium bombers, which destroyed more than 30 enemy barges and a 2000-ton freighter believed loaded with troops, and set two small cargo vessels and a corvette afire. Four enemy interceptors were shot down.

BANKHEAD TO AMEND BILL, EXTEND SUBSIDIES TO JUNE 30

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, leader of Senate opponents of the Administration's food subsidy policy, announced today he would amend his repeal bill to continue the present program of Government subsidies in full force until June 30.

As approved by the Banking Committee last month, the Bankhead bill would have directed administrative agencies to start liquidating payments to farmers and food processors at once, with June 30 the deadline for completing the job.

Bankhead said he would offer the extension amendment because Congress has been forced to delay final action long beyond the date contemplated when he introduced the repealer last year, and because he believed the Commodity Credit Corporation and other agencies should have time to adapt themselves to a subsidy-less program of consumer food price controls.

STATE SALES TAX BARRED ON RETAIL INTERSTATE TRADE

Missouri Supreme Court Ruling in Test Case Will Prevent Collection of 3 Millions.

POLICY INFRINGES ON RIGHT OF CONGRESS

Decision Says Legislature Intended to Exempt Such Transactions From Levy.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 8.—Attempts by State Auditor Forrest Smith to levy the 2 per cent sales tax on interstate retail sales of coal and fabricated steel, from mines and plants outside Missouri, for use within the state, were declared invalid by the Missouri Supreme Court late yesterday, in three test cases.

This ruling, in two opinions, holding these interstate transactions were not subject to the tax, applied directly to about $500,000 in sales taxes, now impounded in Cole County Circuit Court, where the cases originated.

Actually, the decision will bar collection of about three million dollars a year in sales taxes on all interstate sales of like character, according to Smith's department. State sales tax collections totaled $33,695,894 in 1943.

Legislature's Intent.

Supreme Court Commissioner Paul Van Osdol, who wrote the two opinions, unanimously adopted by Division No. 1 of the court, said in one of them that the Legislature intended to exempt from the tax "all sales at retail in the sales transactions of interstate commerce."

The Supreme Court reversed Cole County Circuit Court judgments holding Smith had legal power to tax the transactions involved, and remanded the cases to the lower court with directions to enter judgments in harmony with the Supreme Court decision.

Two of the test cases were instituted by the Binkley Coal Co. of St. Louis and 13 other coal companies, all with mines outside Missouri. The third case was filed by the American Bridge Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., structural steel manufacturer with offices in St. Louis. A declaratory judgment on Smith's authority was sought in each of the cases. The coal cases were consolidated for hearing in the Supreme Court.

The coal companies, while maintaining offices in Missouri as well as outside the state, contended the sales of coal in question were tax-exempt because the sales were made at mines in Illinois and Indiana for use in Missouri. Orders were accepted and approved at company offices outside the state, it was said.

In the American Bridge Co. case, it was contended that orders or proposals to buy, solicited by salesmen in Missouri were forwarded to Pittsburgh for approval, that contracts were completed there, and the products were shipped to Missouri from plants outside the state.

Admittedly Interstate Cases.

In both instances, Commissioner Van Osdol said, the transactions, necessitating transportation of goods from other states to Missouri, were admittedly in interstate commerce.

"Where the title was presumptively transferred to the purchaser in a foreign state," he said, "it would seem beyond question that such sales may not be taxed under the provisions of our sales tax act.

"The application of a sales tax to an event of a sales transaction of interstate commerce, which event does not occur in the territory of the taxing authority, should be held invalid," he continued. "The sales must occur in this state.

"The power of taxation is essential to the existence of a state," Commissioner Van Osdol said. "But when a state proceeds to regulate commerce among the several states it is exercising the very power that is granted to Congress, and is doing the very thing which Congress is authorized to do."

In the last session of the Legislature Auditor Smith failed to obtain sales tax law amendments designed to legalize levying of the sales tax on the type of transactions involved in the test cases. The levies involved were made under department regulations and interpretations.

BOND DRIVE BEGINS FINAL WEEK, STILL 25 MILLION SHORT and business concerns, announced today, include Monsanto Chemical Co., three million; Charles Meyers & Co., $300,000; Boyd-Richardson Men's Apparel Co., $150,000; American Smelting & Refining Co., $100,000; Federated Metals Corporation, $75,000; International Harvester Co., $60,000; Moloney Electric Co., $50,000, and Fred Harvey System, $25,000.

A total of $17,275 in bonds was sold Saturday at the Little White House booth, Eighth and Olive streets, where purchasers were given rides on an amphibious Army truck.

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann will conduct a war bond auction at 8 o'clock tonight at Soulard Market Auditorium, sponsored by the South Broadway Retailers Association. Merchandise to be offered includes nylon stockings, whisky and groceries.

STUDENT WHO KILLED HERSELF LEFT NOTE

Wrote in Diary She Was Sorry and Asked to Be Cremated.

A note, in handwriting identified as that of Miss Lois Miriam Smith, Washington University student, who died last Thursday of a bullet wound of the head, was discovered last night by her roommate, Miss Marjorie Gray, in whose home at 7820 Delmar boulevard, University City, Miss Smith resided.

Addressed to "Mardy, Dearest," the note asked for forgiveness. Miss Smith, 22 years old, was found unconscious by Miss Gray's father, Stanley N. Gray. A new pistol she had purchased was at her side. The note was found by Miss Gray in her diary as she thumbed through it last night, planning to make an entry concerning her trip through the state with nurses of the State Health Department.

An entry under the date of Feb. 6, last Sunday, the day Miss Gray was to have returned from a trip, referred her to the back pages of the diary. There she found the following:

"I am very sincerely sorry for what I might have done to you, to our home. I mean, I do hope somehow though, deeply within you, you may find feeling to forgive me. Please try. Perhaps you feel the need of some sort of explanation, but only too often any excuses or explanations one might find or make are taken futilely as gross misunderstanding; so let us leave things as best they may be.

"My only last request other than that you and my parents may still find love for me and not hate me or begrudge me for this, is that I may be cremated rather than merely embalmed and laid in the ground .

"My thanks and very deep feelings for you and all you have done and meant to me could never be adequately stated the way I'd like, but please know I do not go without much regret at leaving so much wealth behind me. But as my train pulls out always remember it will be signalling to you with each toot."

Although it was left unsigned, the handwriting was identified by Miss Gray and Miss Helen Smith, a sister of Lois Smith, as that of the dead woman, University City police said. The body was removed last night to Tulsa, Ok., her home, by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Delbert O. Smith.

Associate Prosecuting Attorney Robert B. Denny of St. Louis County, who conducted an inquest yesterday into Miss Smith's death, said it would not be necessary to reopen the inquest in the light of the contents of the note. A Coroner's jury returned an open verdict in the case.

'IMPORTANT IN WAR WHETHER GOD HAS YOU BY RIGHT HAND'

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 8 (AP). — R. Adm. Frank J. Lowry of the United States Navy, who commanded the landing operations at Anzio, was "scared to death" as troop-laden craft struck for shore in the inky blackness of Jan. 22, he said yesterday in his first press conference.

"I wasn't scared for myself but of the millions of things I thought of that could have happened," he added. "I am grateful that they didn't happen. When the signal was flashed back that the first wave had landed safely I had a feeling of exaltation because I knew if the first wave landed all would land."

Asked by the correspondents what factors contributed most to the success of such an operation, he replied that the most important factor is whether "God has you by the right hand."

There were some naval losses, he said, but the price was "not high" for the results obtained. The German claims, he added, were fantastic. The American and British navies have not yet announced the list of ships lost in the operation.

WACARAVAN MUSICAL REVUE IS PRESENTED

Lusty Crooning by 'G. I. Sinatra, With Blood' Just One Feature of Program.

Local presentations of the Air-WACaravan, an Army Air Forces musical revue, were given last night in the opera house of Kiel Auditorium and twice today in a telescoped version at the Famous-Barr Co. as a part of the recruiting program of the local Air-WAC headquarters, 622 New Federal Building.

In a program of diversified entertainment, without benefit of elaborate scenery or more than adequate lighting, the Air-WACaravan showed that previous Army shows have not exhausted the talent in the armed forces.

Pfc. Tony Costello was introduced as a "G. I. Sinatra, with blood." In his rendition of "All or Nothing at All" and "My Heart Tells Me," too lusty to be classified as crooning, he elicited squeals of delight from the audience, particularly from the younger half of it.

But Costello's singing was only a single feature of the show. The cast of the Air-WACaravan is composed of performers with a background of professional experience. They are supported by a 12-piece orchestra under the direction of Sgt. George Peterson, most of the musicians having former connections with name bands.

Pvt. Glenna Schoenbeck, a St. Louis girl, received hearty approval from the audience for her duet with Costello, "People Will Say We're in Love." In the number the singers shared the spotlight with Pvt. Agatha Hoeschle, a violinist.

Dancing assignments were handled by Pvt. Matthew Vittucci and by Pvt. Fred Way and a dummy called Veronica. Pvt. Bobby Stevenson, formerly a pianist with Sammy Kaye and Charlie Barnett, played two of his own piano arrangements.

There was comedy in a bewildered rookie sketch, nostalgia in the Gay Nineties song revivals of Cpl. Whit Henry, and romance in the authentic Latin-American songs of Cpl. Alberto Gutierrez. Pvt. Stan Greenspan, master of ceremonies, display versatility in impersonations of screen and radio celebrities and concluded the program with a timely and serious speech set to music.

Very little of the Air-WACaravan program is devoted to recruiting. Maj. H. T. Hastings, a 25-year-old veteran of more than 300 hours of combat flying in the Southwest Pacific, spoke briefly of his battle exploits and made an appeal for enlistment of Air-Wacs. Maj. Hastings was one of the aviators en route to Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941. The experiences of his group formed the basis of "Air Force," one of last year's films.

The Air-WACaravan came here after a three-month tour of 70 performances in Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska. The local performance initiated a six-week trip through Missouri.

CLOSING OF ETZEL CROSSING URGED AT BOARD HEARING

Engineer Tells Commission Underpass or Overpass Should Be Built at Bartmer.

Recommendations that a vehicular overpass or underpass be constructed at the Bartmer avenue grade crossing of the Wabash Railroad and that the Etzel avenue grade crossing be closed, were taken under advisement today by the Missouri Public Service Commission at the close of a hearing that was called as a result of a bus-train collision Jan. 23 in which 11 died and seven were injured.

Albert Miller, chairman of the commission, said all parties represented at the hearing in Clayton appeared to be in agreement that safety signs with reflectors should be installed at Bartmer, Etzel and Plymouth avenue crossings and a watchman should be stationed at the Etzel crossing 16 hours in every 24, rather than eight hours as is now the case.

Guido Moss, an engineer for the commission, recommended the overpass or underpass after a study of conditions at the three crossings. In lieu of these installations, he suggested automatic gates at all three intersections. William J. Headley, engineer for the Wabash, told the commission the railroad had completed plans for a grade separation at Bartmer avenue and the project was a part of the company's postwar program.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad today was granted permission by the St. Louis Board of Public Service to install flashing light signals and automatic crossing gates at the Iron street grade crossing, 300 feet east of Broadway. The Missouri Public Service Commission had ordered the devices installed last summer because of increased traffic occasioned by the establishment of a Coast Guard station at the foot of Iron street. A spokesman for the railroad said priorities on materials had held up the project.

772 MILLION IN U. S. TAXES COLLECTED IN MISSOURI IN '43

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Federal tax collections more than doubled in many states last year, the Bureau of Internal Revenue reported today in a tabulation showing receipts from all states totaled $31,924,530,316 in 1943 against $16,774,416,219 for 1942.

Collections from all sources of Federal taxes in 1943 and the 1942 receipts by states included: Missouri, $772,921,986 and $382,182,688; Illinois, $2,622,249,321 and $1,401,674,412.

ENGINEERS BACK BOYLES

A resolution expressing disappointment at Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann's acceptance of the resignation of Robert M. Boyles as smoke commissioner has been adopted by the Associated Engineering Societies of St. Louis, L. O. Campbell, president, said today.

Terming Boyles an "outstanding member of the engineering profession, esteemed for his integrity and ability," the resolution suggested the former smoke commissioner would have had public support for his relaxing of the smoke ordinance had the public been informed of conditions that determined his action.

MAN WHO KILLED INFANT IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Coroner's Verdict Recommends Investigation in Shotgun Clubbing of 15-Month-Old Girl.

Wilburn Wallace, Granite City steelworker, who clubbed his 15-month-old daughter, Joyce, to death last Saturday, was held in Edwardsville jail today for investigation by the Madison County grand jury.

A Coroner's jury last night recommended Wallace be held for grand jury investigation after he declined to testify at the inquest.

Delbert Hutton, Wallace's brother-in-law, who lives with the Wallace family in a two-room dwelling at 2407 Ohio avenue, Granite City, testified that Wallace, swinging a shotgun in an effort to strike a pet dog, hit the baby twice on the head with the barrel of the gun.

"I know he meant the licks for the dog," he said.

Wallace's wife, Mrs. Ruby Wallace, testified her husband came home from work intoxicated and went to sleep. When he awakened, she said, he became enraged at the dog's barking and, seizing his gun, shot the dog. Then he swung the barrel of the gun, which struck the baby as she crawled over to the wounded pet.

Mrs. Wallace did not commit herself as to whether the blows which struck the baby were aimed at the child or the dog. Nor did Wallace's father, John Wallace, also a member of the household, testify as to this point.

AMBASSADOR THEATER CROWD LEAVES WHILE FIRE IS PUT OUT

About 2700 patrons of the Ambassador Theater, 401 North Seventh street, left the theater last night while firemen extinguished a small blaze that started in a room used for storing cleaning supplies and spread to a locker room. They returned 15 minutes later.

When smoke became noticeable in the auditorium, Henry C. Riegel Jr., manager of the theater, announced over the loud speaker system that a small fire had been discovered but that there was no danger and patrons could remain in their seats if they desired.

Firemen ordered the theater evacuated, however. Damage totaled $100.

MRS. MINNIE WEINBRENNER DIES

Mrs. Minnie C. Weinbrenner, wife of the late George P. Weinbrenner, former Sheriff of St. Louis and City Marshal, died yesterday at DePaul Hospital of infirmities. She was 87 years old.

Mrs. Weinbrenner, who lived at 6063 McPherson avenue, is survived by two sons, George P. Weinbrenner Jr., and Alderman J. Ray Weinbrenner. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Albert H. Hoppe undertaking establishment, 4111 Lindell boulevard, with burial in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Wac Wounds Self Cleaning Pistol.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (AP).—Capt. Mollie E. Christian, 30 years old, of Wotan, Tex., a WAC officer stationed at Fort Sheridan, was wounded in the thigh when a pistol she was cleaning was discharged. The accident occurred Saturday.

FRANKFURTER HITS 'NOVEL' LAW OF COURT DECISION

Strikes at Colleagues Who Said He Decided Cases on Personal Views of Morals and Ethics.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Justice Felix Frankfurter added fresh fuel yesterday to the controversy among Supreme Court Justices over the interpretation of constitutional law, by asserting that his colleagues were resorting "gratuitously" to a "wholly novel doctrine of constitutional law."

These were virtually the same words Justices Black and Murphy used a month ago in criticising Frankfurter's views on utility rate making. At that time they accused Frankfurter of "wholly gratuitous assertion" as to constitutional law. In another case they said he proposed to interpret patent laws on the basis of "his personal views on 'morals' and 'ethics'."

The latest exchange developed over the Court's decision that a Federal bankruptcy court, rather than state courts, has exclusive power to fix fees for attorneys who represented in the state courts a corporation undergoing reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Disagrees With Reasoning.

Frankfurter agreed with all the other justices that in this particular case the bankruptcy court should determine the fees, but he vehemently expressed opposition to the grounds the Court cited for its finding.

The case involved the reorganization of the Reynolds Investing Co., Inc., in the Federal District Court for New Jersey. Three attorneys acting for the debtor and, later, for trustees for the company, filed suit in the New York courts to collect certain claims. Before judgments were returned, the attorneys' services were discontinued. Thereupon, under New York state judiciary law, and in conformity with an arrangement in the reorganization proceeding, the three sued in the State courts to obtain fees for their services, and were awarded $100,000.

Justice Douglas' opinion declared that under chapter 10 of the Bankruptcy Act, Congress had conferred "paramount and exclusive" jurisdiction on the bankruptcy court.

"Where the reorganization supersedes a prior proceeding in either the Federal or State court, the bankruptcy court is the one which is authorized to allow the 'reasonable costs and expenses' incurred in the prior proceeding," the opinion said.

Frankfurter's View of Law.

Frankfurter declared that from the beginning Congress had allowed Federally created rights to be enforced in state courts "not only by the general implications of our legal system but also by explicit authorization."

He said that the Constitution does not give the Bankruptcy Act supremacy over the right of states to determine what shall be litigated in their courts, and under what conditions, "and certainly," he added, "such a wholly novel doctrine of constitutional law should not be resorted to gratuitously when the case before us can be disposed of on the conclusive ground that the litigation conducted in the New York courts was conducted under an arrangemen consonant with New York law. . . ."

POLICE EJECT ROBBERS OF SLOT MACHINES

5 Men Hustled Out of East St. Louis After Emptying 'One-Armed Bandits.'

Five accomplished "mechanics," who outraged East St. Louis slot machine interests by systematically emptying the community's slot machines of their jackpots, were arrested and hustled out of town last Saturday, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

East St. Louis police insisted the men were arrested on charges of vagrancy and disorderly conduct, and denied that slot machine tampering had any bearing on their detention. Acting Chief of Police Henry Bishop said, rather excitedly, that he did not wish to comment on the matter.

Two of the visitors were each fined $50 and sentenced to 90 days in jail by Justice of the Peace William J. Kane.

The Post-Dispatch learned the jail sentences were stayed on condition the men left East St. Louis. The men were named in court records as Hubert Morris of Hamilton, O., and Walter J. Campbell of Oxford, O.

The other three, presumably members of the same group, were booked as Sherwood Camp and John Parido, both of Bloomington, Ill., and Ray Schlageter of Springfield, Ill. Each was fined $10, and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Judge Kane stayed their jail sentences when the men agreed to leave the city.

Camp, Parido and Schlageter, it was learned, were taken into custody by an armed tavernkeeper who found them tampering with a slot machine in a tavern he was patronizing as a customer. He held the men prisoner until police arrived.

Each of the men, it was said, possessed a screw driver and a teaspoon—recognized as the tools usually employed by slot machine "drillers." The technique of releasing a slot machine jackpot is a closely guarded secret, known only to police, slot machine operators and "drillers."

INQUEST VERDICT OF SUICIDE

A verdict of suicide in the death of Mrs. Anna Crider, 8137 Kingsbury boulevard, Clayton, was returned yesterday by a Coroner's jury at Kirkwood.

Mrs. Crider, 45 years old, was found dead in the family automobile in the garage at her home Sunday by her husband, Ned Crider, an engineer for the Union Electric Co. of Missouri. Death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

JUDGE APPROVES PLAN FOR COTTON BELT ROAD

I. C. C. Reorganization Proposal Would Leave $8,243,764 in Claims Unsatisfied.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's plan of reorganization for the Cotton Belt Railroad, which has been in process of reorganization in Federal Court for more than nine years, was approved today by District Judge George H. Moore.

The plan would eliminate the equities of common and preferred stockholders and leave $8,243,764 of creditors' claims unsatisfied. Total capitalization of the road would be cut from $105,946,995 to $75,000,375 and annual fixed interest charges would be reduced from $3,159,045 to $1,513,731.

One half of the total capitalization proposed is to be funded debt, one-quarter preferred stock and one-quarter common stock. The plan contemplates leaving the first mortgage and other underlying mortgages undisturbed.

New securities to be issued are a single bond issue and the preferred and common stock. The bond issue would be a 4 per cent consolidated mortgage on the physical assets of the road, to be due in 1992, covering in general the combined liens of the several bond issues to be retired under the plan and subject to liens of the undisturbed securities.

The issue of bonds for reorganization purposes would be limited to $14,687,700 for distribution to claimants, in addition to $1,500,000 to be issued to the treasury of the reorganized company to provide for contingencies.

The principal amount of the several obligations left undisturbed totals $22,812,300. Since the commission determined that the founded debt of the reorganized company should amount to $37,500,000, or one-half of the new capitalization figure, this leaves $14,687,700 to be distributed to other lien holders in the form of new consolidated mortgage bonds.

An issue of 600,000 shares of $100 par value preferred stock is proposed to pay a 5 per cent annual dividend. The stock would carry voting privileges. Of this total, 187,000 shares would be authorized to be issued to claimants in the reorganization.

A $750,000-share issue of $100 par value common stock is provided for, with 187,503 shares to be issued in the reorganization and 187,500 earmarked for conversion of preferred stock. The plan will be submitted to each class of creditors for approval or rejeciton.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR MUSTER-OUT PAY TO VETERANS

Army Payments for Missouri and Illinois to Be Made by St. Louis, Kansas City Offices.

Plans for making mustering-out payments to veterans of the present war from Missouri and Illinois, under the terms of the three-billion-dollar veterans' payment legislation, were announced today by Lt. Col. William Gritz, Army finance officer in St. Louis.

Methods of obtaining the payments differ, depending on the branch of the service in which a veteran served, Col. Gritz explained. Payments of from $100 to $300 will be made to each veteran honorably discharged since Dec. 6, 1941—the day before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor—and prior to last Thursday, when the bill became a law.

Those honorably discharged or relieved of active duty in any branch of the service since last Thursday are advised by Col. Gritz to return to the posts from which they received their discharge certificates for their mustering-out pay.

Veterans of Army service, whether officers or enlisted men or women, who entered military service from Missouri, must apply for their pay in writing at the office of the Army Finance Officer, Porter Building, Thirty-fourth street and Broadway, Kansas City (2), Mo., Col. Gritz said.

Illinois veterans, he continued, must apply in writing to the Army Finance Officer, Buder Building, Market and Seventh streets, St. Louis.

Blanks Not Provided.

Blank forms for making these applications will not be printed by the War Department, Col. Gritz said, but an example of an approved application is printed in an adjoining column of this newspaper. It may be clipped from the newspaper and used as such, he said, or a reasonable facsimile of it may be used by the veteran making his application. This form is acceptable to the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard, or any of the auxiliary branches such as WAC, WAVES, Coast Guard Women's Reserve or Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

Application blanks have been obtained by the Disabled American War Veterans of St. Louis and will be distributed to any veteran who applies for one at the headquarters at 3737 West Pine boulevard, Commander William Gorder announced.

Veterans of naval service will mail their applications to the following offices: Officers to Bureau of Naval Personnel, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.; Enlisted Men to Field Branch, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Cleveland, O.

Coast Guard officers will send applications to United States Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C. Enlisted men must send theirs to Field Branch, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Cleveland, O., the same as Navy enlisted men.

Marine Corps officers and enlisted personnel are advised to mail applications to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.

Applications for mustering-out pay will not be considered if they come from anyone dishonorably discharged from service.

Must Send Discharge Papers.

All applications must be accompanied by the discharge certificate, or certificate of service and, in the cases of officers, who have no discharge or certificate of service, by the orders relieving them from active duty.

The amount of payment received by the veteran will be determined on the basis of information contained in the discharge certificate, Col. Gritz said. The payment law provides $100 for men or women who served less than 60 days in continental United States; $200 for those who served more than 60 days in this country, and $300 for those with service overseas or in Alaska.

Col. Gritz explained that if a veteran has misplaced or lost his discharge certificate, a statement of service will be accepted.

All service men and women up to the rank of captain, are eligible for mustering-out pay except those past 38 years of age who asked to be discharged to take a civilian position, those dishonorably discharged and students in the Army's education-training program.

Application for Mustering-Out Payment

I enclose my honorable discharge or certificate of service* from the Army, and request the mustering-out payment authorized by law.

I was not discharged or released from active service on my own request to accept employment; or if I was discharged or released to accept employment I served outside the United States since Dec. 6, 1941; I am not now serving on active duty in the armed forces of the United States; and have not made and will not make any other application for mustering-out payment. I was a resident of ________ at the time of my induction or enlistment.

INJURED 5, DRIVER GETS YEAR

William J. C. Herbst, 4312 North Broadway, who drove his automobile through a safety zone last June 18, severely injuring five women, was sentenced to a year in the workhouse yesterday. He entered a plea of guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and felonious wounding in Circuit Judge James F. Nangle's court.

The accident occurred on North Broadway near Bittner street. Herbst was halted after two blocks by another motorist.

MURDER CONVICTION OF HOGAN REVERSED

Supreme Court Orders Retrial in 'Cutie' Bailey Killing Because of Error.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 8.—Conviction of Patrick Hogan, St. Louis race track tout and ex-convict, of the murder of Charles L. (Cutie) Bailey, another tout, was reversed late yestherday by the Missouri Supreme Court and a new trial ordered because of prejudicial error by St. Louis County Circuit Court in Hogan's trial. This set aside Hogan's 20-year prison sentence.

Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court held the lower court "abused its discretion" in permitting Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach to cross-examine Roy Johnson, a State witness, without first showing he was a hostile witness and without a showing of entrapment or surprise.

Wallach had obtained permission of Circuit Judge Peter T. Barrett to cross-examine Johnson, a brother-in-law of Hogan, after claiming surprise when Johnson's answers to questions about Hogan's movements and statements did not tally with information Johnson was alleged to have given to county officers.

The Supreme Court also reversed the conviction of James Gallina, owner of a tavern at 1539 Market street, who was sentenced to a year in jail on a manslaughter charge in the death of Melvin B. Probst, a laborer, on May 3, 1941. Gallina forcibly ejected Probst from the tavern and Probst struck his head on a street light standard.

OPA PENALIZES TWO CITY FIRMS, CITES 44 OTHERS

Barred From Selling Meat for 2 Weeks on Charge of Failing to Pay Ration Points.

Two local markets today were forbidden to sell meat and meat products for a period of two weeks by Harry L. Hall, regional hearing commissioner for the Office of Price Administration, as suspension order hearings against 46 St. Louis business houses and 59 individuals, charged with violating OPA regulations, began.

They were: Louis Sorkin, one of the operators of Sorkins' Market, 740 DeMun avenue, and Joe Valencia, owner of the Valencia Market, 1545 North Sixteenth street. They were cited for failure to pay ration points to their suppliers within the time designated by the regulations and with continuing to receive meat and meat products while delinquent in the payment of ration points.

Charges against five individuals and four markets were dismissed. They were: Joe Mizerany and the J. M. Market, 1800 Geyer avenue; Peter Petri and Petri's Meat Market, 3300 Lemp avenue; Morris Becker, Harry Becker and the Westwood Food Mart, 7608 Wydown boulevard, St. Louis County, and Harry Gertzweig and the Harry Gertzweig Market, 4281 Maffitt avenue.

Taylor Sandison, district enforcement attorney, said the accused companies and individuals had received notice to show cause why their privilege of dealing in certain rationed foods, fuel oil and gasoline should not be suspended for some period of time to be determined by Commissioner Hall, who came here from Dallas, Tex., to preside over the hearings, which are expected to continue through Friday.

In 38 cases, Sandison said, the respondents are charged with violating rationing regulations in the sale of meats, fats, oils and dairy products. These cases came to light, he said, from an investigation of the Royal Packing Co., 1719 North Vandeventer avenue, and the Beatrice Creamery Co., 2119 Delmar boulevard, against which injunction proceedings were filed in United States District Court Jan. 20.

Failure to Pay Points Charged.

Five of the 46 businesses, cited for suspension order hearings, are charged with illegal transfer of fuel oil, Sandison said. Another, he added, allegedly transferred both fuel oil and gasoline in violation of regulations. Two filling stations, charged with irregularities in the sale of gasoline, also have been notified to appear.

Food violation charges have been placed against the following:

Nathan Meyer, Leo Meyer and 1903 Franklin avenue; Irene Allen, Horace Allen and the Victory Grill, 1639 Tower Grove avenue; Robert J. Jewson, Alfred B. Jewson and the Jewson Brothers Select Foods Store, 6201 Bartmer avenue; Al Ladd and Ladd Grocery, 7200 Balson avenue; Herman A. GERMAN PLANES ATTACK ALLIES ON BEACHHEAD comfortable position of the Allied troops under German shelling.

"From the mountain range between the beachhead forces and Rome the enemy stares down into every secret military spot," one correspondent wrote. "To put it facetiously, this beachhead army is living in a goldfish bowl."

The Nazis have had time "to draw armored reserves even from the interior of Germany and may be expected to continue to build up," Associated Press correspondent Daniel de Luce said yesterday. He added that Allied supplies also were continuing to pour ashore despite long-range shelling from the Germans.

Headquarters disclosed the Germans had used flame-throwers, tanks and other weapons in their last strong effort against the beachhead—an attack Saturday night west of Cisterna.

Complete returns on the Flying Fortress bombing of Toulon in Southern France Friday showed that eight enemy planes instead of three were downed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Considers Trip.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that she may visit service men at United States bases in the Caribbean. She told her press conference that such a trip is under consideration but no final decision has been reached.

MEETING ON DRAFT CHANGES

Representatives of business firms will meet with officials of the Selective Service System tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Kiel Auditorium to discuss recent changes in draft regulations and to clarify their interpretation.

Among the questions to be considered will be the appeal system, the status of employes under 22 years of age, the drafting of fathers and those in critical occupations.

BEEF AND PORK 'FAMINE' COMING, SAYS STOCK MAN

Agriculture Department Asserts Food Supplies Will Be About Same as Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—An officer of the National Livestock Dealers' Association predicts a civilian "famine" in pork and beef within 60 to 90 days.

The shortage is developing, says P. O. Wilson, executive secretary of the association, because "ill advised" Government policies are forcing farmers out of livestock production.

"Within a short period . . . this country will be practically on a famine basis with respect to supply of beef; . . . the pork supply will have shifted from a feast to a famine. . . ."

Relief in Fall, He Says.

Furthermore, he said, it will be late fall before "anything like adequate beef supplies" will be available.

His prediction was made yesterday while the Agriculture Department was estimating that food supplies, including meat, will be about the same this year as last. Heavier military and lend-lease demands will keep civilians from having more food despite an anticipated jump in production, said the department.

Meat production, the department predicted, will run about 25 billion pounds in 1944, or 8 per cent more than 1943.

123 Pounds a Person.

On a per capita basis, the department estimated the supply for each person would be 123 pounds against 131 pounds in 1943.

The department said military food purchases last year increased about 75 per cent over 1942 and accounted for about 13.3 per cent of the total production. Lend-lease and other exports showed a 57 per cent increase over 1942 and amounted to about 12 per cent of the total.

Civilians last year consumed a record amount of eggs, fluid milk, margarine, potatoes and dried peas, the survey showed, while consumption of fish, butter, cheese, deciduous fresh and canned fruits and fresh canned vegetables were substantially below the 1942 level. From a nutritional point of view, the department declared, the civilian diet in 1943 was superior to the prewar diet in 1935-39.

NAZIS DIVE-BOMB U. S. HOSPITAL AND KILL 27

mander, Capt. Thomas Mathews of Houston, Tex., was present when the hospital was hit.

"I saw bombs land right in the middle of the 'hospital,'" he told me an hour after the bombing. He showed me eight small craters, all made by the anti-personnel type bomb. They had scooped out the ground only a little deeper than an ordinary basin, but had showered shrapnel through tents, perforating them into shreds like fish nets.

I saw where one bomb had fallen 6 inches from a huge Red Cross flag stretched on the ground, ripping part of the flag to pieces.

"It's impossible that the Red Cross markings weren't seen," Capt. Mathews insisted. "Besides this huge Red Cross flag on this side, there's another one on the other side of the hospital tents. And the tents themselves, as you can see, are prominently marked by 26 Red Cross flags.

"What's more, all the bombs landed were anti-personnel bombs, intended to get the people living in tents. The German plane was much too low not to have seen these markings."

First American Nurses to Be Killed by Enemy in This War.

The War Department in Washington said the women killed in the attack on the Anzio evucation hospital were the first American nurses to lose their lives through direct enemy action in this war.

Department records showed one American nurse killed in a plane crash at Nankek, Alaska, in July, 1943, but no enemy action was involved in that case.

Four other nurses were slightly wounded when their hospital ship was hit by German bombs outside the Gulf of Salerno, Sept. 13, 1943. All were awarded the Purple Heart, the Department said.

A number of American nurses are listed as prisoners of the Japanese in the Philippines, but none has been reported killed or wounded there.

Germans Charge British Planes Bombed Hospital Ship.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Berlin radio declared today that British planes bombed and machine-gunned the 900-ton Swedish Red Cross ship Wiril in a harbor of the Aegean island of Chios yesterday, killing a Dr. Nielson, Swedish Red Cross representative, and members of the Swedish crew.

No comment was available immediately from Swedish or Allied sources.

The broadcast said six multi-engined British planes made three low level attacks which started fires on the motor ship.

Among the wounded was a Greek Physician, Dr. Champlakos, the broadcast added.

It said the Wiril was "far distant from any military target," and "was clearly marked as a Red Cross vessel."

WILLKIE URGES REPUBLICANS TO AVOID NEGATIVISM

Calls on Party to Stand for Convictions and Principles Even if It Loses Election.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 8 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie carried his sentiment-testing tour of the West into Southern Idaho today after calling upon Utah Republicans to have "the courage to stand for convictions and principles" in the coming presidential campaign.

He planned a short visit with party leaders at Pocatello, Idaho, before going to Twin Falls for an address tonight.

In a brief talk at a Republican dinner last night he said some party figures believe "if we are clever enough and avoid the great controversial issues of our time, maybe we can win that way." He added: "I don't think we can."

"If the Republican Party in 1944 has the courage to stand for convictions and principles, it may not win, but in the great process of keeping this a free America, it will make a great contribution," he said.

"If defeated in a process of negation, it will perform no function. If it is victorious by negation, it will fall to pieces after coming to power."

He urged party members to be "worthy of the traditions of Abraham Lincoln, who met the issues, did not evade them and lifted politics to a great moral purpose."

The United States, as well as the entire world, he said, is now passing through "a fundamentally revolutionary process, the most important and far reaching in all history."

Willkie was asked what his reply would be to those who say that if he is elected all the nation will have is a Republican Roosevelt, because of the similarity of their ideas.

"I doubt if anyone who has been articulate on the subject differs more with President Roosevelt on foreign policy than I do," he said. "We have both advocated co-operation with the rest of the world to maintain the peace but there there are vital distinctions in our views on foreign affairs."

"And of course," he added, "we differ very much on domestic issues."

Willkie made it clear he would welcome a nomination for the presidency if he can achieve it by "speaking out on what are my beliefs."

"If this brings me nomination for President of the United States, fine," the Republican candidate of 1940 told reporters in Salt Lake City, "if it doesn't, well, the people have the right to choose whom they please."

He commented that the issues "are difficult to define."

"Last time the issue was the third term," he said. "This time the big question is long continuous, almost permanent power, and I am interested in breaking that power, no matter who may hold it."

ALLIES IN BURMA AMBUSH JAPS, INFLICT HEAVY LOSSES

NEW DELHI, Feb. 8 (AP).—Allied troops have consolidated their gains near Tiddim in the Chin Hills sector of Burma, and twice have ambushed Japanese troops, inflicting considerable casualties, a communique from Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia Command said today.

Allied heavy and United States medium bombers staged damaging raids Saturday on the Heho and Aungban airfields 90 miles southeast of Mandalay, and medium bombers attacked other Japanese airdromes.

British dive bombers on Monday raided Taung Bazaar and Badana near Buthidaung in Western Burma, where "our land forces continue to engage the enemy." Loss of Taung Bazaar to the Japanese was disclosed yesterday.

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "innards" and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take.

MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medicine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S—the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it.

CAUTION: Use only as directed.

Short Cuts!

Briefest, most direct road to spring smartness is the new short-cut topper. It's a fashion as functional as it is good-looking, for it's equally smart with slacks, with suits, with dresses, with sweaters and skirts. And just look at the variety of design. Here are five perfect examples from the Sports Shop.

SVB's Sports Shop—Second Floor

Shaggy fleece topper from California in the fashionable neutral, nude. $29.95

The short chesterfield in black and white or brown and white shepherd check; cotton velveteen collar. $25

The Chinese influence short coat of shetland with contrasting lining and piping. Red with navy lining, navy with red, brown with gold, or red with green. $22.95

Grey men's wear flannel short cut, briskly tailored. $22.95

Shetland topper in purple, red, navy, light blue and maize; soft, casual lines. $19.95

LOSES SUIT BASED ON ADOPTION CLAIM

The suit of Mrs. Clara Gamache, who sought possession of the $800,000 estate of Mrs. Laura J. Kalb on the ground that Mrs. Kalb verbally adopted her in 1921, was dismissed today in a ruling of Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson, who had the case under advisement since Oct. 9, 1942.

Mrs. Gamache, who resided in the Kalb home at 601 Loughborough avenue from 1921 to 1934, filed her action against the beneficiaries, principal of whom was Mrs. Alice J. Doering of 66 Lake Forest drive, Richmond Heights, sister of Mrs. Kalb. Mrs. Doering had testified that Mrs. Gamache was considered a servant and wore a white uniform in the Kalb home.

In her suit, Mrs. Gamache, who now lives at 3661 Flad avenue, stated she and Mrs. Kalb became attached to each other. She contended her position in the household was not one of a servant but rather as a companion to Mrs. Kalb, who was the widow of Charles R. Kalb, an insurance broker.

Make Yourself A $2,000,000 HIGHBALL

Know how to make a correct highball? Lots of people don't, so we're giving you the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so good!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND THEN DO THIS!

1 Place the ice cubes in an empty 6 or 8-oz. glass. Connoisseurs say the ice must go in first!

2 Then, add 1½ ounces of delicious Fleischmann's Bond. A good highball needs Fleischmann's smooth creaminess!

3 Fill with club soda or ginger ale. For a perfectly mixed drink, place ingredients in glass in the order given!

87 MILLION LOSS IF F.D.R. LETS TAX BILL WAIT 10 DAYS

Non-Signature Course Would Delay Effective Date on New Excise Levies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Time, the Constitution and a three-line clause in the $2,315,200,000 tax bill combined today to make it impossible for President Roosevelt to allow the measure to become law without his signature unless he is willing to lose more than 87 million dollars in potential revenue.

The measure, which Roosevelt criticised recently as unrealistic and which blocks a Social Security payroll tax increase which he thinks should take effect, cannot actually reach the White House before tomorrow, according to enrolling clerks, although it received final Congressional approval yesterday. If Roosevelt decides to allow it to become law without signing it, the bill would take effect under the Constitution 10 days later (Sundays excepted), or Feb. 21.

However, the bill provides that the $1,051,300,000 in excise tax increases "shall take effect on the first day of the first month which begins more than 10 days after the date of the enactment of this act." Non-signature would make the effective date April 1, rather than March 1, with a consequent potential loss of one-twelfth of a year's excise tax additions.

Without waiting to see what would happen to this legislation, Congress turned to the job of attempting to simplify the present income tax structure. Chairman Doughton (Dem.), said his House Ways and Means Committee would begin a study of the matter immediately.

The anticipated $2,315,200,000 yield from the new tax law will push total Federal revenue above an estimated $42,200,000,000 in a full year's operation, but both the President and the Treasury have declared an increase of at least $10,500,000,000 should have been provided.

Individual income taxpayers face an additional $664,900,000 load under the measure through abolition of the earned income credit and disallowance of deductions for Federal excise taxes paid. The Victory Tax becomes a straight 3 per cent levy on income over $624 a year, regardless of family status. The changes apply to 1944 income and not to that for 1943.

The $1,051,300,000 excise increase embraces a tax of $9 instead of $6 per 100-proof gallon on liquor, 20 per cent retail sales taxes on furs, cosmetics, luggage, and (with a few exceptions) jewelry, as well as sharp boosts in such levies as those on telephone calls, railroad tickets, night club checks, and bowling alleys. The admissions tax to picture shows and other places of amusement becomes a penny for each nickel of charge.

SENATE ACCEPTS BOTH PLANS FOR SOLDIER VOTES

regardless of absentee voting provisions in their home states.

Senator Taft, opposing the administration plan, insisted the change would have no practical result because, he contended, the armed forces will not deliver various state ballots overseas and the military voters will have to use the Federal form.

Ferguson said, however, he had assurances that the Army and Navy would do everything possible to make the state ballots available.

U. S. WORKING ON ARMISTICE TERMS TO BE GIVEN NAZIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull said yesterday the State Department is constantly exploring armistice terms to be imposed on Germany, but that he does not know whether any information thus far compiled here has been submitted to the Allied Advisory Commission in London.

The Secretary emphasized, however, it is the task of the council to study armistice terms and left open the possibility that some American proposals have been submitted.

Asked whether it would be improper to say that a final draft of American ideas on European armistice arrangements has been drawn up, Hull replied that he would not undertake to make so ambitious a statement.

BOILER WORKS AWARDED E

An Army-Navy E production award has been won by the John Nooter Boiler Works Co., 1401 South Second street, the War Department announced today.

The Nooter company, which has about 300 employes, manufactures pressure vessels, condensers and other equipment used by the oil and chemical industries. The award will be presented at ceremonies at the plant March 3.

Baseball Meetings Bolster Confidence in Continuation of Game

ManPower Situation Unchanged

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Nothing has happened to change the precarious manpower situation for the major leagues, but club owners, managers and players, here for the February meetings and the annual banquet of the Baseball Writers' Association, are much more confident about the 1944 season, after an exchange of assurances and reassurances that everything possible will be done to keep organized baseball alive through the war years.

Bill Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, here with Frankie Frisch, voiced the common sentiment.

"Yes, I feel much more optimistic and hopeful," he said. "Everything has been brought out in the open, we have been told that important Army officers consider baseball an asset to the war effort, and those of us who feared a drop in the caliber of play might be too damaging have been reassured. We believe more firmly now that even if the customers may consider the brand of baseball a little different from what they've been accustomed to, the most important thing is to have baseball, the man on the street's great American institution, functioning as usual when the boys come back to their homes."

Still Some Pessimism.

There was an occasional echo of the pessimism of recent weeks. One baseball man said the only solution he could see was to persuade one of the Double A leagues to fold up for the duration.

"If that could be arranged, it would be easy for the majors to struggle through," this pessimist suggested. By and large, however, the baseball men were going about their business with a new light of confidence in their eyes, determined to take a financial beating here and there, if necessary, to keep the major leagues going.

The American League is through with its February business, unless called to a special meeting by Commissioner Landis, and the National Leagures met today to discuss their schedule and probably some of the details of the plans recommended by the Postwar Planning Committee. However, it is believed that it will be some time before the various leagues get around to formal ratification, although no voice of protest or objection has been raised.

Formal ratification of the schedules also may be delayed, as it will take time to work out the night game program, especially in cities where there are two teams. One of the more difficult jobs, it has been suggested, will be the placing of the 42 night games for St. Louis, where the Browns and Cardinals have been given permission to play 21 floodlight games each.

Involved Business.

Sam Breadon said he didn't expect any important decisions to be reached at today's National League sessions.

"The business is so involved that my opinion is we won't get beyond the discussion stage on many points," Breadon said. "Most of the things will have to be worked out over a long-time program, with committees taking over many phases of the program, to report back when more and better information as to details is available."

Baseball had reason to be proud of its stand, so far as announced, as to postwar plans for the returning baseball players now in the armed forces. In every case regulations were amended or formulated to give the athletes, and not the clubs, the best possible breaks.

Warren Giles, general manager for the Cincinnati club, paid Breadon a compliment.

"I never saw a greater display of unselfishness on the part of a baseball club owner," Giles said. "Time and again points arose where it seemed that the Cardinals (perhaps by reason of their large farm system ownership) might suffer materially. But Breadon insisted on backing all propositions wholeheartedly, so that the men will have the best possible chance when they come back to their homes and baseball."

A report that control of the stock of the Brooklyn club might be sold shortly enlivened the off day between the writers' dinner and the National League sessions. Max Meyer, New York jeweler, who retired recently as part owner of the Boston Braves, was named as heading a group dickering for enough of the Ebbetts stock to gain control. It was said the group already had an option on half of the McKeevers' holdings and needed slightly more than half of the Ebbetts holdings to have the necessary 51 per cent. Branch Rickey would remain as head of the club and Leo Durocher probably would manage the club through 1944, it was reported, although Meyer was described as an admirer of Casey Stengel, who recently resigned as manager of the Braves when Meyer retired as part owner of the Boston club.

Pals A. C. Wins Over State Guard, 49-39

Led by R. Weber, who scored 18 points, the Pals A. C. defeated the State Guard, 49 to 39, at the Armory last night.

At the end of the first quarter, the Pals led by only one point, 17 to 16 and were four up; 25 to 21 at the end of the half.

Bill King with 14 points and Bill Ferfecky with 13 were high point getters for the Guard.

Sherman Park Gets "Plum" For Muny Soccer Playoffs

By Dent McSkimming

Sherman Park fans drew the prize package when the assignment of games in the Muny soccer playoffs was made. The schedule sheet, as released by Freddie Geldmacher, Director of Municipal Athletics, shows 14 games to be played on seven fields in five of the public parks Sunday afternoon.

Of the seven doubleheaders, the choice show, as far as general interest goes, will be at Sherman Park where champion El Reys oppose Schumacher Intermediates in the second game of an attractive pair. First District, champion of the South Group of the Police Juvenile League, opposes Fifth District in the first game of the program, starting at 1:30 p. m. Fifth made a valiant fight for the Police North title but finished in third place.

El Reys are conceded an edge in the second game and First is expected to win the opener, but in both cases there is ample reason to look for an upset.

Six Games at Fairground.

Three doubleheaders will be played at Fairground Park, with lots of interesting possibilities. About the only sure thing is that Rafterys of the Seniors league will defeat St. Edwards of C. Y. C. Intermediates, and that St. Louis Ordnance, another senior club, will advance over Shamrocks of Neighborhood Intermediate league. Closest thing to an even match at Fairground seems to be the meeting of Country Day School and Pelican A. C., with the odds in favor of Country Day.

In only one case are senior clubs drawn against each other in this first round of a series which will run through March 18. Carondelet Park has drawn this meeting of senior Schumachers and senior Curtiss-Wright clubs. Preliminary attraction in this doubleheader will be the match between St. James and Holy Innocents, a couple of C. Y. C. Junior clubs. St. James is expected to take this one in stride and Schumachers should triumph over the War Plant League representatives.

The Junior division games will be of 30-minute halves, all others of 45 minutes.

Plenty of Work Needed.

It will take a lot of harrowing and rolling to get the Carondelet Park field in shape for the playoffs. It seems strange that the Park Department can't provide one suitable playing field in a park which is a recreation center for so many thousands of South St. Louis residents. Compared with the fields at Fairground and Sherman parks that at Carondelet is rough as a rock quarry. The wooden stand is so dilapidated it is a menace to life and limb. Two weeks ago a spectator stepped on a seat board, it broke in two and he and the lumber fell through to the ground. Fortunately for all concerned, he was uninjured. Next fellow may not be so tough.

Missouri Takes Third Place in Big Six Race

MANHATTAN, Kan., Feb. 8 (AP).—The University of Missouri Tigers pushed over an out-manned, tiring Kansas State basketball team last night for another Big Six victory, 45 to 30.

The victory puts Missouri ahead of Kansas University for undisputed possession of third place in the conference.

Inductions

Bill Johnson Passes.

FORT McPHERSON, Ga., Feb. 8 (AP).—Bill Johnson, New York Yankee third baseman, passed his preinduction physical examination today. He will return home to Augusta, Ga., and probably will be called in March.

Barna Passes Test.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Feb. 8 (AP).—Herbert (Babe) Barna, Louisville Colonel outfielder and last season a regular in both the New York Giants and Boston Red Sox outfields, said last night he had passed his pre-induction examination here today, and awaited a call for service in the Navy.

Meramecs Run Up Record 115 Points to 56 for Frisco Five

In one of the highest scoring basketball games ever recorded, and one which set a top local mark so far as available records show, the Meramec Caverns last night defeated the Frisco five at Sherman Park in the Open Division of the Municipal League, 115 to 56, a total of 171 points for the two teams.

At the end of the first half of 20 minutes, the score was Meramecs 45, Frisco 19. Then the two teams went to work and in the following 20 minutes counted 107 points between them, the Meramecs getting 70 and Frisco 37.

Clarence Hatfield led the Meramec point orgy with 27 and Fred Barker had 22. Fred Dinkelkamp was high for Frisco with 20.

Each of the eight Meramec players counted at least six points while only two Frisco men of the nine used failed to count.

In the other circuit game, Wabash won from Brotherhood R. C., 49 to 30. Center Herbrechtsmeier, Wabash, led the scoring for the evening with 29 points.

Defeating Local 1102 Emerson, 47 to 42, McDonnell Aircraft won the championship of the Marine Y. M. C. A. Division while Busch-Sulzer won on a forfeit from Ramco, 2-0.

Bill Fritts scored 18 points for McDonnell and Larry Covington got 16.

EMIL YDE, formerly a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates' pitching staff, has been named Sheriff of Lake County, Florida, by Gov. Holland. . . . HERB CAIN of Boston and LORNE CARR of Toronto are the leading scorers in the National Hockey League. . . . Each has 57 points to his credit. . . . Bill Cowley, Boston veteran, who was leading the pack until injured some time ago, has dropped to a tie for fourth with 52.

DON MEADE, suspended jockey and Steve Brooks, another rider at Hialeah, have been ordered to report to their New York draft boards within the next 10 days for their pre-induction physical tests.

Hermanns Roll 3073 But Lose Two Games

Although the Hermanns rolled 3073 in last night's round of the All-Star League on the Arway alleys, they lost two of three games to the leading France Laux quintet. Paced by Lee Badaracco with 684, and Len Springmeyer, 681, the Hermanns had games of 1042, 1069 and 962. Springmeyer had a high single of 267. The Hermanns lost one game by 15 pins and another by 14. Nelson Burton's 630 helped the Laux to 2946.

The second place Silver Seals dropped two of three to the Stumhofers, losing one game by 10 and the other by 16 pins. Ray Jung hit 633 for the losers and Tony Weiss had 587 for the winners. The Grand Parks quit the cellar by winning three from the National Refrigerators. Totaling 2989, the Grand Parks were paced by Vic Stauder, 644, and Gus Lucido, 620. Dick Wedel had 630 for the losers. In the other match, the Natural Setups took the odd game from the Reinekes.

Game Off; Mumps!

DEKALB, Ill., Feb. 8 (AP).—The basketball game scheduled tonight between DeKalb Teachers and Charleston Teachers has been postponed pending the recovery of two Charleston team members from the mumps. The game has been rescheduled tentatively for Feb. 23.

Bulldog Turner 1A.

ABILENE, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP).—Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, former Hardin-Simmons University football star and center for the Chicago Bears, has been classified 1-A by his draft board at Snyder, Tex.

Scores Hole-in-One.

Ken Matlock scored a hole in one on the 150-yard ninth hole of the 9-hole course at Forest Park Sunday. Matlock used a No. 7 iron and was playing with F. E. Poindexter, C. J. McPherson and R. Sullivan.

Hanbury Is Kayoed by Armstrong

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Hammerin' Henry Armstrong was one notch up today in his third comeback attempt, winner by a knockout over Lew Hanbury of Washington, his erstwhile sparring partner.

Armstrong, onetime holder of three world boxing titles who went in weighing 139, finished off the 137-pound, 21-years-old Hanbury in one minute and ten seconds of the third round in a scheduled 10-round bout. Hank opened the first round with a slugging attack that staggered Hanbury and in the second the Washington fighter was backed into a corner and took a terrific belting of right hooks and left jabs from the more experienced Los Angeles Negro.

In the third, Hanbury was knocked into the ropes, went down on one knee and was counted out by Referee Eddie Lafond, while some of the 9000 fight fans, who thought Hanbury had gotten a fast count, booed the decision.

South Side Can Clinch Title in The Prep League

South Side Catholic will try to nail down the Preparatory League basketball championship at home against C. B. C. tonight as the circuit closes its campaign with the final round of play. McBride and Central Catholic, tied for the runner-up spot and hoping for a title tie if South Side is upset, play on the East Siders' floor.

Delayed by Central Catholic last week, South Side hopes to put the clincher on the title tonight against a C. B. C. team which has failed to dent the league victory column. Central and McBride own identical records of three victories and two defeats.

While the Preparatory League issue is being decided, Edwardsville will try to regain lost ground in the Southwestern Illinois Conference, entertaining the leading Collinsville Kahoks, who are two games ahead of the Tigers and East St. Louis. The Flyers will invade Wood River, the fourth-place team of the conference.

Brentwood probably will move a step closer to the county crown when it entertains last-place Affton. Second place Eureka will play at Bayless in another league encounter.

Other games tonight:

University City at Ritenour.
Belleville Cathedral at Chaminade.
Southwest at Normandy.
Webster Groves at Maplewood.
Principia Academy at Jennings.
Wellston at Ferguson.
Granite City at Roxana.
Sumner at Lovejoy.

Jay Bees Seek Fourth Victory in League

The Jefferson Barracks Jay Bees seek their fourth league victory and the first-half title in the Intermilitary Post Basketball League when they tackle the Navy Sparks in a game at the Bethlehem gymnasium tonight. The Sparks have a 1-1 record in league play.

Chaminade Defeats St. Joseph Quintet

Chaminade drubbed St. Joseph, 40-15, in a Catholic League basketball game yesterday, while St. Louis University High gained a 47-33 victory over Alton High.

Don Huelsing and Don Sinclair starred for Chaminade, while Ken Wild scored 17 points for the Junior Billikens.

Washington U. to Play Busch-Sulzer

Washington University's basketball team with an 8-1 record for the season will oppose the Busch-Sulzers in a game at the Bears' fieldhouse tomorrow night, starting at 8:30 o'clock. In another game this week, the Bears will play the Missouri School of Mines quintet Saturday night.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Better Let Sleeping Dogs Lie.

BASEBALL, ever since Pearl Harbor, has been endeavoring to find out exactly where it stands with the administration. . . . Its leaders have been trying to get the official "go" sign, as a profession essential to preservation of civilian morale.

Two years ago President Roosevelt expressed a favorable attitude, without fully declaring himself. . . . Subsequently Commissioner Landis and other high-ups of the baseball world have tried to get a definite ruling on the subject.

None has yet come. . . . But yesterday, Stephen Early, secretary to the President, in answering a letter to President Roosevelt written by Taylor Spink of The Sporting News, replied in a way which virtually dispelled all hope that baseball will gain recognition as an essential occupation. . . . He intimated it was the President's idea that baseball would be cared for under existing regulations. . . . There will be no preferential treatment of baseball players, it seems.

The administration has not wanted to be forced to commit itself on this point, seemingly, but is content to let baseball go on, making the best of the situation under the law.

This is, after all, just about OK. . . . And there baseball men should let the matter rest. . . . Sleeping dogs are not always friendly, when prodded too hard.

All-Year Program For Baseball Parks.

YOUNG BOB CARPENTER, who spearheads the next campaign of the National League Phillies, has been criticised for his proposal that the major league baseball clubs should go in for professional football promotion. . . . He argues that another pro league would do football good. . . . and keep baseball parks operating for nine months or more instead of six. . . . But the reception this idea got was a hearty laugh.

Just now the baseball club owners think they have enough grief finding manpower for one sport, with every prospect that they will see the situation become worse before it is bettered. . . . So the reply of our club owners sounded like a quince tastes.

But when happy days are here again and Hitlerism and its advocates are under the sod, the big minds of baseball could think up worse postwar ideas than Mr. Carpenter's. . . . Ball parks annually are very dead timber when baseball ends its season. . . . And football attendances have attained figures that outstrip many Saturday and Sunday baseball totals.

Nor need football object. . . Carpenter is willing to BUY franchises, not just start a war by taking them. . . . And two leagues are better than one. . . They would furnish the basis for a real football "world championship final," instead of the synthetic one now sponsored.

"The Legs Go First" Says Tom Sharkey.

TOM SHARKEY, rough and tough fighter of the gay nineties, and now at 70 a civilian guard for the Army in the San Francisco Bay area, says something of real interest to Golden Glovers and other young fighters trying to go places in the ring:

"The legs beat you first," observes the Sailor. "Run every day until you are too tired to run any longer. . . . Then run another mile. . . . Road work is the key to ring success."

Tom did a lot of running himself, in his day. . . . But never away from an opponent. . . . And how he could laugh off punishment. . . . He seemed built of concrete. . . . The only reason he lost to Jeffries was that Jeff was built of steel. . . . A battle of human tanks was that 25-round affair, in which Sharkey's ribs and metacarpals were broken, but he still fought on.

Very naturally Sharkey thinks Jeff a superman. . . . "Jeffries was the greatest fighter who ever lived," he told a reporter. "In his prime he would have stopped Louis, I am sure."

DON REECE, Missouri's four-year gridiron star and two-time bowl-game player, will report to Notre Dame for V-7 naval training. . . . That doesn't mean he'll be line-cracker for the Irish this fall. . . . Probably he'll complete his naval course by that time and be ordered elsewhere. . . . It's here today, tomorrow far away, in the Navy.

McSpaden Wins $1000 By 2 Shots

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 8 (AP).—Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the Philadelphian who weighted his driving clubs and immediately became the top money winner in pro golf ranks, was Texas bound today after his sixth victory in the last nine major tournaments.

The latest triumph, worth a $1000 war bond, came in the Phoenix Open in which Mcspaden won his first 18-hole playoff. Byron Nelson of Toledo, former National Open and Professional Golf Association champion, was runnerup. He received a $750 bond.

McSpaden carded a one-under par 70 yesterday to edge out Nelson by two strokes. They finished the 72-hole open Sunday with 173s, 11 under par.

Uncle Sam will probably end the 35-year-old McSpaden's victory string after the San Antonio event. He has been ordered to report for induction immediately following it.

Xavier Boys' Club Wins Eight in Row

Routing St. James, 55 to 6, the Xavier Boys' Club basketball team gained its eighth victory in succession in a C. Y. C. intermediate contest at Immaculate Conception gymnasium last night.

Xavier led, 20 to 6 at the end of the first half, then blanked St. James in the second half.

Glen Murphy topped the scoring with 10 field goals for 20 points.

Holding Epiphany to a single free throw point, St. Francis Xavier won, 49 to 1, in a Southeast Parochial School League contest at Holy Innocents gymnasium to gain its fifth triumph in a row.

Alsab Short of Goal.

Alsab is $200,000 short of his goal of equaling Whirlaway's record of earning $560,000. But Alsab is in form again and ready to go after the big stakes.

No Special Consideration For Baseball, Early Says

The fortunes of professional baseball this year are subject to selective service and war man power regulations.

In the first expression on the subject from the White House in two years, Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, wrote J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of The Sporting News:

"I am not sure it would be in the best interests of the war effort for the President to make a supplemental statement at this time.

"We have traveled a long way since the President wrote Judge Landis more than two years ago. It might well be that the President would prefer to leave the matter from now on for determination under the regulations laid down under the Selective Service Act and the regulations governing the man power situation generally."

Waibel Classic Entry Reads Like Who's Who of Bowling

By Herman Wecke

The entry list for the fifth annual Waibel Classic, to be held at the W. & S. Recreation, next Saturday and Sunday, reads like a Who's Who of bowling, especially as regards the Western stars. There are spotlighters galore and the man who wins the estimated first prize of $1500 will have to be at his best for the entire eight games.

A couple of All-Star teams, quintets any captain would be glad to have at the start of the season, could be formed from the men who will show their kegling skill here.

Take St. Louis for instance. How about a team made up of Nelson Burton, Sam Garofalo, Art Scheer, Lowell Jackson and Hank Lauman, with Hasry Frederic and Cone Hermann as the extra men? Quite an aggregation of pin spillers. Each one of these men holds an outstanding record in American Bowling Congress competition. Burton has a grand average of 204 for the last five A. B. C.'s; Garofalo has 196 for 12; Scheer and Jackson 194 for 11; Hermann 192 for 12 and Frederic 187 for 11 title competitions.

Here's a Real Pin Team.

As regards a national team, one which would be hard to beat, could be selected. Tops probably would be Ned Day, the present national match-game champion. Then there would be Johnny Crimmins of Detroit; Walter Ward of Cleveland; Ad Carlson, Chicago and Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee. That's an outfit capable of hitting 1000 a game. Day has a grand average of 200 for 13 A. B. C. tourneys and for the last 10 has a mark of 203.12, topped only by Crimmins' 203.38 for the same period. The Detroit star's mark for 22 national title competitions is 198. Ward has 199 for 17, with 202.59 for the last 10. Carlson's average is 199 for 18 events and Benkovic's 198 for 15. Reserves? Well, what about Hank Marino, Wally Freitag and Charles Lausche.

These men, however, are not the only stars in the field of some 200 which will seek to capture the event won last year by Connie Schwoegler with a total of 1700. The Madison star will be back in an effort to repeat his triumph of a year ago. Then there will be Buddy Bomar, Ray Newton, former St. Louisan, now of Memphis; Rudy Pugel, one of Milwaukee's newest stars; Joe Kissoff, Phil Bauman, Adam Plunge and Eli Maricich.

Tough Picking a Favorite.

Additional St. Louis entrants include Frank Mataya, Len Springmeyer, Lee Badaracco, Vic Bliss, Erv Brunsmann and Chris Sottrell. Placed on the same aggregation, this too would be a pretty tough team to beat.

Picking a favorite for the tournament would be hazardous. Favorites in bowling, like any other sport, have a habit of disappointing. Take the case of the Petersen classic, which closed in Chicago only last Sunday. Favorites fell by the wayside and a darkhorse from Detroit came through to top 'em all. The same is apt to happen in the Waibel, won previously by such stars as Bomar, Mataya and Schwoegler.

While the stars are here, many of them will take a shot at Kaley's doubles classic to be held at the Kaley Recreation on the same days. Day, Ward, Burton and numerous others already have entered. In fact, Day is scheduled to roll with no fewer than four partners.

ARMY TAKES OVER SEVEN TEXTILE PLANTS

Full Production to Be Resumed Tomorrow After Nine-Week Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 8 (AP).—The Army, acting speedily on a presidential order, late yesterday took over seven Fall River textile mills where labor trouble "is holding up the flow of material urgently needed by our men in combat areas."

As two Army officers took command at each of the affected plants, Col. Curtis G. Pratt, War Department representative, announced that operations would be resumed on regular schedule tomorrow.

"These mills have contracts for vital war material," Col. Pratt said in a statement, "and have been idle or operating on a limited basis since December because of labor disturbance."

He took over the plants and issued the statement a short time after President Roosevelt's order to Secretary of War Stimson was made public at Washington.

Col. Pratt said the Army's sole purpose in taking over operation of the mills was to "see that our armed forces get the equipment and supplies required for scheduled operations."

The members of three independent unions have been on strike for nine weeks—a strike affecting 6000 employes.

Disagreement over a seniority clause in a new contract was the basis of the walkout.

9 Killed in Army Bomber Crash.

WENDOVER, Utah, Feb. 8 (AP). — Nine Army airmen were killed yesterday when a heavy bomber crashed eight miles northeast of Wendover air base. None was from the St. Louis area.

The day you threw a party instead of buying a bond

"THREE TIMES NEW GROUPS OF AMERICANS SCALED UP THE CLIFF TO BE BLOWN TO ETERNITY."

It was the 26th of May, 1943.

To you, it was a heavenly Spring day that just had to be celebrated in some way. Besides, you were so bored with all the talk and headlines of war.

To our men on Attu, it was the fifteenth day of incessant fighting. That is, to those who had not been killed, or put out of action with wounds or frozen feet.

They hadn't slept for days; their sunburned faces ached; their heads and beards and wool-covered bodies itched; their feet were never dry. The dead lay all about them in the fog and snow—an occasional Jap, twisted grotesquely in death, over the body of an American.

But the biggest push of the battle was just ahead.

They had to attack a Jap-held plateau called the Bench, which meant scaling a steep cliff, in the face of continuous gunfire from the Japs, smugly entrenched on top. The final 25 yards were so steep, the soldiers had to drag themselves up by plunging their rifle butts into the snow.

The Japs lay quietly in wait, until our men were almost to the summit. Then, without rising from their fox holes, they rolled grenades down on them. Three times new groups of Americans scaled up the cliff to be blown to eternity.

And suddenly—one American stood alone on the Bench. With his rifle pointed down, he walked deliberately from one fox hole to another, shooting into them with deadly accuracy. Impervious to the Jap grenades all about him, he went on, finally using his gun butt to bash the Japs as they trembled in their holes.

He was still bashing away when our troops finally reached him.

Asked later how he did it, he explained his best friend had been killed as they started up the slope and he didn't remember anything after that.

Asked by his Colonel what he wanted, he said since he'd been a Corporal so long, Sergeant's stripes would be nice.

He got his stripes and he's mighty gratified. He did not get an invitation to your party, but that's all right—he was too busy to attend.

PARAMUSHIRO SHELLING VIEWED AS A DIVERSION

Apparently Not Preliminary to Landing, but Intended to Confuse Japs on Plans.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The surface ship bombardment of Japan's Paramushiro base in the Kurile Islands appears to have been primarily a diversionary operation, intended to lead the Tokyo admiralty into deeper confusion and uncertainty.

While naval experts in the United States speculate on the question, "Where is the Japanese fleet?" the Japanese naval command must ponder a somewhat similar question, "Where should it be?"

A Vichy broadcast yesterday quoted a Japanese communique as saying that American forces had landed in the Kurile Islands, but naval sources here quickly disclaimed knowledge of any such landing.

The Navy announcement here confined itself to a statement that United States naval units bombarded the south and east coast of Paramushiro, starting fires and hitting an enemy ship, then withdrew without damage.

The description of the operation combined with other factors, however, led to the general opinion that the assault was part of a series of major and minor blows all along the great Pacific arc, intended to distract the enemy—and was not in itself a preliminary to invasion.

This is not to say that such a softening-up procedure might not start but that the time is not yet here. Although the American force in the Pacific—sea, air and land—has grown to huge proportions, there must be a still greater mustering and deploying of strength before so bold an attempt as a landing on Paramushiro is attempted.

NIKOPOL TAKEN BY REDS; 7 NAZI DIVISIONS BEATEN

machine, hence the Nazi defenders put up a bitter fight to retain their hold.

Stalin said Nikopol, a city of 58,000, was captured by storm. He did not mention directly the fate of five German divisions which had been reported cut off in the area. Earlier, however, dispatches said Malinvosky's troops had come to grips with the remnants of these divisions in the Dnieper marshlands outside the city.

Stalin ordered 12 artillery salvos fired by 124 Moscow guns to commemorate liquidation of the bridgehead and the same salute for the capture of Nikopol.

Many Trapped Troops Killed.

The situation confronting the remnants of 10 divisions trapped in the Cherkasy area, 150 miles north of Nikopol, grew more desperate as the Russians cut down many of the encircled troops. The First and Second Ukrainian armies of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev reduced the pocket to about 40 square miles by gains within its fringe. The Reds planted their artillery within shelling range of German air fields which heretofore had offered the sole means of escape to survivors of the 100,000 troops originally penned in the trap.

On the northern front troops of Gen. M. M. Popov's Second Baltic Army, which took 80 settlements kolniki yesterday posed an immediate threat to the German-held Pskov-Warsaw trunk railway. One spearhead was about 60 miles from Latvia.

Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad Army was hammering farther into Estonia and dislodging the Nazis from their positions east of Lake Peipus. One Soviet force pushed down the Vitebsk railway yesterday to capture Cholovo, 22 miles north of the rail junction of Batetskaya, and Pelkovo, 18 miles northeast of Luga, strategic base on the Leningrad-Pskov railway.

ARGENTINA ARRESTS 3 AXIS OFFICERS AS SPY LEADERS

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 8 (AP).—German Military Air Attache Gen. Friedrich Wolf, Japanese Naval Attache Rear Admiral Katsumi Yukishita, and his assistant, Capt. Tadasi Kameda, have been detained after an investigation showed they participated actively in espionage in Argentina, the Federal police announced today.

The three termed leaders of spy activities, have been placed under house arrest, the announcement said, adding that much evidence had been gathered indicating the extraordinary scope of the German espionage ring. This evidence will be disclosed soon.

(Argentina last month broke relations with Germany and Japan. normally would be eligible for repatriation along with diplomats of their respective countries.)

LACK OF DARING BY ALLIES IN CONTRAST TO NAZIS AND REDS CRITICISED BY BRITON

Commanders Inhibited From Taking Big Risks for Big Results, He Says—British Press Feels Opportunities Were Missed in Anzio Operation.

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK

The Chicago Daily News—St. Louis Post-Dispatch Special Cable Copyright, 1944.

LONDON, Feb. 8.

THE suggestion of a "high British authority" in Washington that the Anzio beachhead "may be a disappointment to the Allies" has not served to lighten the feeling of concern held here over what seems to be the almost critical position of the Allied forces in the beachhead.

This sentiment, emphasized by comments from correspondents from the front, is played up in the British press today.

The London Daily Telegraph, for example, quotes a British authority in Washington as stating that the question why the Allie forces have not rushed farther inland would be answered when the facts are known. This authority adds that both Russian and German field commanders could be told to dispatch a force into a virtually hopeless position provided the objective which could be gained would be great enough but 'we are not prepared to do that.'"

'Ponderous Technique.'

The London Daily Herald, quoting the Washington statement, adds an article from its own correspondent with the Fifth Army, which seems to confirm that statement.

The Herald's correspondent says: "The impression I have formed, particularly during the past three months, is that our technique—indeed, our war machinery as a whole—in this country is ponderous." He criticises what he considers to be too great reliance on artillery barrages, and lack of an effective answer to the Germans' use of mortars and machine guns.

The London Times devotes an editorial to the question and leaves the impression that, despite our slowness and setbacks in Italy, the campaign is proving itself eminently worthwhile because of the number of German troops being held down there. It suggests, however, that there has not been enough quick thinking or elasticity since the beachhead was established.

The latter view seems to be held by some expert observers recently arrived here from Italy. Their criticism might be divided into two parts.

Lack of Daring.

The first concerns general direction. There they would be inclined to define inelasticity as lack of readiness to take advantage of unexpected gains. They cite the little opposition found when the initial landing was made.

The second criticism is centered on the lack of initiative of junior officers, particularly Americans (the critic was an American).

It was suggested in 1940 that many Army commanders suffered from a psychological handicap—fear of public opinion if battle losses were very high—and that this led them to proceed more cautiously than should have been done if initial advantages were to be made the most of.

It has been the general view that British commanders have overcome this mental obstacle to a large extent.

Strategists are arguing, and will probably continue to argue for a long time, whether the original plan for the Fifth Army's invasion of Italy would not have been worth trying. It will be recalled that it was planned to throw airborne troops into Rome but at the last minute Marshal Pietro Badoglio informed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that he could not guarantee that his troops would be able to secure the Rome airfields and that phase of the plan was called off.

One school of strategists argues that it would have been worth the gamble, for, if it had succeeded, it would have eliminated many weary months of fighting from peak to peak in the highlands south of Rome. If it had not, casualties might not have been any higher than those incurred to date.

London Editorials.

Editorials in the London press today are almost unanimous in suggesting that Allied over-caution at Anzio may have led to missed opportunities.

"By contrast with the breathtaking Russian successes," said the Daily Herald, "Italy is a disappointment . . . the feeling cannot be resisted that prudence weighed too heavily in the scale and that greater boldness might have been rewarded."

The Times of London commented:

"It has been asked whether opportunities have been missed during the first phase of the Italian operation. The real question raised has been concerned with the possibility, at the first onset, of ranging the country inland with light and mobile forces which might eventually have been pushed back into the beachhead but not—it would at least seem credible—until they had sown destruction and confusion over miles of vital German communications."

Contrasting Views.

The British military authority in Washington was quoted in dispatches to London newspapers as saying that the initiative in the Anzio beachhead now was tending to fall into German hands.

(In New York, Brig. Gen. Horace Sewell, military expert of the British Information Services, said in a formal statement that there was nothing in the present situation to suggest that the Allies have lost the initiative and that the German attack on the beachhead "is a defensive action designed to eliminate the threat to their line of communication."

(Gen. Sewell added that the German commander is committed to the defense of Rome and there is as yet no hint that he is preparing any great offensive stroke, while at the same time Allied progress in the Cassino area is gradually loosening the German hold on the Gustav line and "the Eighth Army on the Adriatic coast certainly cannot be ignored").

SUPPLY ENFORCED POLICY OF CAUTION

By WILLIAM FRYE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Anzio beachhead in Italy is sure to be hit by a powerful German counterattack, military observers here said today, but it probably will weather the storm.

Probably, that is, they emphasized, not certainly. There is a certain amount of uneasiness here about the situation, although as yet no evidence of alarm.

Such an attitude naturally raises the question: Why didn't the troops who achieved tactical surprise and brilliant success in their landings thrust quickly into the interior, slashing German communications and occupying the heights—why are they now in the position of merely consolidating their beachhead against expected counterattack?

The answers, from various quarters, reach into the whole campaign in Italy, but can be fairly well pinned down to one word—supply.

Anzio and Nettuno provide no port facilities worthy of the name—the supply is by barge and landing boat literally across the beaches, a complicated job at best, and particularly so when the weather is bad, as it has been part of the time.

There are suggestions that rapid thrusts by armored columns could have cut the Appian Way, perhaps driven the Germans from the heights around the beachhead, possibly have reached to the Casilini Way—what about them?

Just this: Assuming the tanks have been put ashore with their crews, getting enough drum gasoline rolled through the surf and stored in fuel dumps is quite another matter. Setting up and operating the truck lines to follow the tanks and carry their gasoline from the dumps is still another.

The armored columns alone could not have held any gains they might have made. Their principal value would have been spearheading infantry infiltrations—and immediately the problem of supplying the infantry would arise. Unfailing supply could come only from an established and "consolidated" beachhead.

The decision for the Allies appears to have lain between playing their luck and striking out boldly as soon as they rolled ashore, or discounting luck and establishing a firm base before making a real effort to advance.

There are indications that the Allies, operating with limited strength in Italy, do not count Rome a sufficiently valuable prize to assume the risk of heavy casualties to get it—they will move as fast as careful preparation will permit, but leave the bold stroke to commanders of larger forces, aiming at greater objectives.

SPAIN RELEASES SIX ITALIAN MERCHANT SHIPS; THREE SAIL

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Six out of seven Italian merchant ships in metropolitan Spanish ports have been released and three have sailed, it was announced officially today. The seventh is held because of a dispute over its ownership.

Negotiations on Italian warships are being handled separately. None has been released.

The release of the ships occurred after the Duke of Alba, Spanish Ambassador to London, returned to Madrid a week ago. The action was regarded here as an indication that British-American pressure on Spain for strict neutrality was bringing results.

Nazi Glider Bomb a Real Threat To Allied Invasion of Europe

By DON WHITEHEAD

NAPLES, Feb. 8 (AP).

WHEN the great invasion of the European continent begins, one of the biggest responsibilities of the Allied air forces will be to prevent any concentrated use by the Germans of rocket-propelled glider bombs.

There is no breach of security involved in saying that this new aerial weapon of the Nazis is a potent threat against shipping. The Germans know it and the Allies know it.

An invasion fleet at anchor is like a flock of sitting ducks unless air cover can intercept the control plane from which the gliders are directed by radio.

Antiaircraft fire is only partly effective against the small winged projectiles, because they sweep down on their targets swiftly and are difficult to hit. As a matter of fact, it is usually only a lucky hit when one is stopped by ack-ack fire.

Used at Salerno.

The Germans used glider bombs against the invasion fleet at Salerno and again at Anzio. Censorship prevented disclosure of the full effectiveness of this weapon until Winston Churchill announced its use at Salerno. Again at Anzio, correspondents with the landing forces were forbidden to say the Germans were using rocket bombs against shipping. A directive said no mention was to be made of the glider projectiles.

Since then, however, these restrictions have been lifted. Now the correspondents may tell something in detail of what the rocket bombs are like and how the Germans use them.

From descriptions pieced together by several eyewitnesses who have watched these winged weapons attack, it is learned the bomb is about 20 to 30 feet long, with tail fins acting as a stabilizer and rudder. It has a wing-spread of some 15 feet and in flight it looks like a small plane.

Apparently it is armor-piercing. At Salerno, one of them that hit a ship penetrated thick steel deck plates and exploded in the craft's interior.

The bomb is attached to the belly of a twin-engined Heinkel bomber, which is equipped as a control plane. When still some distance from the target, the pilot releases the glider and drops the flaps on his plane's wings to slow his own speed, until the bomb shoots ahead into the pilot's vision.

Controlled by Radio.

From the time of its release, the glider apparently is controlled visually and directed by radio. The glider can make a sharp turn to swoop in on its target from the side, if necessary.

Except when the control plane is in trouble from fighter attack or ack-ack, or the glider is hit by shrapnel, the bomb appeared to observers to be under excellent control at all times.

Thsi does not mean the rocket bombs always score a hit. They don't. Many of them fall harmlessly into the sea, either because the pilot loses control at the last minute, or because they overshoot the target.

Whether the enemy can muster a large number of glider bombs for use against an invasion is not known, but it is logical to assume so, and the air forces must be prepared to protect shipping from this type of attack.

Witnesses tell of a red-and-green glow at the tail of the glider when the rocket is in flight. This apparently is caused by the propelling charge. At the Anzio beach, Capt. Clark Neal of Clarendon, Ark., was standing at the rail of a ship late one afternoon when the Germans came over with glider bombs.

"I saw one of the bombs heading for a ship near us," he explained. "It made a screaming sound in flight and looked like a small plane. At first, I thought it was a plane that had been shot down and was falling into the water.

"There was a light in the tail end which changed from green to red. It looked like a faint tracer."

Nazi Air Rocket Gun and Gas Shell Described.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 8 (AP).—Another alleged German "secret weapon"—a compressed air rocket gun supposedly capable of firing 1000-pound shells containing booster charges—was described today in a Zurich dispatch to the Dagens Nyheter.

The dispatch, quoting a technical expert living in Germany, said the booster charges explode at a certain altitude to give the projectile additional range. He said the Nazis intended to use the weapon to bombard London and other English towns.

A German rocket shell which covers its target with a blanket of heavy gas to be ignited later by an incendiary bomb was described by the same expert. The shell could be fired from a rocket gun at great distance and the gas, inflammable but not poisonous, would be touched off by a fire bomb dropped by plane. The story said the weapon had been used on a limited scale at Sevastopol.

120-Ton Tank Said to Be Nazi Secret Weapon

By RICHARD MOWRER

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1944.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 8.

THE Germans are counting on at least three new weapons with which to meet the second front, I have learned on good authority. These are monster tanks, weighing 120 tons or more, a new type of antiaircraft shell, and a more destructive aerial torpedo.

The aerial torpedo has already been used against the Allies, but it is still in the experimental stage, it is believed.

The new tanks have not been in action yet. They are being produced in sections in different factories in the Reich and Czecho-Slovakia and are not being assembled in any one factory, in order to maintain secrecy. Various parts, on completion, are being shipped to special Army assembly plants in front areas where no foreign workers are used. By building sections of these new tanks in separate factories, the Germans are able to use foreign labor without revealing just what the finished product is going to be.

The main characteristic of the new ack-ack shell is its greater area of fragmentation. The body of the shell consists of thin, round metal disks, packed together like candy wafers. When the shell explodes the metal disks sail in all directions and being flat, skip farther than ordinary jagged pieces of shrapnel. The shells already are in mass production.

The aerial torpedoes are said to have more precision through radio control.

Fascist Papers Rail at Vatican As Pro-Allied

Attack Counters Papal Protest Over Violation of Territory.

By PAUL GHALI

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1944.

BERN, Feb. 8.

THE Vatican's protest against the violation of the neutrality of papal territory by Fascist guards is being countered today by an extremely violent neo-Fascist press campaign against the Catholic policy.

Heading the campaign is Roberto Farinacci's Regima Fascista, which accuses the clergy of having reacted too mildly to attacks by the Soviet Government organ Izvestia against the Vatican while reserving all its "thunderbolts" for the neo-Fascists and the Germans. The Catholic clergy has, therefore, shown its complete accord with the Soviets and Anglo-Americans, the paper asserts.

Popolo della Standria, another notorious Fascist paper, asks how long the Italian clergy will be allowed to exhibit its hatred of Germany. It also accuses Catholics of sabotaging the Fascist work of reconstruction.

VATICAN REPORTS RIGHTS VIOLATED

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Armed Fascist guards forced their way into historic St. Paul's Basilica, about a mile outside the wall of Rome, last Thursday, thereby violating the Vatican's extraterritoriality rights, the Vatican radio said last night.

The broadcast, quoting the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, said a "formal strong protest" has been filed over the violation of these rights, "guaranteed by solemn treaties." Thirteen buildings in Rome, besides Vatican City, enjoy the rights, placing them out of the jurisdiction of local and state authorities.

Describing the forced entry into St. Paul's, the Swiss newspaper Basler Nachrichten said the Fascist police, ignoring protests of the rector, searched the church from cellar to roof and arrested 64 persons.

The police were under the command of Pietro Caruso, old-line Fascist recently appointed as new

Text of Green's Appeal to Unions Not to Strike With Victory, Lives Of Fighting Men in the Balance

National Service Act 'Would Not Add a Single Bullet to the Nation's War Production Totals,' and Federation Will Resist It, He Tells Boilermakers' Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 8 (AP).

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, made a no-strike appeal to unions yesterday, calling on workers to "give all we've got" to the war effort.

"There can be no "justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work" with the lives of our fighting men and victory in the balance, he told the International Boilermakers' convention. Excerpts from his address follow:

"The men and women who make up your organization are serving in the front lines of the battle of production.

"They are key workers in the construction of ships which have made victory possible for the United Nations—27 million deadweight tons of merchant ships since Pearl Harbor, which is equal to the entire world's tonnage before the war; and 3,700,000 displacement tons of fighting ships, more than doubling the size of our Navy within two years.

"This stupendous job was accomplished by the hard work, the skill and the genius of the members of your union, who have served as faithfully and devotedly in the nation's shipyards and Navy yards as the members of our armed forces have served in battle against the enemy.

Two American Armies.

"Our country must depend upon two armies to win victory in this war—the army of fighting men and the army of production soldiers. The members of our armed forces on land and sea cannot hope for success in the critical months ahead unless you, the soldiers of production, do your job supremely well here at home.

"It is labor's great responsibility to back up the new offensive drives with the greatest possible supply of ships, planes, tanks and guns—a vast flow of war materials which in quantity and quality is certain to overwhelm the enemy. In that way we can hasten the day of victory and save the lives of many thousands of our boys in uniform.

"Knowing the hearts and minds of American workers, I am completely confident that they will discharge their duties and their responsibilities to the highest extent. They will not shirk, they will not strike, they will not cause any unnecessary delays in our war effort. Your own past record in-

FEWER SHIPS BUILT LAST MONTH DUE TO COMPLEXITY OF SPECIAL-USE CRAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).

CONSTRUCTION of a larger number of complex, special-purpose vessels accounted for a decline in the total number of ships delivered by United States builders in January, the Maritime Commission said yesterday. There were 124 ships completed during the month, 84 less than December's record.

The commission said that only 72 of the January craft were Liberty ships, quickly fabricated on production lines. Others included 23 special-purpose vessels for military use, nine C-type cargo vessels which are much faster than Liberty ships, 11 standard tankers, three emergency tankers converted from Liberty hulls, two coastal tankers and four concrete barges.

All the special purpose vessels require more man-hours to complete than the relatively simple Liberty ships.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Allied War Criminals

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Amid all the talk about bringing Fascist war criminals to trial, one wonders whether or not American, British and French war criminals will ever be brought to trial.

I refer to those who armed Japan, while little people protested vainly for 25 years that all that American metal would come back to us as bullets; to those who demanded that the world stand by at the very beginning of this war, when the Manchurian "Koo," according to Japan, was "following" the Rising Sun.

I refer to those criminals who hired Hitler to crush Russia and thereby created a Frankenstein; to those powerful "allied" interests who demanded "neutrality and hands off" as the Fascists and Nazis developed their dreadful war machine while butchering democratic Spain.

Will they, whose hands are stained with the blood of their own and their neighbors' boys, ever be brought to trial?

O. HECK.

Atrocities at Home

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We read with horror of the atrocities of the Japanese. We can hardly conceive of any more such crimes perpetrated by a civilized people upon helpless human beings unless we think of those committed here in Missouri, where at Sikeston a man was dragged alive behind a car until dead, and at Maryville a man was tied and burned until crisp on the top of the school house.

L. V. WILLIAMS.

F. D. R.'s Wen

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If President Roosevelt had any idea in the back of his head as to "wen" he would retire, it has now been removed. Could the "wen" have referred to Wendell Willkie?

MISSOURI REPUBLICAN.

Congressional Failure

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Congress of the United States said Yes to enrolling your sons, husbands and brothers in the military services. Now Congress dilly-dallies on the question of legislation to facilitate the soldiers' vote.

Where is the voice of the people on this matter? If the Government has the power to go into any state and select a man for military service, then it should have the equal power to make certain that he can take advantage of his constitutional right to vote. And it should concern no one as to his choice of candidate for office. Bullets ask no questions. Neither should Congress.

The people should speak up now, for adverse legislation can hurt the morale of our fighting men.

MILTON M. HERMANSON.
New York City.

Unanswered Question

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The condition of Italy today is a typical illustration of the chaotic condition of the world. Five months after Italy's "unconditional surrender" to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, the unanswered question today is: "Whom does Italy belong to—the Italians, the United Nations or Germany?"

WILLIAM H. HARGROVE.

For Secret School Board Meetings

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, the School Board was taken to task for its private committee meetings by a letter-writer who signed himself S. L. C.

In my opinion, it is bad form to find fault with an institution for secrecy and then hide one's name behind initials.

Committee meetings are designed to investigate and to discuss problems that are later to be brought before open meetings, where the findings become public. Men can argue a subject from every angle when they get together in an informal manner.

If, however, members were in constant fear of having every word said published in the next edition of the news, committee meetings would become an institution without a soul or a brain. No one ever saw a play without a rehearsal. Open meetings would muzzle men from expressing freely those things that should be said.

So I think even S. L. C. feels that way when he expresses his opinion of our School Board by keeping his name private.

W. F. SPRENGNETHER.

Query

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Like some noted General of old, Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen of the Catholic church believes that the best defense is an attack. In his recently printed reply to the statement from Russia that the Vatican is pro-Fascist, the Monsignor's first and last sentences are accusations against Russia.

He quotes Jesus: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." Then he immediately forgets the request to "forgive," and stresses only "they know not what they do."

Did he not miss the point?

Better News About France

No formal announcement has as yet been made, but there are indications that the American and British governments have been impressed by the many signs that their policy toward the French Committee of Liberation has been grievously in error, and have decided to alter it drastically. In a dispatch giving every indication of drawing its information from high sources, Helen Kirkpatrick, a well-informed London correspondent, says "there is every reason to believe" that this change will shortly be made.

The Kirkpatrick dispatch indicates the granting of two of the requests reported to have been made by Gen. De Gaulle in his recent conference with Mr. Churchill at Marrakesh. French troops, it is now apparently decided, will play a part in the coming invasion of Europe, and liberated France will not be administered by the Allied Military Government, but by the French Committee.

Sound military strategy as well as simple justice recommends these two measures. French troops have already given a good account of themselves in North Africa, the Near East and in Italy. What forces can be expected to fight more stubbornly and courageously to drive the Nazis out of France than men who have a personal grudge to settle, who are battling to free their homeland from invasion? To bar Frenchmen from participating in the second Battle of France would have been a sheer waste of seasoned military material, and a mortal affront to every soldier in the ranks of the Fighting French.

It would also have been an affront to place redeemed French soil under the rule of an alien military force, the AMG. Allied troops will be moving into France as liberators, not as conquerors. AMG was organized and trained for the purpose of ruling enemy territory, which France most decidedly is not. According to the Kirkpatrick report, AMG will be used henceforth for its original purpose, and not for policing the people and territory of an active ally.

So it appears that the policy of cold-shouldering Gen. De Gaulle in favor of Gen. Giraud is acknowledged to have failed, and is to be abandoned in favor of full co-operation with the French committee. Regardless of De Gaulle's idiosyncracies, which seem the major reason that some Allied leaders turned against him, there can be no disputing that the General commands the respect and loyalty of both the French soldiers who escaped from the Nazis and the men and women still fighting in the underground at home.

This reversal of Allied policy, when it takes effect, will be the best assurance that our invading troops will have the support of the French people to the utmost extent that it can be made effective.

On Getting the Cold Soldier

The Army has suffered the war's severest blow to its prestige in the report by Miss Ingrid Bergman, the eminent wind-tossed film beauty, that on a trip to the Alaskan bivouacs she found the soldiers so shy she virtually had to chase them in order to talk with them. Fresh soldiers? Miss Bergman encountered none. "Frozen inside and out," her estimate of the situation ran.

At the picture of Miss Bergman reduced to giving pursuit on account of the timidity of the American fighting man, the imagination balks. Our guess would have been that a gathering of men would react to the lovely lady's presence about as a gathering of women would respond to a display of nylon hose.

Next time, will the Army look to its laurels? A long, appreciative whistle might break the ice. Even a "Yoo-hoo" might be ventured. Come, come, men; after all, are we wolves or are we mice?

No Denials By the Japs

Charges of wholesale atrocities against British and American prisoners are answered by a Japanese spokesman in a statement taking up, in condensed form, almost a newspaper column, but nowhere in that column is there any denial that the barbarous treatment took place. It is apparently too much even for Nipponese guile to dispute the charges. All that the Tokyo speaker can do is to recite a list of alleged atrocities on the part of Allied forces. He evidently intends these as a valid excuse for the starvation, beatings, torture and outright murder inflicted upon helpless prisoners by the Japs.

Needless to say, the Tokyo counter-charges will find no acceptance in the Allied countries. The Japs' talent for deceit and treachery has been demonstrated time and again, from the Kurusu "Trojan horse" peace mission that preceded Pearl Harbor to the disclosure by Foreign Secretary Eden that faked letters had been sent out from prison camps reporting captives in good health who had actually been slaughtered.

The State Department's list of 89 protests is a documentation of the shocking disclosures of 10 days ago as to the fate of American and Filipino prisoners. On Dec. 12, 1942, for instance, there was an "extended protest regarding torture, neglect, physical violence, solitary confinement, illegal prison sentences, mistreatment and abuse that led to deaths of some Americans. . . ." By neither denying nor acknowledging these charges, the Japanese Government has convicted itself of offenses against both the laws of war and the laws of humanity.

More Power for the Nation

The Twentieth Century Fund, completing a survey of the power industry, makes a recommendation that has to do with the industrial strength of the nation both for war and for peace. It proposes greater interconnection of electric utility systems, publicly-owned and privately-owned.

Increased use of interconnections would not only have the effect of increasing the available amount of electric power, particularly for industries which require a continuous flow of power as do aluminum factories and many other war plants.

It would also contribute to flood control, to the protection of industries and communities against interruption by disaster. At its own doorstep, St. Louis has a striking example of this fact. The Union Electric Co.'s Bagnell Dam, which has actually been operated to make floods worse, could be operated to reduce floods. Adequate interconnections would enable other plants to take over as much of the power load as Bagnell would need to drop at any time of emergency in order to operate first of all for flood control.

Both in power and in flood protection, the operation of isolated power systems is an economic waste.

A Job for the Next Attorney General

Missouri's next Attorney General will have an important item of unfinished business on his calendar. This is the ouster suit brought by Attorney General Roy McKittrick against the 123 stock fire insurance companies which he charges with having participated in the notorious Pendergast-O'Malley bribery scandal and also with having violated the State's anti-trust laws by their rate-fixing practices.

In the normal course, it would have taken much time for the hearings and other proceedings connected with such far-reaching litigation. The insurance corporations resisting the State's authority as has been their practice for years, have resorted to every dilatory tactic in the extensive bag of tricks of their clever lawyers. They have succeeded in what no doubt was one of their aims—they have caused so much delay that the suit cannot possibly be submitted to the Missouri Supreme Court for decision until some time next year, after expiration of Mr. McKittrick's term.

The Attorney General, now nearing the close of his third term, will not be again a candidate for that office. He wishes to be United States Senator, and the powerful insurance lobby already has indicated it will enter Missouri politics to try to defeat him.

What is more important, however, is that this sinister lobby no doubt will be anxiously scrutinizing the prospective candidates for Mr. McKittrick's place. The voters, long exploited by the insurance monopoly which now is trying to make Congress knuckle down to its dictates, will have to be on guard. With the stench of the Pendergast-O'Malley deal still in their nostrils, they will know just how vigorously to slap down any effort of the insurance corporations to use political power to block further the course of justice in this State.

Mr. Green's Plea Against Strikes

It was an impressive plea which President William Green of the AFL made in an address at Kansas City yesterday when he asked that there be no more strikes until victory is won.

Mr. Green's speech was made to delegates attending the convention of the International Boilermakers' Union, but its powerful appeal should be heard and heeded by every man and woman in America who today works in a war plant or any other industry contributing to our conduct of the war. "When the lives of our sons and brothers and loved ones are at stake, when victory in this war against hated tyranny hangs in the balance," Mr. Green said, "there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work."

The simple, sober, earnest message of this veteran labor leader, if heeded, will mean an earlier end of the war and the saving of lives. It is recommended also to all those in positions of authority in the management of industry who have it in their power to adjust the grievances on which the strike evil feeds.

Light On the REA Attack

Why is it that President Roosevelt did not long ago remove Harry Slattery as Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration? If half the charges made against Mr. Slattery are true, he should have been dismissed without delay.

Thanks to the persistence of a Senate subcommittee, which had to overcome much official lethargy and some downright opposition, the disturbing background of the fight on the REA Administrator is being brought to light. The activities of a former Deputy Administrator, Robert B. Craig, once considered for the job of Administrator, are disclosed as having figured powerfully in the attack on Mr. Slattery.

Mr. Craig has testified before the Senate subcommittee that the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association, principal instrumentality used in the effort to discredit the Administrator, was his "brain child," but he denied that it was organized with any political purpose in mind. In his latest testimony, he has acknowleged that he co-operated with the association's executive manager, former Congressman Clyde T. Ellis, in preparation of a "block-buster" letter to President Roosevelt using this strong language: "Slattery is wrecking the REA program. . . . We appeal to you to act before it is too late."

That was eight months ago. At that time, more than a million rural establishments, mostly farms, were receiving central station electric service through co-operatives financed by REA, and today the 810 co-operatives actually in operation are making a remarkable record for financial stability.

One fact being made clear by the Senate inquiry is that REA has suffered, but has not been wrecked, by being subjected to the political control of the Secretary of Agriculture. The President made the mistake of transferring REA from independent status to the Department of Agriculture. He has not made the mistake of acting prematurely on the intemperate demands of the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association. He and the public will know more of what is behind the attack on REA when the Senate inquiry is concluded.

To Mr. Baumes

Here's a salute to Mr. Baumes, the Park Commissioner, for deciding to turn on the water in Milles Fountain without waiting for the calendar to announce spring. With the temperature floating in the 40s, and 50s, even going so high the other day as the simmering 70s, why not?

It's a dead thing, the fountain, without the sprays, and a beautiful and refreshing thing with them, yet in other years there has been a strange reluctance on the part of the city to make the most of one of its greatest attractions. The city has kept the fountain turned off until public outcry occurred.

As we were saying, Good work, Mr. Commissioner!

THE MEANING OF YOUR WAR BONDS

A Briton Views William Allen White

The Mirror of Public Opinion

He was not great, and he was often wrong, but he was a generous and understanding part of Jefferson and Lincoln's America, says an English progressive; he believed in the simple people, was unimpressed by wealth or power, was as solid as a statue of marble.

By Harold J. Laski, British Author and Educator

LONDON.

I have just read of William Allen White's death. He was the fulfillment of much that is best in American life and it is to Americans like him that all of us who are of a progressive turn of mind in Europe look when we think of the power America is certain to exercise in the next generation of the world's history.

I met White once in Chicago during the last war and once in Washington when Coolidge was President. I do not think that he was a great man—but wise, generous and understanding.

He had not an atom of that illusion which equates bigness with grandeur. He was happy in the editorship of the Emporia Gazette and I suspect he would not have changed it to run the New York Times or the Washington Post.

White seemed to me to be a part of that America of which the supreme representatives were Jefferson and Lincoln; the America which is concerned first of all with the ordinary people and their lot in life; the America which is simple, kindly and proud to think that an humble man can there become a significant man.

He Was His Own Master

He was a cultivated person; but far more important than his cultivation was the fact that he called no man master, believed in the right of ordinary people to freedom and equality and could never be happy unless he satisfied his conscience.

It was no small achievement to make a daily journal in a small city in Kansas respected wherever honorable journalism is respected and a pretty big achievement to make the opinions of the man who edited that journal important to everyone, even beyond the American continent, who wanted to understand America.

I think White was often wrong. I never understood why a man whose essential ideas were linked to Jeffersonian democracy belonged to the Republican party. I never understood why he could speak not merely with friendship but even with respect of Coolidge. I thought local patriotism rather than intellectual insight explained his ardor for Landon in 1936.

I always suspected that the stereotype of America that was in his mind's eye was very much more simple than the facts of the last generation warranted. He seemed to me to attach importance to the thought of the business man in Main Street far beyond its worth. I never thought he realized half enough how much American civilization owes to Europe, above all in the things that give America its majesty.

I am pretty confident that he immensely exaggerated the ease with which the ordinary American, above all the ordinary immigrant to America, could attain security and comfort.

The Soundness of Granite

But when one has said everything of White that seems mistaken and bewildering, he remains as solid as a statue hewn of marble. His integrity was absolute. He never tolerated cruelty and always wanted to go on knowing more. There was nothing pretentious in him, nothing that sought to explain that he was really the representative American.

He liked simple people and simple ways. He spoke to the street car conductor as he spoke to the biggest figure in the business life of America. He represented the American idea because he cared so deeply for the dignity of human beings.

He did not pretend war was anything but the brutal and ugly thing it is, but neither did he pretend that America had the right to evade the experience of its brutality and ugliness just because it was distant from the scene of the conflict. Because he was in the full sense an American citizen, he was in the full sense, too, a citizen of the world; if his heart was passionately devoted to America, it was big and generous enough to know that America is most itself when it gives to others.

White was a noble representative of the average American at his best. It is only an America that fulfills his dream of victory over Nazism that can go on making a small provincial city the seat of a journal where men speak freely about the great things of life.

Mr. Dies' New Sensation

From the San Antonio (Tex.) Express.

> "O wonderful, wonderful, and most wonderful, wonderful! and yet again wonderful, and after that out of all hooping." —As You Like It: III, 2.

Congress' grant of $75,000 to the Dies Committee for carrying on its "investigations" into un-American activities evidently has produced a rejuvenating and edifying effect upon Representative Martin Dies of Texas. It apparently has encouraged him to the startling discovery—a mere dozen years late—that the Axis has been operating propaganda activities in this country all that time. Or perhaps Mr. Dies has just now got around to reading John Roy Carlson's expose, "Under Cover."

Certainly that is the only reasonable explanation of Mr. Dies' otherwise inexplicable, sudden announcement that Japanese agents, German and "German-American" Bundists and other subversives have been active in the United States since "10 years before Pearl Harbor."

That fact—in no sense due to the Dies Committee's "revelations," which in their heyday were concerned almost entirely with "Communist infiltration"—has been known all along to informed Americans not blinded by their own prejudices. Lately it has become household talk in many thousand homes where Mr. Carlson's book has been thoughtfully read, and in millions more that have been told about it by those readers, by newspapers and otherwise.

All those facts will lead Americans generally to wonder anew why a Congress conscious of appalling Government waste nevertheless will itself waste $75,000 on a committee that long since outlived whatever usefulness—widely disputed even at the time—it once may have possessed.

South Africa Goes Industrial As a Result of War's Impact

"The Union of South Africa," by Lewis Sowden.
(Doubleday, Doran & Co., Garden City, N. Y.)

Reporting with almost lyrical enthusiasm upon the industrial contribution which the Union of South Africa has made to the war, Mr. Sowden looks for considerably greater development of the country industrially in the postwar years, and hopes the principal market for South African manufactures can be developed on the home continent.

This British dominion of 10,000,000 people has been historically non-industrial, partly because of the one-time British idea that Britain should be the workshop of the Empire, and partly because, as the Afrikaners themselves say, "More is ook'n dag"—"tomorrow is also a day."

Dependent almost entirely upon gold (so much so that, directly and indirectly, it has furnished half of all the Government's revenue) and upon diamonds, the Union, though rich in iron ore and coal, had no steel industry until it was established by an act of government in 1928.

It was not until the people of South Africa waked up to the fact that, if they were to be armed in a world fraught with danger, they would have to arm themselves, that they began the industrialization for war which has now reached such remarkable proportions. The foresight represented in the Government's steel industry was a life-saver, for this industry became the basis of the entire armament program.

Though South Africa had never before produced a gun, it now began manufacturing howitzers, shells, bombs, trench mortars, in what had been a mineral-water works, a tube factory, the Royal Mint and railway workshops. Armored cars and transport vehicles were produced, though the paucity of highways in the Union is such that often the only avenue of travel is across open country. South Africa is making steel helmets, army boots, portable bridges, prefabricated parts for airplane hangars, pipes, wire rope, land mines, gun sights.

For the long future, Mr. Sowden believes that the Union of South Africa "is in a position to become the workshop of Central Africa if its people will only look to the North instead of struggling vainly to compete in the congested markets of Europe."

This book of Mr. Sowden's is scholarly, comprehensive and often pretty dull. The author leans to the extreme in apologism on behalf of Empire policies, though he is very frank in saying that the progressive future depends upon an end of repression of the colored races in Africa and India.

An Excellent Maritime Yarn

"Captain Horatio Hornblower," by C. S. Forester.
(Sun Dial Press, Garden City, N. Y.)

Readers who relish tales of the sea, but want a change from the P-T boats, submarines and plane carriers that inhabit the modern maritime narrative, will find solid enjoyment in Capt. Horatio Hornblower's adventures in the Napoleonic wars. These have been skillfully told in three novels by C. S. Forester, and are now reprinted in one fat volume.

Capt. Hornblower was a gallant figure in his dress uniform of blue coat with gold epaulettes, white breeches and white silk stockings, buckle shoes and gold-hilted sword. He commanded the 36-gun frigate Lydia, and then the Sutherland, with two decks and 74 guns, and there was rapid action aboard both when he grimly strode the quarterdeck. The tale ranks among the best of modern sea stories.

'ON THE RECORD'

By Dorothy Thompson

THE SOVIET COMMONWEALTH—II

I HAVE entitled these columns on the Molotov announcement The Soviet Commonwealth, because this is really the transformation proposed. Having dismissed the childish idea that it is a maneuver for more votes at a peace conference, I want to add that this enormous change should not be regarded as occurring for any specific purpose, except the ever-present one of security through power. It must be seen and assessed inside the framework of the world situation.

Early in December, a speech of Gen. Smuts was published in which he proposed that smaller western European democracies should enter the British commonwealth. The British commonwealth is an attractive proposition. It combines mutual protection with economic advantages and national sovereignty. Its constituent members maintain their national armies and offices of foreign affairs, and even have the right of secession.

Gen. Smuts' speech was an open bid for the extension of permanent British influence upon the continent of Europe and, throughout the European empires upon the Far East. And I think it wise to face the fact that the transformation announced in Russia is a competition for the same thing. As far as outer form is concerned, the lines of the new Soviet commonwealth closely follow the British. But the content of the one is capitalist, and of the other socialist. Molotov, in his speech, reiterated the unswerving fidelity of the Soviet Union to the socialist idea.

How Commonwealth Works.

THE advantage of the British Empire has been its elasticity. For instance, Canada may make treaties with the United States without committing Britain. Australia and New Zealand may come to agreements between themselves and neighbors. The commonwealth, furthermore, does not consist of contiguous areas. This is just why the various governments of the dominions, unions, and commonwealths increasingly demanded autonomy. By this development the British Empire became the one world-wide power, with all shades and degrees of contacts and connections.

The new structure of the Soviet Union makes it possible for it to play a similar role. The deepest reason behind it is that the Soviet Union foresees all shades of socialist experimentation in various areas of the world after the war. New economic developments are unlikely to reproduce the pattern of Russian Communism—the recognition of this is implied in the dissolution of the Comintern. But developments in numbers of states may be such as to make collaboration with a Socialist state more attractive than with capitalist neighbors.

We may assume, for instance, that few modern and self-conscious states will wish to turn over their national resources to development by foreign capital. Yet there are states—and after this war there will be many such in Europe—where private national capital has all but been destroyed by the Nazis or, the Nationals who have maintained it have done so through collaboration with the Nazis. Such states may be led toward some form of state capitalism by nationalism plus necessity. If they are opposed in this by the Anglo-American powers and supported in it by Russia, they would only be restrained in drifting toward the power-protection of the Soviet Union by considerations of sovereignty.

The Alternatives.

NO Frenchman, for instance, wants to be ruled by Moscow, nor by London nor Washington. But given the impossibility of standing alone, he will choose between alternatives. Many factors will enter into that choice, such as forms of economic organization, geography and protection against this or that possible enemy.

The new structure of the Soviet Union presents no claims whatsoever. But it provides the mechanism and structure through which petitions for membership could be considered.

There are countries besides France where such alternatives are certain to be considered. There is, for instance, China. There is, for instance, Yugoslavia — a country of great undeveloped economic resources; there is, for instance, Finland, that once, under the Tsars, had something of that autonomy now offered every state of the Soviet Union. There are, for instance, the new countries of the Middle East, just awakening into national consciousness. And there is, for instance and in the long run Germany.

As a student of the Soviet Union's foreign policy, I have always been impressed with the way in which it reserves to itself unlimited possibilities within a clear plan, without committing itself to any fixed program. There is no question that this new step has immensely widened the possibilities. The extent to which they can be exploited, however, depends not alone upon the Soviet Union, but upon the policies of Britain and America.

The Soviet Union has entered into open competition, by open diplomacy, for a focal position as the magnet of Europe and Asia. If the Western powers should think to answer this by force, they would be misled. Force has absolute limits in this world. Or if they think to answer it by letting nature take its course, I fear they will find that a planless world is at great disadvantage with one which has a clear concept.

The only possible answer is a western plan more attractive to the peoples.

GREEN CALLS ON AFL UNIONS TO BAR WALKOUTS

spires me to make that sweeping prediction. I have examined that record carefully and I have compared it with the record of other organizations not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"And on that basis of fact, I hereby declare unequivocally that the compliance with the no-strike pledge of the members of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers has been as close to 100 per cent as is humanly possible. You have refrained from strikes and work stoppages, locally as well as nationally, almost entirely.

"Nor is your record exceptional only in a negative sense. On the positive side, you may well be proud of the fact that the highest awards for speed and efficiency in shipbuilding have been scored in yards where our organization is the exclusive bargaining agency for the workers. The Kaiser shipyards, where the boilermakers have closed-shop contracts along with other American Federation of Labor unions, are a typical example of the high type of service the members of your organization are giving America.

9000 Planes a Month.

"Thus far, I have emphasized shipbuilding because it is in that industry that the members of your organization are primarily engaged. I would like to give you now a few figures on other vital items of war production made by American workers. Since Pearl Harbor, we have made 134,000 warplanes. That total, tremendous as it is, appears to be out of date. For we are now producing planes at the rate of 9000 a month, including a large proportion of heavy bombers. That is more than double the combined production of our Axis enemies. In 1944, producing at the rate of 100,000 planes a year, America will be able to bomb our enemies with such devastating effect that their unconditional surrender seems inevitable.

"Since Pearl Harbor we have produced 148,000 tanks, 1,200,000 heavy trucks, 424,000 pieces of artillery and more than a billion rounds of artillery ammunition. These vast military stores are now available to support the attack when our troops invade enemy territory. The armed forces of the Axis cannot match that military power, nor can they withstand it very long.

National Service Act.

"In view of these production achievements, which when taken together spell victory in the battle of production, the question arises why the military authorities of the nation should now call for the enactment of a National Service Act. In considering this question, we must ask ourselves what good such a law could accomplish and what harm it might effect.

"In the calm and deliberate judgment of the American Federation of Labor, labor conscription as contemplated in the proposed National Service Act would not add a single bullet to the nation's war production totals.

"On the contrary, we firmly believe that the substitution of involuntary servitude for voluntary co-operation might so confuse the producetion program and so upset labor morale as to retard productioon and set back the entire war effort.

"It must be remembered that only last November the representative heads of American industry, agriculture and labor joined in a unanimous statement opposing labor conscription and insisting upon voluntary co-operation as the real solution of manpower problems. From long experience in the practical operation of the American way of life, they came to the inescapable conclusion that increased regimentation does not bring about increased efficiency. On the contrary, one of the major factors that will eventually help us win this war is the incontestable superiority of free American labor over slave Nazi labor. To deprive American workers of their freedom through a national service law would only deprive our country of one of its main sources of strength.

Not a Bar to Strikes.

"It is argued by the proponents of this dangerous legislation that it would help prevent strikes. That view is not upheld by the facts. Great Britain has had a national service law since Dunkerque. That law has not prevented strikes in Britain. In fact, the number of strikes in that country during the last year has been greater than ever before and higher proportionately than in America.

"Because it will not increase war production, because it will not solve man power problems, because it will not prevent strikes and because it may seriously embarrass the nation's war effort, the American Federation of Labor will resist with all its power the attempt being made to enact a National Service Act.

"We call upon all of our members to prove by their example that such a law is as unnecessary as it is unwise. The national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have made a 100 per cent perfect record in fulfilling our no-strike pledge to the Government. We now call upon our local unions to match that perfect record.

'No Excuse for Any Strike.'

"At this moment, vast military movements are in progress and even greater drives are in preparation. Millions of American boys will be called upon to risk their lives in action against the enemy. Our soldiers, sailors and marines will fight courageously, unyieldingly and incessantly. The workers of America must work in the same spirit. When the lives of our sons and brothers and loved ones are at stake, when victory in this war against hated tyranny hangs in the balance, there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work. No matter how unjust conditions may become, no matter how sharp the aggravation may be, the members of the American Federation of Labor should realize that they must stay on the job and keep producing to the limit of their ability until final victory is won.

"Full compliance with this policy will call for the exercise of strict self-control and self-discipline. But labor has made even greater sacrifices in this war. The War Production Board reveals that in 1943 alone 18,400 workers were killed in industrial accidents on the job and many more thousands were seriously injured—a toll of casualties even greater than those suffered by our armed forces in action against the enemy. Yes, labor, too, has its honored dead in this war and it has its heroes also among the living—the great heroic army of soldiers of production who are going to keep on working for victory with unconquerabel fortitude until the final defeat of our enemies."

MAJ. ROBERT R. BAKER

MARINE MAJOR CITED FOR DOWNING PLANES

Army Air Force Officer Commended for Part in Paratroop Mission.

For downing two of 23 enemy aircraft destroyed by his Marine fighter squadron when it intercepted a Japanese force of 27 bombers and 25 fighters over Henderson Field on Guadalcanal in October, 1942, Maj. Robert R. Baker, commanding officer of the Marine detachment at the Naval Air Station at Lambert-St. Louis Field has received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Navy disclosed today.

"We were outnumbered three to one when the 16 Grumman Wildcats in our squadron went aloft," Maj. Baker related in telling of the engagement for which he was cited, "but we lost only one plane and the pilot of it parachuted to safety."

Maj. Baker lives with his wife at 6806 Myron avenue, Pine Lawn. He has been stationed at Lambert Field for two months.

Lt. Robert E. Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Callahan, 1031 Goodfellow boulevard, was among those commended by Gen. MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Kenney, for excellence in the performance of his duty while participating in the recent Fifth Army Air Force paratroop mission preceeding the fall of the Japanese stronghold at Lae, New Guinea. Lt. Callahan, 23 years old, had previously received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal in recognition of 50 flight missions over enemy territory.

TWO IN COUNTY RECOVERING FROM ENDEMIC TYPHUS FEVER

Dr. W. Barry Wood, 14 Pine Valley drive, Clayton, professor of internal medicine at Washington University School of Medicine, and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, 9625 Ladue road, Ladue, are convalescing from attacks of endemic typhus fever. The infection is rare in this part of the country, only three other cases having been reported here in the past 10 years.

Both, who became ill about two weeks ago, contracted the mild murine form of typhus, which is transmitted by fleas to which rats are host.

Dogs, given to rat-catching, often become inflicted with the carrier fleas, it was explained. The virulent and classic form of typhus is transmitted, most commonly, by lice.

ART MUSEUM BUYS SPANISH COLONIAL SILVER FOR $3165

The purchase of 16 pieces of Spanish Colonial silver for $3165 by the City Art Museum in Forest Park was announced today. Included were a pair of candlesticks, a crozier and a variety of bowls, platters and spoons. Most of the pieces are based on Spanish baroque work modified by the native Indian craftsmen who introduced plants and animals in their forms.

The candlesticks, each with a large heart attached to the stem, are ornamented in relief by a hammering process. They were made in what is now Bolivia about 1650. The crozier conforms more closely to the classical pattern and has boldly wrought acanthus leaves ornamenting its crook. Most of the other pieces are of sturdier design intended for household use.

WAR POSTERS ON EXHIBITION

A selection of 100 war posters by American artists was placed on view today at City Art Museum in Forest Park. Chosen from more than 2200 entries in a national competition, the posters depict the artists' reaction to the vital issues of the war.

The eight themes of the exhibition, approached through the mediums of symbolism, satire and stark realism, are: Production, War Bonds, Nature of the Enemy, Loose Talk, Slave World or Free World, the People Are on the March, Deliver Us from Evil, and Sacrifice. Among the artists are two St. Louisans, Roland Rodegast and Otto Keisker.

WOMEN VOTERS URGE SUBSIDY

In letters addressed to Senators Bennett C. Clark and Harry S. Truman, the director of the League of Women Voters of St. Louis strongly urged a continuation of the limited subsidy program as an aid to economic stabilization and control of inflation, it was announced today.

Listing the steps necessary to protect the country against dangerous inflation as adequate taxes and wage and price control, the letter declared that subsidies were absolutely necessary to the latter program and demanded their adoption.

BEER AND HOT DOGS TO BE SERVED AT SYMPHONY CONCERT

Tables Planned in Convention Hall Area for Orchestra Pension Fund Program.

Beer, pretzels and hot dogs will compete with music of Beethoven and Strauss for attention at the annual pension fund concert of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, to be held March 3 in Convention Hall at Kiel Auditorium.

In announcing the special concert, the symphony management said only the gayest music would be played under the direction of Conductor Vladimir Golschmann and a guest conductor yet to be named. Compositions by George Gershwin and Johann Strauss will share the musical spotlight with contemporary waltzes and foxtrots.

For the occasion, the arena of Convention Hall will be filled with tables seating eight, with each seat priced at $1.20. Seats in the loges and mezzanine will range from 90 cents to 60 cents, while the entire upper balcony will be priced at 30 cents. Refreshments will be served only at the tables.

Proceeds from admissions and sale of refreshments will help provide retirement benefits for the orchestra's personnel.

P.A.GARDNER ASSETS $231,737

Assets of Prince A. Gardner, owner of the Gardner Pocketbook Manufacturing Co., 2025 South Vandeventer avenue, who was held incompetent to manage his affairs, were valued at $231,737 in an inventory filed yesterday in Probate Court at Clayton.

Gardner, 49 years old, has been a patient at intervals since 1934 at Veterans' Hospital, Danville, Ill. His wife, Mrs. Leah L. Gardner, who has been managing the concern, was appointed guardian. She resides at 25 Cornell avenue, University City.

BRITISH AND FRENCH SIGN TWO NEW PACTS

One Gives Liberation Group Financial Help, Other for Mutual Military Aid.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Two new agreements—financial and mutual aid—were signed today by the British Government and the French Committee of National Liberation, Sir John Anderson, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons.

"In my opinion this is a happy augury for our future financial and economic relationship with France," Anderson said, although he emphasized that "this is an agreement for wartime purposes" and does not cover postwar financial arrangements with France.

Anderson asid the financial pact followed the lines of the 1939 French-British agreement.

"The negotiation has been smooth and harmonious," Anderson declared, "and has been conducted in a spirit of mutual understanding throughout." He added:

"We shall, of course, hope to build further on these wartime foundations, but it is rather too soon to particularize."

The rate of exchange was fixed at 200 francs to the pound sterling.

The mutual-aid agreement provides that each party should furnish the other free of cost "with all military assistance which it is best able to supply for the joint prosecution of the war."

Anderson said the French committee also "confirmed its readiness to assume responsibility for advances made by His Majesty's Government to the former French National Committee under terms of an agreement between the Prime Minister (Churchill) and Gen. (Charles) de Gaulle, July 8, 1940."

STOCK PRICES PICK UP, TRADE VOLUME LAGS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—Motor stocks, spurred by the unexpected boost in the General Motors dividend, led the market on a modest recovery move today without touching off any strong general demand.

While most groups participated to a greater or lesser degree in the advance after a mixed start, bullish enthusiasm was chilled a bit by the sluggishness of dealings on the comeback. A special offering of 30,000 shares of Paramount Pictures at 23⅞, which was completed in fairly good time, helped put the five-hour total at 608,390 shares, one of the smallest for the year to date.

Today's volume compared with 572,576 shares yesterday.

Of the 811 issues traded in today, 368 were higher, 215 lower and 228 unchanged. Twelve made new 1943-44 highs and none new 1943-44 lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed at 50.0, a gain of .3 of a point.

Some Technical Buying.

Rails and specialties did relatively well throughout and gains near the close ranged from fractions to better than a point.

Some bidding was attributed to the belief the recent sell-off, which tilted the averages back to their lows of early January, was a technically favorable signal. Worries over the battle for Rome, the cloudy Russian diplomatic picture and the desire to await the President's action on the completed tax bill served as restraints.

General Motors was lively on blocks of 1000 to 1500 shares. Chicago Great Western preferred hit a new 1943-44 top. In front were Chrysler, Santa Fe, Chicago & Eastern Illinois "A," Du Pont, International Harvester, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Steel.

Trend on the Curb.

In the Curb support was accorded N. J. Zinc, American Cyanamid "B," Cities Service, Cuban Atlantic Sugar and St. Regis Paper.

Lifting of the General Motors payment from 50 to 75 cents, announced late Monday, was a pleasing surprise to Wall Street. Chief beneficiary of the increase is Du Pont which hold 10,000,000 shares of the automotive company. President Sloan of G. M. explained the hoisted disbursement was due to strong finances resulting from conservative policies and not to a change for the better in the earnings outlook.

GRAIN MARKET IS DULL AND LACKS FEATURE

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (AP).—Wheat prices turned fairly steady today as a result of a midmorning rally which, however, failed to pick up enough strength to effect full recovery in the rye pit. Oats remained weak throughout the session due to the indefinite time for scheduled downward revision of ceiling prices.

The decline to new low prices for wheat early in the session, however, failed to stimulate any real demand, since mills apparently have been getting good quantities of loan wheat that has been redeemed. Failure of the rally in rye to gain enough strength was due to a general lack of trading enthusiasm.

Wheat finished unchanged to ¼c lower than the previous close, May $1.70⅛@1.70, July $1.67⅝; oats were off ⅛ to ¼c, May 79½c; rye was ¼c off to ⅛c higher, May $1.29⅞@1.30, and barley was unchanged to ½c off, May $1.21⅞.

The rally in bread cereals came more as a result of cessation of offerings rather than because of any general demand for the grains. The inclination in both markets seems to be to wait for something new to develop and in wheat, particularly for some news on Government flour purchases in its new weekly buying plan.

There was little news directly affecting the market on either side, although the trade paid some attention to reports of light rains and forecasts for rain over much of the Southwest winter wheat belt.

Belief was expressed by many traders that flour trade would have to improve considerably before interest on the buying side of the wheat market would pick up. Reports from the Food Distribution Administration showed that no flour was bought during the week ending Jan. 29, although 3,700,000 bushels of wheat were made available by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Kresge to Retire Some Preferred Shares.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—Kresge Department Stores, Inc., announced that it has appropriated $525,000 for the retirement of shares of its 4 per cent first preferred stock of $100 par value. In a notice to the New York Curb Exchange, the company said it will receive tenders of the stock from holders until 2 p. m. March 1.

25,000 CASES OF EGGS HERE IN 2 DAYS; SMALL PRICE DIP

FRESH receipts of eggs today were expected to exceed yesterday's 12,000 cases, making the two days' arrival approximately 25,000 cases, the St. Louis Daily Market Reporter stated. The market today stood up pretty well under the pressure of the heavy supplies and no further declines were recorded. Yesterday current receipts dropped ½c a dozen to 31½c. Breaking and drying establishments furnished substantially the only outlet.

"WANT MORE HELP, FELLOWS?"

THE SCENE is a busy freight terminal on the Illinois Central. There are only so many freight handlers available, and only so many hours in the day. But wartime freight must be kept moving. So a call is sent to the men in the office, for extra help on the loading platform. It means overtime work at hard physical labor. But the freight is moved.

That's in keeping with the spirit of the "home folks" who make up the Illinois Central family. They are in railroad work because they like it. Whatever needs doing gets done.

Such an attitude benefits all who use this railroad. It meets many an emergency in war transportation, with passenger and freight traffic at an all-time peak. And all of us on the Illinois Central are proud of our war record.

Until the war has been won, our main concern is victory. After that, all we have learned in the war years will be turned to account in improving Illinois Central service. We want to keep on earning your good will!

IRREGULAR TRENDS MARK NEW YORK BOND TRADE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP).—The bond market held in a narrow range today with changes small and the trend mixed at the start of the final hour.

Among the few firm spots were Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis 4s and St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern 4s. Late losers included most of the New Haven bonds and some of the St. Paul's and Rock Island's.

Announcement in Washington of an investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the corporate ownership of Alleghany Corporation, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate railroads brought out some offerings of bonds of the various corporations.

Southern Pacific loans continued active and higher, in wake of the company's preliminary report for 1943 showing common-stock earnings of $17.80. Others showing resistance included Western Union 5s, National Distillers 3¼s and Illinois Bell Telephone 2¾s. United States Governments were quiet but steady. Canadian loans firmed in an otherwise lifeless foreign department.

Issues of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville were among the best gainers of the day, the 5s of '47 rising 5¾ at 60, the 6s of '47 adding 4½ at 63 and the 4s of '47 gaining 3 at 55. Other advancers included Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, up 1½, and New York Central 4½s, up 1⅛.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8 (AP).—Electric and gas utility companies offered 42 securities issues during 1943—the smallest number in recent years according to a study released by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The total included 23 bond, two debenture, nine note and seven preferred stock issues aggregating $430,450,020 principal amount, compared to $375,979,353 aggregate for 57 securities issued in 1942 and $840,734,549 for 108 issues in 1941.

Average coupon rate for bond issues during the past year was 3.44 per cent compared with a 3.51 per cent average for 27 issues in 1942, and 3.4 on the 61 issues of 1941.

Debenture issues totaled 11 million dollars during 1943, note issues $55,531,000 and preferred stock issues $16,813,800.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8 (AP).—Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. of Tulsa has registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18 million dollars principal amount of first mortgage bonds due 1961, and 180,000 shares of series A $50 par value cumulative preferred stock.

Concurrent with the issuance, Oklahoma will borrow not more than $6,500,000 from banks and apply the total proceeds to the retirement of: $16,500,000 principal amount of series B, 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds due 1955; $3,678,000 of series C 3 per cent first mortgage bonds due 1956; 58,000 shares of $5.50 convertible prior preferred stock at $110; 91,055 shares of $50 par value preferred stock and $3,500,000 unpaid balance of a bank note maturing serially to 1946.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 20 TO 35C A BALE HIGHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP). — New high prices since last October were chalked up in cotton futures today. Strength centered in nearby deliveries with the March contract penetrating the 20½ cent level.

Reports that an upward revision might be imminent in ceiling prices for sheetings and continued covering in the spot month were dominating influences. Hedge selling on a scale up and realizing by recent buyers furnished the contracts.

Late afternoon values were 25 to 45 cents a bale higher, March 20.51, May 20.17, July 19.73.

After scoring an extreme gain of 40 cents a bale, cotton backed down a few points from best levels. A tapering-off in urgent trade and mill buying coincided with a pickup in hedge offerings and liquidation.

Noon values were 20@25 cents a bale higher, March 20.47, May 20.13, July 19.71.

REDS SAY VATICAN BACKED NAZIS IN REICH, COULDN'T OPPOSE RUSSIA WITHOUT AID

MOSCOW, Feb. 8 (AP).

SOVIET RUSSIAN agitation against the Vatican continued today with the publication in all newspapers of a New York story by Tass containing comments on a pamphlet by a German refugee, Leopold Mannaberg, titled "Vatican Policy in Europe."

The Tass, official Soviet news agency, dispatch said the pamphlet "emphasizes the leading role the Vatican played in the Fascists' and Nazis' rise to power and the Vatican's continuous support of the world's reactionary forces."

It declared it was typical that "the Vatican supported Nazism in Germany because it could not wage a struggle against Russia without the aid of Germany."

FASCIST PAPERS RAIL AT VATICAN AS PRO-ALLIED police prefect in Rome, the Vatican broadcast said.

The announcement did not say why the Fascists forced their way into the basilica. Reports reaching London from neutral countries, however, have said that the Fascists were looking for Italian officers and Jews reported hiding in the vicinity.

The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said that among those found hiding in a "college" in Rome was an air-force general named Monti, who reportedly was arrested along with four officers, nine Jews, two policemen and 48 young Italians trying to evade German labor conscription.

Regional WLB Denies Union Plea.

A request by the AFL Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union to reinstate five laborers discharged last October by the M. W. Kellogg Construction Co., Wood River, Ill., after the beating of a foreman, was denied by the Regional War Labor Board in Kansas City, Mo. today. At a hearing, the men denied striking the foreman, but admitted there had been an altercation. Labor members of the board dissented from the majority decision.

Here and There on The Hollywood Lots

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD

JENNIFER JONES' next picture for Twentieth Ceutnry-Fox will be "Laura". . . . According to the V letters received by friends, Jean Gabin is now in Corsica. . . . Billy Wilder and Charles Brackett will do a picture for Alan Ladd before they do "The Count of Luxembourg" with Bob Hope. . . . George Jessel and Ann Jeffries are a thing. . . . Fred Saidy and Sig Herzig will write the book of "Bloomer Girl," the Yip Harburg-Harold Arlen musical for Broadway. Preston Sturges is arranging an independent producer setup for himself. . . . Ingrid Bergman's material for her Alaskan tour were dramatic scenes from "For Whom the Bell Tolls," which she enacted with Neil Hamilton, and some gags which she told in Swedish, and then translated. . . . Selena Royle will be in Greer Garson's "Mrs. Parkington." . . .

JEAN GABIN

TURHAN BEY and Suzanna Foster have been going places together. . . . Irving Rapper, who is battling with the Warners, is in San Francisco attending performances of "The Corn Is Green," because he insists that he is going to direct it. . . . Marjorie Weaver returns to the screen in Universal's "Pardon My Rhythm." . . . Raoul Walsh, who directs those adventure and war stories, was ribbing Busby Berkeley, who directs musicals. "You've got a cinch," said Walsh, "directing beautiful girls." Berkeley replied, "That isn't so. Did you ever hear of a tank stopping during a scene to powder its nose?"

ANNE BAXTER HAS started on a bond tour, and when she returns she expects to work in "Guest in the House." . . . Vera Vague has been signed by RKO for a comedy role in Frank Sinatra's next picture, "Room Service." She will chase him throughout the picture. . . . Jack Topping is now a frequent visitor to the Bar of Music where he waits for Ann Triola. . . . While the Paul Henreid-Ida Lupino picture, "In Our Time," was in production and was far behind schedule, Producer Jerry Wald sent a note to Director Vincent Sherman saying. "Could you please see that this picture finishes 'in our time.'" . . . Martha Outlaw of "Cover Girl," and Hank Daniels are a thing.

ANN SHERIDAN WAS telling a magazine interviewer that when she a youngster she always preferred the company of boys to girls. Suddenly Annie stopped, and in a tone of amazement, said, "Come to think of it, I still do." . . . Lamarr Trotti, who is a producer, offers this definition: "A producer is a fellow who asks you a question, tells you the answers, then shows you where you're wrong." "Prince" Mike Romanoff, when asked if a customer needed references to have a charge account, replied, "It would be presumptuous of me to ask anyone for a reference."

BONITA GRANVILLE and Al Mannherimer are a thing. . . . D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" was presented at the American Contemporary Gallery, and it is still a great film. Among those in the audience were Griffith, Dudley Nichols, Jean Renoir, Charles Laughton, Lillian Gish, Mae Marsh and Jules Dassin, who made a speech in praise of Griffith. . . . The guest of honor of the evening was Sailor Powell Clayton, who traveled from Salton Sea and got leave to see this picture because he is a great D. W. Griffith admirer. It was a grand evening for Griffith, who has contributed much to the picture industry and shouldn't be ignored by it. . . . Tom Jenk tells about the fellow, who, when applying for citizenship papers, was asked, "What flies over every Federal building in the United States?" replied, "Pigeons."

KATHARINE HEPBURN is trying to cheer the soldiers by playing daily tennis matches with them at the Beverly Hills Hotel. . . . Oona O'Neill Chaplin is typing the script of "Blue Beard" for Charlie Chaplin. . . . Despite the lines at the various movie theaters, patrons are allowed to enter immediately if they purchase a war bond. . . . Warner Baxter is now the chairman of a Ration Board. . . . Cary Grant and Alan Carney are going to put together an act to play the Army camps. . . . Olivia de Havilland and John Houseman continue to do the town together. . . . Basil Rathbone has a special pipe for every day in the week. He showed up for work on Monday morning and found he had brought along his Tuesday pipe. He didn't smoke that day because he didn't want to smoke this pipe and spoil his whole routine.

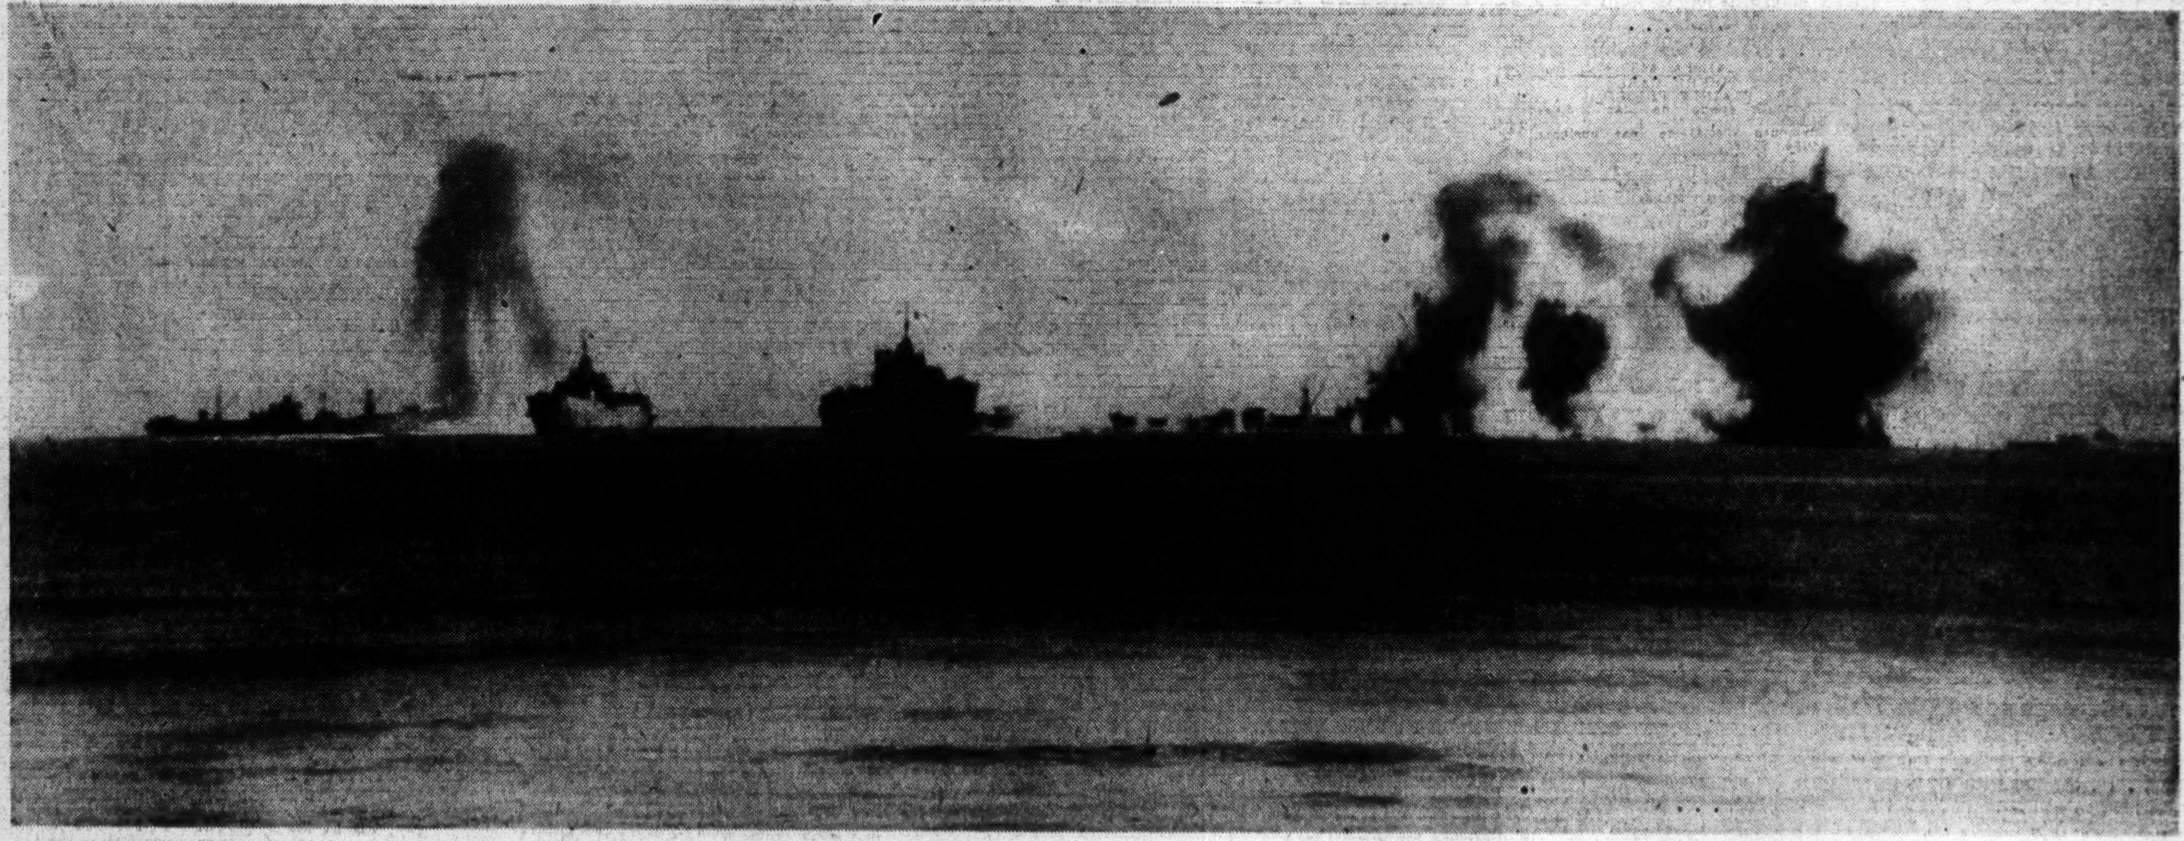
BELITA TELLS ABOUT the agent who approached a producer and tried to interest him in a writer. The agent said, "This writer has just sold four originals, and has a hit play now on Broadway." "Then I don't want him," replied the producer. The agent, juzzled, asked, "Why not?" The producer replied, "He's all written out." But don't get me wrong. I love Hollywood.

ALLIED SHIPS UNDER AIR ATTACK OFF ANZIO



Bombs from German planes strike all around supply and landing ships lying off the Italian shore near the beachhead harbor of Anzio. None of the vessels was hit in this attack, but several bombers were shot down.

ST. LOUISAN AT JUNGLE FRONT

Sgt. Ted Link, Post-Dispatch reporter on leave of absence as combat correspondent with the Marine Corps, left, hears the story of three marines on Bougainville Island at the scene where they killed seven Japanese soldiers attempting to flank their machine-gun position. Three of the enemy dead lie on the ground, and the others are behind the log at right.

SAID HE COULD, DID, WON $80

When an Army medical company on Bougainville decided it needed a foxhole 8 feet wide, 10 feet long and 4 feet deep for wounded, Pfc. Roy L. Webb, Ohio farm boy, said he could dig it alone in four hours. He did it with four minutes to spare and collected his bets.

HIGHEST DECORATION FOR HEROES

In ceremonies at the White House today, President Roosevelt presented the Congressional Medal of Honor to a soldier and a marine. At left, the wife of Second Lieut. Gerry H. Kisters of Bloomington, Ind., pins the ribboned medal on her husband, who became the first soldier in this war to receive the nation's two highest awards, the other being the Distinguished Service Cross, for heroism in Tunisia and Sicily. His parents and Gen. George C. Marshall look on. In the photograph at right, the President congratulates Marine Lt. Kenneth A. Walsh of Washington, fighter pilot hero of the Vella Lavella campaign in the South Pacific. Witnesses to the ceremony are, from left, Adm. Ernest J. King, Lt. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph Bard and Lt. Walsh's wife.

Tales of the Town

A CHICAGO book critic was also chairman of the city's library system, which recommended good tomes. . . . The author clicked without his help. . . . He had the feeling, however, that this critic never even read his stuff. . . . One day, after the critic went so far as to say he didn't recommend a new book (by the author) to the library board, the author wrote him: "I wonder if you would consider changing your opinion. In the next printing, my publishers will eliminate the illicit love angle you objected to." . . . The critic replied: "That will be fine. I am sure the board will like it that way." . . . The author promptly wrote back: "Thanks. That's what I wanted to find out. There isn't now and never was any illicit love affair in my book. I merely wanted to make sure that you never read it."

FOR MANY YEARS Rachel Field worked in Paramount's New York office as a script reader, examining the merit of all submitted material. . . . She once remarked: "Hmf, I can do better than some of this stuff. Some day I'm going to write one and see it made into a Paramount film." . . . Years after, she finished her first best seller: "All This and Heaven, Too." . . . The royalties and prestige were tremendous, but Rachel's ambition was not yet fulfilled. The book was filmed by Warner's. . . . Last year she wrote "And Now Tomorrow"—and died shortly after—before the agent sold it. . . . To Paramount.

THEY TELL YOU it actually happened. I dunno. . . . He was managing editor for a New York syndicate. Now with OWI. . . . Several years ago a comic strip was submitted to him. . . . He liked it. Recommended it for syndication. . . . The boss to whom he delivered it took it home. . . . Next day he memo'd it wouldn't do. The kids he showed it to didn't care for it, he said. . . . The young cartoonists were disappointed, of course. . . . They finally got their strip started in a cheap comic weekly—for practically nothing per week. . . . Every year they brought it back to the m. e., who liked it, but he couldn't get it on his chain. . . . The boss still didn't like it. . . . Another syndicate made an offer, but the boys gave the m. e. another chance. . . . They were turned down. . . . It now grosses $5000 per week via royalties from newspapers, radio and gadget makers. . . . The first syndicate boss, who spurned it so many times, demanded to know what happened. . . . The strip is the renowned "Superman."

SHE WAS THE RETICENT TYPE. . . . A beauty in her time. . . . Loved her studies and the cultural things. . . . As she grew older she developed her knowledge of the classics and arts. . . . When her girl pals gushed over some matinee idol she "tsk-tsk'd" and never saved photos of stage or screened favorites. . . . Spent a lot of time adding to her collection of operatic and symphonic records. . . . After her first year of marriage a son was born. . . . While other women named their boys after Rudy Vallee or Valentino, she started planning for the day her son would become an engineer. . . . Her name? . . . Natalie Sinatra.

YOU HEAR ALL KINDS of explanations on how the famed gate crasher "One-Eyed Connolly" got that name. . . . This is new to us. . . . The current character, they say, is not the original. . . . The original, a hard-boiled vagabond, died about 30 years ago. . . . That One-Eyed fellow (unable to crash the gate at a big fight in Chicago) climbed to the roof and threw a brick through the skylight. . . . It landed in the ring near the referee, also a pretty tough guy, who picked it up and called out: "One-Eyed Connolly's card. Let the gentleman in!"

Famous Fables

By E. E. Edgar

EUGENE FIELD was just as well-known for his chronic state of being broke as he was for his poetry and his "Sharps and Flats" column.

At a party that Field attended, there was present a celebrity hunter. Upon hearing of Field's financial difficulties, the celebrity fan felt that here was a wonderful opportunity to make the writer's acquaintance. Cornering the poet he said:

"Please don't be offended. I understand you are short of money. It would make me very happy if you would accept a loan of $10 from me."

"How dare you—a complete stranger!" cried Field indignantly. "Why—why, I don't even know your name."

"Forgive me," muttered the man embarrassed by Field's outburst. "I was only trying to help. Please forget the whole thing."

The poet looked thoughtful for a few minutes and then said:

"I'll forget it on one condition."

"On what condition?"

"On the condition that you make it $15."

TRUE TO HIS ART: James McNeil Whistler was one of the finest artists of his day, and many famous people in all walks of life beat a path to his studio to pose for him. Once after completing a portrait of an English celebrity, Whistler asked the man whether he liked the painting.

"No, I can't say I do, Mr. Whistler, and you must really admit it's a bad work of art."

"Yes," replied the artist, looking at him coolly through his monocle, "but then you must admit that you are a bad work of nature."

LADIES PLEASE NOTE: During short-story writer O. Henry's youth, women wore plenty of petticoats. Somehow nothing annoyed Bill as much as a white petticoat peeping from under a girl's dress. Heartlessly he poked fun at those females who were offenders.

"Oh, don't make such a fuss," they complained. "What difference does it make, anyhow?"

"A lot of difference. Some day I'll show you."

It was a hot summer night the next time a neighborhood party was held. All the girls came in pastel organdies; the boys in white flannels. Bill made a grand entrance dressed in a navy blue suit. But that wasn't all that made him conspicuous. Hanging below his dark trousers were long white winter drawers!

The girls took the hint. After that they were more careful about their petticoats.

SELF-MADE: A drunken politician once said to Horace Greeley: "Mr. Greeley, I'll have you know I'm a self-made man."

"Then, sir," replied the philosophical Horace, "that fact relieves the Almighty of a great responsibility."

Doctor on Treating a Rare Case

By

Logan Clendening, M.D.

"BY laboratory tests I have been found to be suffering from hyperinsulinism. Since it is a rare disease I have been unable to find a physician who knows much about it or how to treat it. Can you give me any information?" writes a lady from Hammond, Ind.

Hyperinsulinism is not difficult to understand once you start from fundamentals. It is a disturbance of the utilization of sugars in the body. We depend on the burning of sugars for most of our energy and muscular movements. Sugars are absorbed from the digestive tract and enter the blood, which has a quite constant percentage of sugar. When a muscle contracts the sugar in the blood in the muscle unites with oxygen, just as gasoline in your motor car unites with oxygen to give energy. What sparks the sugar and oxygen in the muscle is insulin. Just as the spark in the cylinder head explodes the gasoline vapor and oxygen in your automobile.

INSULIN IS secreted by certain cells in the pancreas. These cells are distributed through the pancreas in little nests or islands, called the islets of Langerhans. They do not pour their secretion into the intestine as do the rest of the cells of the pancreas, but are part of the endocrine system of glands, which pour their secretions directly into the blood stream.

In diabetes many of these islets are atrophied and disappear so the amount of insulin in the blood stream is lowered and sugar accumulates in the blood and is excreted in the urine.

Hyperinsulinism is just the opposite of diabetes in that the islet cells secrete too much insulin and the sugar in the blood is reduced.

THE SYMPTOMS are the same as an overdose of insulin, an experience which diabetics frequently have. There is extreme hunger, weakness, trembling of the muscles and sweating.

These symptoms can be controlled in the same way a diabetic controls an overdose of insulin by eating sugar or candy for emergency or a full meal, all of which bring the blood sugar up, and when the blood sugar is normal the muscles stop trembling and the sense of hunger and other symptoms cease.

Different cases of hyperinsulinism vary in severity. Most of them are mild, but they may be so severe that convulsions occur.

THIS, OF COURSE, would be very serious if the symptoms continued, but in nearly all cases of hyperinsulinism, the symptoms come on in spells. The patient may have an attack every day for a week and be free of attacks for a month or more.

The cause is not known in all cases. In some of the cases there is a tumor or overgrowth of the islet cells in the pancreas and surgical removal gives relief. In 1940 the literature reported 10 cases treated in this way surgically with partial removal of the pancreas with results of five cures, and two cases improved.

For mild cases during attacks frequent small meals, as often as every two hours, keep the symptoms under control. The high sugar diet seems to stimulate the islet cells and leads to more severe symptoms and it has been found that a high fat, low carbohydrate diet works better.

Questions and Answers.

R. R.: What causes blood to come from the rectum?

Answer: Piles in 95 per cent of cases. Benign polyp tumors 4 per cent and cancer 1 per cent.

J. D. R.: What is a cervical rib?

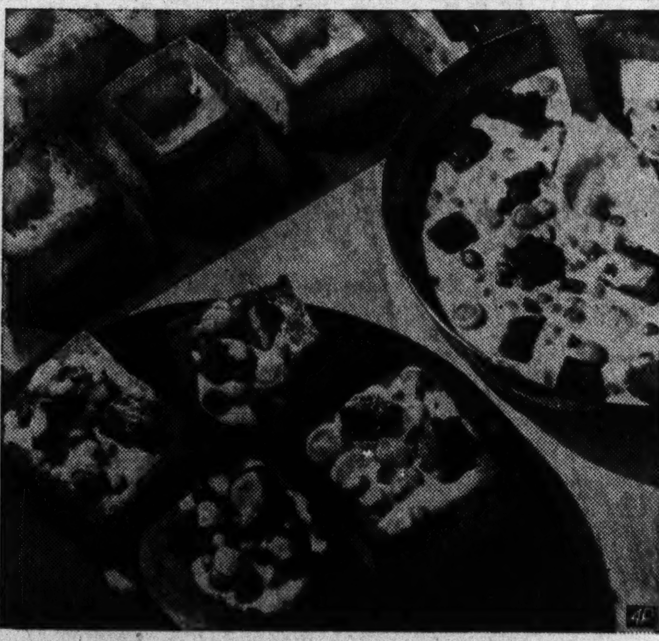
Answer: An extra rib in the neck above the first regular rib. It occurs in about one out of every 20,000 people and usually makes no trouble.

T. Y.: What causes the jaw to pop when the mouth opens?

Answer: The jaw is the loosest joint in the body. It pops easily. Many people get in the habit of cracking it to amuse or annoy friends. A bad habit, as sometimes they dislocate the jaw.

Leftover Tricks

By Mrs. Alexander George



"BREAD BOXES"—HOLLOW OUT SQUARES OF BREAD, TOAST AND FILL WITH CREAMED LEFTOVER MEAT AND VEGETABLES.

YOU can give your family enticing meals with less cost in money and ration points if you:

1. Plan different ways of making the best use of every scrap of food in your home larder.
2. Make full use of fuel by baking foods for several meals at once.
3. Carefully check point rationing values trimmed to meet your household needs and family food preferences. Shop with eye to future. Boneless meat cuts have little waste, so veal steaks, pork butt and lean lamb are good buys. Pork and veal shoulders can be boned (save bones for meat stock) and stuffed for a substantial main dish.

Money and shopping time can be saved by a careful daily inspection of the refrigerator for foods that can be used in palatable combinations as soups, main dishes, salads and desserts. Remember to use vegetables before they wilt or become stale. If a vegetable shows signs of wilting, trim off the wilted parts and reserve for soup stock. Cook up the vegetable, cool and store in covered jar for a meal in near future. Reheat the cooked food in a double boiler, covered dish in oven or in a steamer.

If you have a good-sized chicken for dinner (I find the larger chickens better investments), save out a couple of cooked pieces and have them at another dinner combined with savory sauce and cooked vegetables (fresh or leftover) for a sturdy main dish. Or the chicken can be put into gravy, thickened meat stock or soup and heaped up over a platter of steaming boiled rice, noodles or macaroni.

One of my best leftover tricks is this: Mix together one cup cooked ham, one cup chopped cooked pork or veal, one-half cup each boiled rice and soft bread cubes, three tablespoons each chopped onions, celery and green peppers (optional), one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon each paprika and poultry seasoning or sweet basil, and half a cup of milk. Bake 35 minutes in greased loaf pan in moderate oven. Serve this loaf hot or cold, plain or with any preferred sauce.

Buy a little extra meat at one time so that it will do for two or three meals. This saves shopping time and energy as well as cooking fuel and probably some ration points.

Whenever the oven is being used for an hour or more, bake foods that will keep for several days. Bake enough apples to serve warm as dessert for one meal, stuff extras with cheese, raisins and nuts and serve as a salad the next day.

Slip in a pan of prune bread for forthcoming lunches, and a pan of a gingerbread mix or cottage pudding for future desserts. It takes only 15 minutes or so to bake a pan of cookies fashioned from icebox dough, to replenish your lunch box, dessert and "snack" supply.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Monday, Feb. 7.

SATURDAY night we went to see Katharine Cornell and Raymond Massey in a play called "Lovers and Friends" by Dodie Smith.

The reviews have been none too good on this play and so I wonder whether the fact that I liked it so much was because the people seemed to me real people and behaved somewhat the way they would have behaved when I was a young woman!

I confess I thought the husband lacked a little subtlety in announcing his love affair, but the rest of the play was full of subtle meaning to me. While perhaps one should not expect evenings of entertainment to teach one any lessons, there is one in this play which men and women would do well to learn.

It is obviously true that the first flush of being "in love" always changes into something deeper and calmer, or more superficial. I have known only a few very happy marriages. By that I do not mean just people who get along together and live contentedly through life, but people who are really excitingly happy. These people are those who have somehow preserved the ability to recapture the romance of the early days and rejuvenate their love so that neither the man nor the woman need wander off to find the romance they long for somewhere else.

The play shows that it is not the people who happen to attract each other temporarily who really matter. It is the lure of romance—finding someone new to tell about yourself, someone who will give you a feeling that what you say is important and that they have never heard it before, someone who will give you the feeling that you are more important and alluring than a previous engagement, or a book, or people, or perhaps even a career. This may be a lesson worth learning or perhaps you think I'm wrong. In any case, Katharine Cornell and Raymond Massey give you a pleasant evening and some very fine acting.

Incidentally, I noticed one thing in going around with the Army and Navy last Saturday. This war is giving an opportunity for men who might never have met during the course of their whole existence to know each other and to know each other very well. Jimmy O'Hara from Massachusetts and Johnny Jones from South Carolina will know a great deal more about how and why certain things happen in their respective states. General Jarman, who has a great interest in human beings, can almost invariably pick out the state from which a man comes and his occupation by looking at him. He made only one mistake in a whole morning!

Vegetables

Four peeled carrots, four peeled potatoes, four peeled onions (large ones), one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika.

Sprinkle vegetables with salt and paprika. Arrange around the pork. Baste every 10 minutes or so to help brown. Carefully remove meat to a hot platter. Surround with browned vegetables and make gravy.

Flashes of Life

Ears Burning?

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O.—Too much talking set the telephone exchange on fire, Supt. Fred Rost said. Rost reported excessive use of the line overloaded eight switches which serviced 243 farm subscribers and caused the switches to burn out.

She's No Quack.

ANNVILLE, Pa.—Called to the door of her farm home by a persistent quacking, Mrs. Donald Parr found a duck with a trap on its foot.

After the trap was removed, Mrs. Parr took the duck indoors and bound up its injured leg. Now she says the duck is always waiting on the doorstep when she goes out.

No Watchdog, Anyway.

PHILADELPHIA—John Madigoi nearly lost a pet when his doghouse burned down. As it is, he has a mystery.

A patrolman rescued the dog, chained to the house. But the police were unable to find anyone who had been near the place during the preceding several hours, and none knew how a dog could start a fire.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl age 20, and for the past year have been writing to a boy in the Service, who is a friend of the family. Until a short time ago I thought myself in love with this boy, but never let on to him in my letters. The ones he wrote to me were always cheerful and friendly, no love or mush in them. Recently I met a boy from another city whose parents are friends of mine. He is a nice boy and we fell in love almost at once and are now engaged, and both our families are very happy about it. So then I wrote the first boy and told him of my engagement, and his reply shocked and surprised me. He said that I couldn't do that to him, that he loves me more than life itself, begged me to write at once and tell him it wasn't true. Now I'm worried sick and don't know what to do. I like this first boy as I would a brother and I hate to see him hurt. What shall I do? J. O.

The first boy probably has recovered from the shock of your engagement to another fellow, and should realize that if he loved you so much he should have spoken sooner. You might write a kindly letter to him. Tell him you are sorry that he cares so much for you when you are unable to return his feeling. Tell him you are quite sure that he will find some nice girl before too long who will love him as he deserves to be loved, that you think he is one of the nicest boys you have ever known and hope you will always be friends. Then don't write him again.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL in my early teens, and like a boy who is a few years older, but I don't think he's too old for me as the younger fellows all act like goofs. The girls I know are always telling him how much I like him and it makes me mad for I don't think a girl should let a fellow know how much she cares. I go mostly with older girls, don't care for those my own age as they act jealous and are unpleasant at times. I am tall for my age. Maybe that's why I feel better with older girls, and the fact they take me in makes the younger ones jealous, I suppose. Shall I just forget this boy, and what can I do about the girls telling him things? PUZZLED.

Seems to me the best thing for you to do would be to stop being so confiding. If the other girls are kept guessing as to which boy is your current heart throb, the heart throb himself will also be kept wondering, and will therefore be that much more apt to pay you some attention. As to going with older girls, this is the tendency of most girls who grow tall quickly. It will be hard for you to know just where you belong as to age group for the next year or two, then everything will settle down nicely in that respect, so try not to mind minor ructions now.

Dear Martha Carr:

I WAS INTERESTED in reading a letter in your column lately signed by a 4-F. This boy has entirely the wrong opinion of how us fellows in the Service feel toward them. We do not hold it against them that they aren't in the Service, that they are 4-Fs, and I want to put him straight on that. We think the boys who are home working in war plants are doing a swell job in helping win this war, and they should be given all due praise for it. The boy is right, however, about girls dating boys in the Service in preference. Most of them go for the guy in uniform, any guy, rather than for a civilian, when really one boy may be just as fine a fellow as the other. I used to feel a lot like the writer of that letter before I got into uniform myself, but I know I was wrong, and do want this boy to know that we guys do not look down on the 4-Fs as he thinks we do.

PVT. R. V. M., Lowry Field, Denver.

Social Problems

THE answer is NO to this question: "Because of the fact that Esq. is not used generally, does this mean that it is less proper to use the form when it is permissible?"

As a matter of fact, it is very polite to use it at the proper times. This last, however, brings up a curious contradiction in the usage of esquire, which is this: While absolutely correct when addressing a personal letter to a gentleman at his house or club (Mr. is used in business in the U. S. A.) it is not used when addressing engraved cards such as invitations to weddings, to balls, etc.

DEAR MRS. POST: My one sister is going to be a bride and my younger sister is to be her only attendant. We're having a bit of a fuss and disagreement about their clothes. The bridal sister is not wearing bridal white nor a veil, but a long dress and a Dutch type hat. My younger sister wants to wear the same style of dress, same material and same hat, in another color. I think the two sisters will look too much alike and wish you'd come to the rescue.

Answer: It is not unusual to choose the same design of dress in different colors. But I do agree that unless the white is very much accentuated in the bride's dress and hat, the effect is likely to be that of a maid of honor and bridesmaid and no bride.

DEAR MRS. POST: When a man is a first lieutenant, is the First included in his personal cards, or on wedding invitations?

Answer: If you use Lieutenant it means Lieutenant senior grade in the Navy or First Lieutenant in the Army. Otherwise you use Lieut. (jg) or Second Lieut.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

FIRM fleshed fine textured rutabagas cook rather quickly because they are tender. Where the texture is not firm but fibrous, but longer time will be required. Simmering seems to cook the rutabaga just as quickly as boiling, and I think the resulting flavor is superior. By cooking with a little apple, seasoning with lemon juice and utilizing the thickened juice to make an attractive glaze, this dish is different and delicious.

Rutabaga and Apple.

One small rutabaga (one pound), one cup hot water, one teaspoon salt, one large tart apple, two tablespoons sugar, two teaspoons lemon juice, two teaspoons cornstarch.

Peel rutabaga and cut in one-fourth inch slices. Simmer in salted water, covered, for five minutes. Arrange unpeeled apple slices on top of rutabaga; add sugar and lemon juice. Cover and simmer for 10 more minutes, or until vegetable and fruit slices are tender but not mushy. Thicken the sauce with the cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water. Four servings.

MENUS FOR WEDNESDAY.

Breakfast.

Orange juice, six oranges; cooked wheat cereal with top milk, four generous servings; schnecken, four bought.

Luncheon.

Pea soup, one package dehydrated, prepared according to directions; radish sandwiches, two bunches radishes, sliced, salted, eight slices buttered whole wheat bread; stewed raisins, one-half pound raisins, water barely to cover, no sugar; arrowroot cookies, one package.

Dinner.

Kidneys in peppy mustard sauce, two pounds veal kidneys, cored, sliced, sauted, two and one-half cups white sauce with mustard, parsley added; mashed potatoes, two pounds potatoes, milk, seasoning; rutabaga with apple, see recipe above; lettuce with cooked dressing, one head lettuce (use egg yolks left from pudding, for dressing); bread, eight slices whole wheat; lime fluff, mix five tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca with two and one-half cups water, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt and bring to boil. Remove from heat, add two and one-half tablespoons fresh lime juice, one-eighth teaspoon grated rind. Beat two egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture thoroughly. Chill. Butter or fortified margarine used on all breads. Include in today's menus, milk to drink, seven cups for children, three cups for adults. Beverages for adults as desired.

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW

Sun in Aquarius.

General Tendencies: During the day, many details connected with business matters seem to rise, although none of these need immediate attention. It might be better to delay final decisions for this week if this be possible. This is not a time when the best results can be obtained from new undertakings, the mind seeming distracted in some way.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

The trend throughout the next year seems toward a cutting off of old contacts with a resultant new attitude toward life or with new conditions of living. Be careful of health after the summer has passed; carelessness can bring about as much distress as an actual misfortune. The best months are due in the early spring.

Tomorrow's Watchword.

Spend a little time tomorrow in thinking of what you say to other people. The Tibetan philosophers have a paragraph which they call the four principles of speech, and it need not be limited to Tibet, either. "If speech be too long, it is tedious; if too short, its meaning is vague; if rough, it annoys others; if soft, it lacks emphasis.

It's Two O'clock in the Morning

And Zero Hour at the Bus Station as Scott Field Boys Await Last Bus.

By Clarissa Start

A REGULAR EVENING PERFORMANCE IS THE FRANTIC SEARCH FOR THE LOST PASS.

THE saddest of all sad sacks are the soldiers asleep in the bus station in the small hours of the morning. The waiting room of a traffic terminal is hardly an inspiring scene at any hour of the day or night, but at 2 a. m., especially a Monday a. m., it is at its weary worst.

The clock striking two has a special significance at the Greyhound Bus Station at 701 North Broadway, because that is the hour when the last bus leaves for Scott Field. Wise GIs have already bid a fond farewell to St. Louis and surrounding territory and temptations and headed back to make the five o'clock deadline, but there are always enough last minute stragglers to prove that hope springs eternal. As the last red and yellow bus pulls away it marks a sort of unofficial finale to night activities at the station. From then on there is nothing to wait for but the cold gray dawn.

From 11 to midnight marks the peak of nocturnal business at the bus station. At that time the waiting room has a rather gay, carefree air with bright conversation, the merry prattle of little children, and the juicy sound of oranges being eaten. Every snug cubbyhole seat on the long benches is filled, sometimes to overflowing, and so are the trash baskets and ash stands.

"We try to keep the floors clean," station manager J. A. Breidenthal said. "We have them swept six times a day and get so much trash each time that it looks like an accumulation of two weeks."

THE lunch counter is almost always busy and so is the magazine stand which takes up half of one side of the station and offers reading material from the Christian Science Monitor to comic books as well as fancy pillow tops, candy, and bag tags. A third group of standees gather around the blackboard just over the exit gates reading schedules and such notices as "Fort Leonard Wood special bus 4 to 9 p. m. Last bus leaves at 9."

Two baby faced soldiers lean against the peanut vending machine, looking disconsolate as if the week end has not been an unqualified success. On a bench across the aisle, a soldier and his girl are plighting their troth. She is plighting it rather aggressively and vigorously and he looks slightly embarrassed but too sleepy to resist. Two small boys, one in a snowsuit and aviator's helmet, the other in a junior size navy overcoat, canter happily and indefatigably around the room. This sport eventually ends up in a parental chase with tears and recriminations all around.

One soldier who has succumbed to exhaustion or alcoholism is slumbering but not too peacefully and ever so often his head jerks as if he were dreaming of being asleep in a jeep. Besides the sad sacks there are glad Wacs, girls in slacks, and a considerable sprinkling of all kinds of fancy dress—a young man in wide brimmed cowboy hat and boots, a Negro girl who came prepared for any occasion, in slacks and a femininely veiled hat. Seats are constantly changing occupants, never vacant in spite of the constant stream of travelers that moves toward the gates as the booming voice on the loudspeaker plots a coast to coast itinerary.

Several enlisted men from a tank destroyer battalion elbow too closely to a sailor in line, and the sailor looks as if he had ambitions to be a tank destroyer destroyer. For the most part, Army and Navy relations are on a high plane, however, which is just as well since it is the duty of the Shore Patrol to check on both with M. P.s making the rounds only periodically.

Members of the Shore Patrol all look like ex-policemen, which is perhaps because they are all ex-policemen. They work on a round robin plan, working the trains out of Chicago, then St. Louis a few weeks, then going to Cincinnati to work, and returning to Chicago.

"We're supposed to check on all Naval and Marine passes," one member of the S. P. told us, "and most of the soldiers, especially those who look like they might be out of line. Yes, the Army resents us once in a while," he smiled, twirling his club thoughtfully.

"Some of those guys think you're pickin' on 'em when you're really doing 'em a favor," an M. P. added. "We go around and wake up all of 'em that are asleep. Course sometimes we wake 'em when they've still got plenty of time and they get a little mad."

A regular evening performance is the search for the lost pass or furlough papers. "I'm sure I got it here somewhere," the unhappy victim says, going through his overcoat pockets, his duffle bag, and every other possible hiding place. Finally he comes up triumphantly with a crumpled piece of paper. "Boy, he sure sweated that out," says another soldier sympathetically.

"We have a few of them turn up without any money," Dorothy Bartholomew, on duty at the Travelers' Aid desk said. "Lately I've been lucky, though. I haven't had to buy a ticket to Scott Field for anyone for two weeks."

RUNAWAY girls are another bus station problem as they usually come there to sleep. Just recently Mrs. Bartholomew tracked down two girls who'd run away from their home in Michigan and were staying in the women's room of the station. Runaways come in cycles, she observed, just before exam week.

Another regular among bus station guardians is policeman Jack Sanders, one of three police who are on regular duty at the station, to take care of all problems from "I put a penny in the peanut machine and never got no peanuts," to the 74-year-old woman who's been trying to establish squatter's rights in the waiting room and has to be ousted periodically. Sanders has a kindlier view toward soldiers, having six sons in service himself.

As at any junction where humanity flows, or even crawls by, there is a fair share of drama and pathos at the bus station, as in the case of one sailor who sat next to us and told us his troubles. Not only had he looked on the vine, or to be more specific, meditated on the malt too long, but this indulgence had led to a quarrel with his girl friend, the girl he'd come miles to see.

"She told me to go to hell," he said belligerently, "so I did. I went all the way to a place called Festus."

"She didn't think I'd go," he said, "but I just got up and left. Left my jacket, too, and it's sure cold."

Was he going back, we inquired.

"Not unless she crawls back begging me to. I know lots of girls in St. Louis. I can have a good time."

This, we decided, was a chance for a Girl Scout deed so we gave him a little speech on how life is short and pride is cold comfort and he shouldn't let romance go aground because of one reef or shoal or some such seagoing term.

We would like to feel that all ended well and that the young couple had smooth sailing over a calm sea, but we have an unhappy suspicion that the sailor went out and drowned his sorrows in foam. Got three sheets to the wind, in fact.

Example of A Difficult Safety Play

By Ely Culbertson

PERHAPS the most difficult of all plays for the average player to understand and apply are the so-called safety plays. The following deal contains a notable example of this important family.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

1 diamond	1 spade	2 diamonds	2 spades
3 clubs	3 hearts	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

West led the king and ace of spades. Declarer ruffed, entered dummy with a heart, and then led a low diamond to the jack. The finesse held all right, but since East had not been foolish enough to put in the nine or 10 of diamonds on this play, declarer now faced the certain loss of two trump tricks, and his contract.

South loudly bewailed the horrible luck that had put all four missing diamonds in one hand, and in truth this was a bad break, but the pertinent fact remains that South had not "taken out insurance," as he could have, against this possible thrust of fate. One thing was sure: if either defender happened to be void of diamonds, it was bound to be West, who had bid two other suits. Declarer could well afford to lose one diamond trick; that being so, he should have led, not the low diamond, but the queen from dummy. Consider: If East covered the queen, South would win and (a) if West followed suit, the break could be no worse than the 3-1. Now the jack would draw another trump, and at the worst declarer would lose one trick in the suit. (b) If West did not follow suit, declarer could re-enter dummy easily and lead a second trump toward the J-8-7, thus forcing East to play the 10 or nine. Finally, if the diamond queen was not covered at all, it would, of course, be allowed to ride, and if West had the king, that would be the last trick for his side.

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN—By Lee Falk and Phil Davis

I'VE MADE UP MY MIND TO RELEASE LOUIE AND SHADOW HIM--SO WE CAN FIND THE GANG LEADER.
LOUIE'S PRISON-WISE. WHY NOT LET HIM THINK HE'S ESCAPING, CHIEF?
THAT NIGHT--MANDRAKE'S PLAN IS USED...
GEE--THE DOPEY GUARD FORGOT TO LOCK MY CELL!
THERE HE GOES.
THE BOYS ARE FOLLOWING HIM! LET'S HOPE HE LEADS US RIGHT TO THE BRAINS OF THIS MOB!

YOU SEE THIS AD? NO MONEY NEEDED—
I THOUGHT WE'D SEE HIM ABOUT IT BEFORE WE PUT HIS AD IN THE PAPER—
IT SOUNDS TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE—BUT—DON'T TELL ME THERE'S AN ANSWER TO MY AD ALREADY?
WE WANT TO KNOW ABOUT THIS WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY OURSELVES, MR. BLUE—I MEAN FEE-LY!
HONEY CHILE THINKS IT WON'T COST ANYTHING—
YOU MAKE MONEY IN COPPER MINES THESE DAYS—YOU DON'T SPEND IT—
THAT'S WHY I'M EXPANDING MY HOLDINGS—I JUST NEED COLLATERAL—I DON'T WANT YOUR MONEY!
YOU SEE, SUGAH?

CHIEF WAHOO—By Saunders and Woggon

GO ON--STEVE! BEFORE THE BOCHE SOLDIERS --FIND YOU HERE--!
AND LEAVE YOU HOLDING THE SACK? NOT A CHANCE, YVETTE!
2-8-44
DO NOT BE THE BEEG FOOL! YOU HAVE YET WORK TO DO! EEF THEY CATCH YOU, THEY KEEL YOU!--ME THEY CANNOT HURT----ANYMORE!
HIDE EEN THE TOWN UNTIL THE DARK---THEN--TRY TO REACH THE SEASHORE--GO! BON VOYAGE,--STEVE!--- GOODBYE--SOLDIER! AND--THE SAME TO YOU!--BON VOYAGE--!

KERRY DRAKE—By Alfred Andriola

INVESTIGATING A DEATH THREAT FOUND ON THE BODY OF ACTOR JACK McCUE, KERRY DRAKE AND HIS PRETTY ASSISTANT, SANDY BURNS HAVE REACHED A STARTLING CONCLUSION!
BUT, KERRY! IF THIS IS VICTOR APOLLO'S HAND-WRITING, HE AND "NO FACE" ARE THE SAME! YET APOLLO WAS KILLED—A YEAR AGO!
APOLLO'S BODY WAS NEVER FOUND, SANDY! HE'S NOT ONLY ALIVE—HE'S A HOMICIDAL MADMAN!
YOU'RE NOT GOING OUT TO LOOK FOR HIM—AT THIS HOUR?
NO—I'M GOING TO HIS WIFE—TIFFANY BLAYNE! AND I HOPE I'M NOT TOO LATE!
BUT, WHEN KERRY REACHES TIFFANY'S HOTEL...
MR. DRAKE! COME IN THE BEDROOM! QUICK! SOMETHING TERRIBLE HAS HAPPENED TO MISS BLAYNE!

SUPERMAN—By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

A FINE MESS! ORDINARILY I'D BE TICKLED PINK BEING INVITED TO DINNER BY LOIS-BUT WITH THAT BRAT, SUSIE, AROUND TRYING TO PROVE I'M SUPERMAN, HOW CAN A CHAP ENJOY HIMSELF!
AS HE APPROACHES LOIS' APART-MENT, HIS SUPER SENSITIVE HEARING PICKS UP A FAMILIAR VOICE FROM WITHIN...
AUNTIE LOIS FIXED THINGS FINE! SHE PHONED SHE'S COMING HOME LATE FOR DINNER, 'CAUSE SHE'S GOING TO THAT OL' ROTTEN TENEMENT BUILDING FOR A STORY...
THAT GIVES ME A BRIGHT IDEA! AFTER ALL, WHAT BETTER WAY IS THERE OF TRICKING UNCLE CLARK INTO SHOWING HE'S SUPERMAN--
THAN BY TELLING HIM THAT AUNTIE LOIS IS IN TERRIBLE DANGER!

PRIVATE BREGER — By Dave Breger

DON WINSLOW—By Frank V. Martinek

CHIEF, YOU SAY YOU FOUND THE SCARLET THREAD AND THREE BOXES HERE?
YES, SIR. I SUSPECT SOMEONE CLIMBED OVER THE TRANSOM TO TRY TO OPEN THE DOOR FROM THE INSIDE!
BUT WE SUBSTITUTED A PHONEY KEY SOMETIME AGO...WE WERE AFRAID THIS VERY THING WOULD HAPPEN!
AYE, AYE, SIR!
